

GOOD WORK BY A DETECTIVE

THE CAREER OF A BOLD THIEF SHOWN UP.

Deputy Sheriff M. P. Fisher Recovers Goods Stolen by Burglar Frank Davis.

On the night of April 24th two blacksmith shops near Florin, in this county, were entered by burglars and from each place an article was taken. They were the shops of Peter Stubbs and John Davies. A peculiar footprint pointed toward the wagon road, and there the tracks of a light vehicle were visible.

Deputy Sheriff Warren of Brighton followed this wagon track, leading toward Stockton, and some distance west of Elk Grove he came across an outfit drawn by a gray horse, and near it he found the anvils stolen from John Davies and Peter Stubbs. Presently a medium-sized, middle-aged man hove in sight, and Warren noticed that the peculiar footprints at the blacksmith shops were identical with those made by this man.

The fellow was placed under arrest, and finally he admitted to several persons having stolen both anvils, saying that he had just arrived from San Bernardino County, and was on his way to the Klondike. He gave the name of Frank Davis.

He was held to answer by Justice Foster of Brighton, and being arraigned in the Superior Court on a charge of burglary, on Saturday last, he entered a plea of "not guilty" and announced that he had engaged R. M. Clarkson to defend him.

For several months prior to Davis' arrest Sheriff Johnson received many complaints from residents of this county, particularly from the southeastern portion, that numerous ranch blacksmith shops had been robbed and many barns despoiled of harnesses, etc.

With Davis' arrest no further trouble was reported, and District Attorney Ryan and Sheriff Johnson came to the conclusion that Davis was the man who had committed the many burglaries reported. That their judgment was correct is now proven, for County Detective Max P. Fisher, who has been assiduously at work on the matter, has now obtained absolute proof that Davis not only committed many burglaries in this county, but also in San Joaquin, Stanislaus, Merced and Kern, and that goods stolen in this county by him were disposed of in Stockton, and goods obtained in counties south of here were sent to San Francisco, generally on the steamer Mary Garrett, on which boat Davis had a friend among the crew.

Every effort of Sheriff Johnson or Detective Fisher to learn from Davis anything regarding his past life, or about the many "jobs" in which he had been implicated, proved utterly fruitless. He insisted that Frank Davis was his right name, and that his home was in San Bernardino County. When asked if he was a doctor, he said he was a doctor, but he had only been there a few hours, just long enough to rest his horse.

Sheriff Johnson, however, was convinced that Davis was lying, and plainly told him so. The prisoner defied the sheriff to produce proof, but now he is as meek as a lamb, for County Detective Fisher has at last unraveled the mystery surrounding the burglar's identity. The detective has found that Davis has five different aliases: Henry Thomas, Frank Scott, Fred Hale and Max Davis, and that his right name is W. H. Sassen.

Sassen went to Stockton, he having signed the latter name in many different junk stores, about two years ago and bought a lot at Homestead, a suburb of that city, and built a cozy little house upon it, using his own work. He then procured a horse and wagon and has been making trips into the country, ostensibly buying junk. He kept aloof from his neighbors, the only one he associated with being Walter Reed alias "The Black Angel." Reed is the negro who burglarized many stores and hen-houses in this city and county. Reed, who lived close by Sassen, was finally driven from San Joaquin County.

About nine months ago, as Davis was driving toward Stockton on the Copperopolis road, just at dusk, two ladies who were driving behind him called to him to stop, halting him for another man. For some reason, then unexplained, Davis whipped up his horse and drove ahead at a rapid pace. The ladies followed close behind. When suddenly Davis pulled out a revolver and shot in their direction, and then escaped in the darkness. He was arrested a week later by Constable Heron and charged with assault with a deadly weapon. The ladies, disliking court notoriety, declined to prosecute him, and Davis pleaded guilty to simple assault, and was fined $50 by Justice Van Detten.

To many people his strange act was then a mystery, but now it is clear to all that Davis had committed a theft, was taking the plunder home, and, hearing the voices behind him calling upon him to stop, he believed that either officers or the owner of the goods were after him, and he fired the shots to kill or intimidate them. Ever after that his neighbors stood in awe of him and gave him a wide berth.

Detective Fisher, in searching the premises of Sassen in Stockton, found many articles stolen from this county, including a bicycle with wooden ram-horn handle-bars. The wheel has been mutilated beyond recognition.

In the different junk stores in Stockton Fisher found several sets of harness stolen from W. E. Bowles, near Perkins, on April 18th, also a set of harness stolen from William Bryan, near Walsh's Station, on April 10th. A lot of blacksmith tools belonging to John Sculp, who lives near the Slough House, have also been found, and are now at the Sheriff's office.

Several anvils and a large lot of blacksmith tools stolen from Farmer Elummer, on the Cosumnes River, were sold by Sassen to a San Joaquin County rancher, and Sheriff Johnson is making every effort to get them back. In every instance Sassen (or Davis) took these goods to the dealers very early in the morning.

A lot more goods of all descriptions were found to have been sold by Sassen, but most of these were stolen in Stanislaus County. A fine set of blacksmith's dies and high-grade tools, stole by him from Knight's Ferry, have also been located, and Sheriff Johnson estimated that Davis committed no less than eight burglaries in the lower end of Sacramento County between the 1st and 21st of April last.

It is now believed that an additional charge of burglary will be placed against Davis, as the officers believe him to be a confirmed criminal, who would resume his criminal operations as soon as released from prison.

Detective Max Fisher returned from Stockton last night, and District Attorney Ryan and Sheriff Johnson feel highly elated over his success in obtaining evidence against the prisoner.

HE AIMED WELL.

Charles Goods an Expert in Throwing Bricks.

