ARIZONA HEROES.

Cowboy Captains Who Wield Both Sword and Pen. James J. McClintock, who was wounded in Friday's attack of the Spaniards before Santiago is Captain of a troop of rough riders raised in and around Phoenix, Ariz.

He is withal an experienced horseman, having put in a number of years at cow-punching in the remote Tonto Basin country in the widest part of Arizona. He is a large, powerful man, weighing about 220 pounds, and is about 37 years of age.

W. O'Neill, captain of another troop of Arizona cowboys raised in and around Prescott, was also referred to in the Associated Press dispatches of yesterday as having jumped into the sea at the landing of the American forces at the risk of his life to save an officer and private who were crushed to death.

O'Neill is the principal owner of the Buckeye Irrigating Canal, and extensively interested in the American near Prescott. In his Arizona career he has been a printer, publisher of a newspaper known as "Hoof and Horn," devoted to the cattle interests; Sheriff of Yavapai County, in which office he achieved wide renown as a captor of desperate criminals in days of regular parties.

It is not generally known that some of Mark Twain's descriptive prose compares favorably with that of the master word-painter of the world.

The following two examples are in point, the first being a paragraph on the death of Laura Hawkins, from "The Gilded Age," and the second from "Roughing It," wherein the author tells of his love for Hawaii:

"When the spring morning dawned, the form still sat there, the elbows resting upon the table and the face upon the hands. All day long the figure sat there, the sunshine enriching its costly raiment, and flashing from its jewels; twilight came, and presently the stars began to appear, and remained; the moon found it there still, and framed the picture with the shadow of the window sash, and flooded it with mellow light; by and by the darkness swallowed it up, and later the gray dawn revealed it again, and still the form was there, undisturbed."

"No alien land in all the world has any deep, strong charm for me but that one; no other land could so longingly and beseechingly haunt me, sleeping and waking, through half a lifetime, as that one has done. Other things leave me, but it abides; other things change, but it remains the same. For me its balmy airs are always blowing, its summer seas flashing in the sun; the pulsing of its surf-beat is in my ear; I can see its garlanded crags, its leaping cascades, its plumy palms drowsing by the shore; its remotest summits floating like islands above the cloud-rack; I can feel the spirit of the woodland solitude; I can hear the splash of its brooks; in my nostrils still lives the breath of flowers that perished twenty years ago."

The sale of Awnings at $2.50

is catching on grandly. It's something entirely new to buy a window awning already to put up, for $2.50. The price is ridiculously cheap. The awnings are thoroughly well made, of strong wrought iron, covered with heavy duck, double faced and fitted with 12 inch scalloped and braided valance. The size of each is 3 feet wide, 4 feet 7 inches high, and they project 2 feet 4 inches from the window. One great beauty of these awnings is that they can be taken down very easy when Summer is over and folded into a small, neat cloth bag for the Winter.

For the Lawn and Garden. Three-quarter inch 3-ply 60 mm m n hoses, 5 cents per foot. Same, better quality, 7 and 10 cents the foot. All these prices include brass couplings. Trowels, 7 cents each. Garden sets (three pieces), 25 cents. Lawn sprinklers, 20, 25 and 30 cents. Galvanized sprinkling pots, 25 to 75 cents.

Grass Catchers. For putting on the Lawn mower when you cut the grass; will fit 12, 14 or 16 inch mowers; easily adjusted; no boots or nuts. The most convenient thing you can imagine—an entirely new invention. Price, 65 cents.

An Excellent Freezer. Probably the very best Ice Cream Freezers made are the "White Mountains." They have a strong waterproof tub, bound with heavy galvanized iron hoops that fully protect the tub and do not fall off. The gearing is completely covered so that nothing can get between the cogs. The cans are full size and made of the very best quality of charcoal tin plate.

Window patriotism for the "Fourth". Have you seen those Cuban and American flags in our show windows? They are made of heavy paper but printed in brilliant colors—the exact colors of the flags. They are in the windows of nearly every home in San Francisco; they should be in the windows of every home in Sacramento before the "Fourth." A new shipment of these flags goes on sale Monday morning.
