

'KID' McCOY GETS THE DECISION.

Wins the Fight With Ruhlín Before the Syracuse Club.

Taking With It Seventy-five Per Cent. of the Gate Receipts.

The Showing of the Loser a Surprise to the Audience—He Stood a Lot of Punishment and Was Always Ready to Come Back for More—Some Blood Spilled, but No Knockout.

SYRACUSE (N. Y.), May 20.—The fight to-night between "Kid" McCoy and Gus Ruhlín, the latter of Cleveland, resulted in a victory for McCoy after twenty rounds. Three thousand spectators were in the Alhambra, where the fight was held. There was little betting on the result, and the showing made by Ruhlín was a surprise. He stood a lot of punishment, and was always ready to come back for more. He was apparently strong at the finish. McCoy says that he will now meet Goddard and then Chynski. There was a great difference in the weight of the men, McCoy, according to his statement, weighing 157 pounds, and Ruhlín, according to Billy Madden, his manager, tipping the scales at 180 pounds. Sixty per cent. of the gate receipts are to be divided between the men, McCoy taking 75 per cent. and Ruhlín 25 per cent. in place of a $2,500 purse. George Siler of Chicago acted as referee. When he rendered his decision Jim Corbett leaped into the ring and asked McCoy to fight him, but the latter declined to consider the matter, and refused to make any arrangements.

As a curtain raiser, Kid Broad and Jack Hamilton fought twelve rounds at catch weights. Broad got the decision. McCoy entered the ring at 10:30. Behind him were Con Kelly, Frank Burns, Homer Selby, Doc Payne and Frank Zimpher. He looked in the pink of condition, but showed a marked sallowness. His hands were in bandages. When Ruhlín entered the ring McCoy shook him by the hand. Ruhlín's seconds were Billy Madden, Tommy Ryan, Charlie Goff and Tom Cawley.

The announcer read challenges from Goddard, who offers to stop McCoy in twelve rounds; Peter Maher and "Stockings" Conroy. Ruhlín loomed up in every way bigger than his opponent. The gong sounded at 10:45.

Round 1.—There was much fiddling, and the "Kid" swung right to head. They clinched, and Ruhlín lifted his man from the floor. Ruhlín felated a left, but failed to land, and they clinched. Ruhlín got a left in on the body and head, after McCoy chased him around the ring. Gus sent a left lightly to the body and McCoy then put a left to Ruhlín's eye. The "Kid" jabbed his left to the body, and then to the jaw. Ruhlín rushed and the gong sounded, and McCoy put right to body in a clinch.

Round 2.—They fiddled, and Ruhlín missed a left, but got the flat of McCoy's glove in the face. Gus rushed again and put his right to the face. The "Kid" landed a hard left on the jaw, and then missed up in McCoy's favor. Gus put his left to the jaw twice, sending the "Kid" back. The "Kid" put his right and left to the face. McCoy put his right to the face. McCoy missed a left swing, and Ruhlín chased him around the ring, sending a left and right to the neck and putting a right to the face as the gong sounded.

Round 3.—Gus put his right to the face and rushed his man. The "Kid" got back with a right swing on the jaw. McCoy poked his left to the wind, and then to the jaw. Ruhlín jabbed his left to the face, and then they clinched. Gus' mouth was bleeding. The "Kid" swung his right on the body, and then his left on the eye, which was bleeding badly. Ruhlín was covered with blood. McCoy sent a right to the face, and the "Kid" jabbed his right to the eye and body. The "Kid" jabbed his right to the wind, and then swung his left to the head. Ruhlín rushed, but the "Kid" clinched, without sustaining any damage. McCoy put his right and left on the jaw, then a hard left to the face. Ruhlín's eye was bleeding again.

Round 7.—Gus rushed, sending his left to the body, and there was a mix in the corner. McCoy planted a right on the head. The "Kid" hooked his right to the jaw, and got a left on the wind. The "Kid" poked his left to the body, and when Ruhlín rushed sent it to the face. They clinched and Ruhlín used his left on the ribs. The "Kid" put his left to the ribs, and then jabbed his right to the head.