Charles Goods, a rattle-brained youth who is frequently in trouble because of his viciousness, last evening assaulted Watchman Cunningham of the railroad company's premises on I street with a brick.

Cunningham says Goods has annoyed him greatly by purloining wood, etc., from the premises, and that when he took to drive him away last evening Goods picked up a brick and threw it with such effect that it struck him (Cunningham) on the left cheek, causing a painful wound.

Chief of Police Dwyer instructed the officers to take Goods into custody, saying that he would ask to have him examined for insanity. He thinks the youth is mentally afflicted.

Goods is certainly weak-minded, but his irresponsibility is greatly aggravated by some one providing him with liquor. It is said the person who does this is known, and if it can be proven he should be denied a license.

GRANTED A NON-SUIT.

Sudden Ending of the Hague-Natural Gas Company Case.

The case of Thomas Hague against Jerome Haas, Henry G. Keyes and the Sacramento Natural Gas Company, which had been on trial before Judge Hughes for two days, came to a sudden termination yesterday. When the plaintiff had closed his case the defense moved for a non-suit, which was granted.

Last December Hague sued the Natural Gas Company for the recovery of $500, with interest for two years, and asked that the defendants be enjoined from using a tract of land owned by plaintiff adjoining that on which their gas well exists, for laying pipes, etc.

Hague complained that he had agreed to allow the defendants to use this land in consideration of their purchase of an adjoining tract on which to sink their gas well and the transfer to plaintiff of a certain number of shares of the capital stock of the Natural Gas Company, but that the defendants had not complied with their part of the agreement.

Patriotic Caledonians.

At a meeting of the Caledonian Association last evening it was decided to turn out in a body on the Fourth of July, with a band of music, and to parade through the city in a body, and to march to the "whole Highland brigade with us in line." This should be one of the most attractive features of the display.

GRIZZLIES VS. ELKS.

Sensational Ball-playing at the Old Glory Carnival.

The Native Sons are out for big game, and think they have to win in a game. That is, one would so imagine to hear the members of Sacramento Parlor talk about the manner in which they will win the baseball game for the Red Cross championship at the Old Glory Carnival on July 1st.

The Natives were out last evening for practice, and it was marvellous the manner in which the infield would stop everything that looked like a base hit, and when a ball was hit into the field there was always someone under it.

The Elks are doing a little quiet work and are bringing out new stars for the public, who they claim will surely tree the Natives. Both teams will have official coaches and mascots that will be far ahead of anything ever seen on a diamond before.

A close watch is being kept on individual players, and any phenomenal work that may be done one either side will be duly heralded.

BACK TO GERMANY.

Mrs. Schone Will Send Her Nephew and Niece Home.

Mention was made a few days ago of the fact that two little children had been taken from their aunt, a Mrs. Schone, who keeps a roadside inn at Mormon Island, east of Folsom, and that her sister accused her of treating them in a cruel manner.

Officer Healy of the Children's Protection Society has investigated the case and satisfied himself that the children had not been cruelly treated, but he told Mrs. Schone that they could not be permitted to remain in a public place where they would be forced to listen to bad language.

Mrs. Schone then offered to provide the money to pay the children's fare back to their home in Germany, whence she took them a couple of years ago. This will be done right away.

OLD RESIDENT DECEASED.

Death of Edward Malone at His Home in Highland Park.

Edward Malone, an old resident of Sacramento, died at his home, in Highland Park, yesterday at the advanced age of 87 years. Up to a year or two ago he had never known what it was to be ill, though he had followed the sea in his younger days and visited all parts of the world. About a week ago he contracted a severe cold, which settled on his lungs. At 3 o'clock yesterday he felt well enough to walk about the house, but a few hours later he was seized with a choking spell and died suddenly.

Mr. Malone was in early days a farmer on Putah Creek, Yolo County, and later that he lived in Virginia City. He was a man of the strictest integrity, whose word was as good as any man's bonds, and he passed away with the happy consolation that he had never wronged a fellow-creature and was no man's debtor. He leaves a wife, work that he did in California, Washington, Yolo County, and three nephews—Edward, William and Joseph Malone.

The steamer Red Bluff has been engaged by Sacramento Parlor, Native Sons, for the moonlight excursion up the river on Monday evening next, the 27th. Attached to the steamer will be the fine large Wisconsin, on which a new and smooth deck has been laid, which will be just the thing for dancing.

The committee has arranged for a band of music of twenty pieces. The excursionists will be taken up the river as far as the mouth of the Feather. The steamer and barge will leave the city at 7:30 p. m., and on the return there will be street cars in waiting to receive the excursionists.

A moonlight ride on the river at this season of the year, with pleasant companions, excellent music, dancing, etc., is about as delightful a way of passing an evening as one can imagine.

PROFIT IN SHAMS.

A Commercial Practice That Works Great Wrong to the Public.

Honesty is, in the long run, the best policy, but there are circumstances in which, for a time, deception seems to be profitable. It is profitable to the retail merchant who can make more money on a cheap article of obscure and nasty manufacture than upon wares put out by respectable and responsible houses.

This greedy practice of substitution is not merely an injury to the maker of reputable goods, but it is a grave public wrong.

For instance, Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky is widely famed for its medicinal properties. It is constantly used in households all over the Union and in the practice of physicians. People ask for it, because they know that the word Duffy's insures the quality of the whisky.

It would not be possible to make this admirable stimulant at the prices demanded by the legion of imitations. The public suffers, when under any spurious pretext at all, it accepts a substitute. Who vouches for the quality of the counterfeit? Where reputation is at stake?

It is possible to put down substitution by refusing to buy anything at all from a dealer who is guilty of it.

Insist on having Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky.