Round 8.—The "Kid" rushed; they clinched, and Gus used his right on the ribs. Siler cautioned McCoy for using his elbows in clinches. The "Kid" poked his left to the wind and right to the face. Gus put a left light jab to the face. The "Kid" hooked his right to the face. McCoy swung his right to the face, and left on the ear. Ruhlín jabbed his left to the face in a rush. He was badly handicapped by his eye, which made it difficult for him to see.

Round 9.—Ruhlín's eye was badly cut, and his seconds endeavored to stop its bleeding. The men fiddled for nearly half a minute, when McCoy rushed, but was blocked. Gus chased the "Kid" around the ring, but failed to land. McCoy poked his left to the wind. Ruhlín rushed and sent a straight left to the face. McCoy swung his right to the face, and left on the ear. Ruhlín jabbed his left to the face in a rush. He was badly handicapped by his eye, which made it difficult for him to see.

Round 18.—Ruhlín jabbed lightly with his right to the face. The "Kid" swung his left to the jaw, and then clinched. Ruhlín put his right to the face. Gus jabbed his left to the face, and the "Kid" fell back. Ruhlín put his left to the face again, and McCoy swung his left on the ear. The "Kid" swung his left to the ear once more in an attempt to reach the jaw, and failed. The "Kid" rushed and was blocked. Ruhlín uppercut with a light uppercut to the face in this round, and appeared to be very strong. Round 19.—McCoy poked a light left to the face. Gus put a hard left to the face, and brought forth cheers when he repeated it. McCoy fell short on a right jab, and Ruhlín came back with his left. The "Kid" rushed and tried to reach the jaw with a left swing, but failed. Gus sent his right hard to the body. Round 20.—They fiddled, and McCoy attempted to step out of the way of a right jab, and nearly slipped to the floor. Gus poked a terrific left to the face, and got inside of McCoy's right swing. The "Kid" rushed, and they clinched. The "Kid" poked his left to the face, and the "Kid" swung over his shoulder.

Delorme's celebrated painting (companion to "The Blacksmith") "Interieur De Ferme," will be exhibited here for the last time to-night. The sunlight effect in this painting is wonderfully realistic, so natural, indeed, that many people cannot help believing that it is thrown on the canvas by an artificial light. Don't miss this last opportunity to see such a superb work of art. In the annex to our stores.

WAR REVENUE BILL. Senate Committee Finds It Necessary to Make Amendments.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The Senate Committee on Finance finds it necessary to make additional amendments to the war revenue bill before proceeding farther with the measure, and an adjournment of the Senate was taken at the close of today's session until Monday, in order to allow the committee to devote the entire day to-morrow to this work. A session of the committee was held to-day, but there was not sufficient time to reach a conclusion. There is no division on party lines on most of the changes required, as they are largely of a technical character. The most important change which has been urged, and which now seems likely to be made, is that altering the tobacco schedules. It looks as if the House rate of 12 cents a pound would be restored on manufactured tobacco, and as if there would be a change in the schedule as it affects cigarettes. There are some technical errors to be corrected in schedule B regarding proprietary medicines. The question raised here is as to the time the stamp should be affixed, and there is much difference of opinion on this point. There is also a desire to have mutual life insurance companies exempted from some of the requirements of the provision in regard to insurance organizations, and a movement to reduce the House provisions relating to building and loan associations. It is probable other matters will be considered at to-morrow's meeting.

Evangelina Cisneros.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Evangelina Cisneros is soon to wed Carlos Carbonel, the former Cuban banker, who was yesterday nominated by President McKinley to be a Lieutenant and aide on the staff of Major-General Fitzhugh Lee. When Carl Decker went to Havana with the express purpose of liberating Miss Cisneros he found a trusted lieutenant in Mr. Carbonel, although, like Mr. Decker, he was at the time unacquainted with the fair young Cuban. On the night of the rescue from the Havana prison Mr. Carbonel was at Decker's side. To Carbonel was intrusted the duty and privilege of accompanying the girl to New York. Companionship between the two natives of a common clime soon ripened into love, and the usual details of courtship followed with the result that the wedding will shortly take place, probably before Lieutenant Carbonel shall be ordered into the field, although no definite time has been decided on by Miss Cisneros, her guardian, Mrs. Logan, or the groom to be.
