WASHINGTON, July 21.—In a report to the State Department, United States Consul Dudley at Vancouver, B. C., says that care should be taken by those who contemplate going to the gold fields in entering into transportation contracts. Certain companies have obtained a considerable sum of money (generally $300 for each person) upon very ingeniously worded contracts that the persons paying should be transported to the gold fields in the North with all necessary outfit furnished and expenses paid. In three cases in which men have paid their money, they have been brought at slight expense to Vancouver and other ports and then abandoned. The men who had contracted with one of these companies became suspicious at Vancouver, but after an explanation by the agent of the company they agreed to go forward. The Consul says he received a letter from one of the party from Fort Wrangel, Alaska, saying that the company induced his party to go to Wrangel, and after pulling the provisions up the Stickeen for fourteen miles sent them into camp, where they have remained ever since. When asked to be put ahead they were put off with promises and now feel that the company does not intend to do anything. The party is now at the camp far from home and without money. It consists of thirty men from the Old Day State. The Consul suggests that persons desiring to enter the gold fields take every possible precaution. He says he has abundant evidence that several companies are now and have been for some months engaged in the nefarious traffic referred to.

COLONEL W. J. BRYAN. Welcomed on His Arrival at Atlanta With His Regiment.

ATLANTA (Ga.), July 21.—Colonel William J. Bryan, at the head of the Third Nebraska Volunteers, reached Atlanta at noon today. Colonel Bryan was met at the train by several personal friends, who started to escort him to the Kimball. By the time the party reached the doors of the hotel, the crowd became so dense that progress was impossible. Colonel Bryan graciously responded to the cheers and calls for a speech and mounting a stone hitching block, said: "I am glad to be with you again. I am certainly pleased that my regiment will have an opportunity of seeing the Confederate Veterans and know that in our present struggle they will have an opportunity to fight with some of those old soldiers and their sons."

NO REVOLUTION. President Alfaro Ecuador Makes that Statement.

NEW YORK, July 21.—A dispatch to the "Herald" from Panama says: President Alfaro of the Republic of Ecuador has issued a decree granting general amnesty to his political enemies, many of whom are in the United States and in Europe. The only exceptions made are the Bishops Schumacher and Massia, for their attempts to incite a revolution. Owing to the persistent reports of risings of a serious nature in Ecuador, a message was sent to President Alfaro asking him for the facts. His answer was as follows: "The news of the revolution in the eastern part of the country is incorrect. Invasion is possible in the south, but I doubt its taking place, for our troops are ready on the frontier. These enemies of the country are making efforts to bring about a revolution in the country to put an end to the railroad enterprise, which will help to establish a permanent peace and to strengthen the Liberal Government. We are very strong."

CONFEDERATE VETERANS. Atlanta Not Big Enough to Accommodate the Crowds.

ATLANTA (Ga.), July 21.—The crowds attending the reunion of Confederate veterans are larger than anticipated, and last night several churches were thrown open for the accommodation of late arrivals. General John B. Gordon called the convention to order in the Auditorium at Piedmont Park at 10:30 to-day. He said: "We are all Confederate men and women, but we are also Americans, and proud of our country. (Cheers.) God has blessed it as He has blessed no other nation. It becomes us, who have been spared by His providence to sing praises to Him, and I want the men whose shouts have been heard on many battlefields to join in a hymn of praise."

Lot III.—MEN'S OVERALLS, 29c.—Not an inferior kind though the price is so low, but "Boss of the Road" overalls, made of the best 9-ounce denim, and worth 75c in the regular way. All go on sale at Saturday's Price, 29c.

TO-MORROW, New Trimmed Hats $1.25.

One of the features of to-morrow's millinery selling, if an unusual combination of daintiness and low price has any weight. We will sell trimmed hats—new hats, trimmed this week and not hitherto offered for sale—at $1.25. Leg-horns, of course—this is Sacramento and summertime. There is nothing more attractive or more reasonable for wear now than the cool, graceful leghorns. Trimmed in flowers, chiffons, laces, etc. Saturday Special, $1.25.

Men's Black Clay Worsted Suits, $10. Yesterday we spoke of our $10.00 suits for men in general; to-day we direct your attention to one of those $10.00 suits in particular—our line of deserving black clay worsted suits at that price. We don't handle these suits exclusively here—others have them, but others charge $12.50 and $15.00 for them—that's the difference.

They are made of black diagonal clay worsted, of fine weave and absolutely fast color, and are stitched all over with silk. The body lining is known as leather cloth—it is a smooth serviceable fabric that can be depended on to give the best of service. The sleeve lining is of excellent quality, and is double felled at armpoles, where the strain is greatest. Every seam of the trousers is stayed. We have the suits for men of ordinary shape in round and square cut sack and frock styles, and we can fit short and fat or tall and slim men as well. One of our most complete lines, because one of the most popular lines we have. Examine the suit, and you will soon realize why the line is so popular. Price, $10.00. Summer Reading. The popular Seaside Library, printed in clear type on good paper. Ideal summer reading, 25c. titles, 10c copy.

BRIG. GEN. H. S. HAWKINS. Will be Advanced to Major General for Services at Santiago.

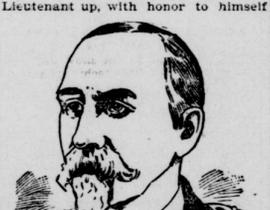

Because of his excellent services in the fighting in front of Santiago, it is said Brigadier General H. S. Hawkins will be advanced to Major General. He is a soldier of judgment and ability, and has held the successive positions from Lieutenant up, with honor to himself and credit to the country. In August of 1894 he was made the Colonel of the Twentieth infantry, U. S. A., and at the beginning of the present year his name was twenty-third on the list of Colonels. In making him a Brigadier General the choice was entirely because of his merits, and it seems the selection was well made, for the present proposed promotion is to be made in recognition of his splendid services. In all his army work he has shown himself thoroughly a soldier of brain and daring.

HORSES IN BATTLE. They Feel the Exultation of War in Common With Their Riders. A veteran cavalry horse partakes of the hopes and fears of battle just the same as his rider. As the column swings into line and waits, the horse grows nervous over the waiting. If the war is spun out he will tremble and sweat and grow apprehensive. If he has been six months in service he knows every bugle call. As the call comes to advance the rider can feel him working at the bit with his tongue to get it between his teeth. As he moves out he will either seek to get on faster than he should or bolt. He cannot bolt, however. The lines will carry him forward, and after a minute he will grip the bit, lay back his ears, and one can feel his sudden resolve to brave the worst and have done with it as soon as possible. When the troopers begin to cheer and the sabers to flash the horse responds. An exultation fills his heart; he will often scream out, and his eyes blaze and are fixed steadily in front. No matter how obstinate he was at the start, he will not fail as the lines cover the last fifty feet of space. If a volley comes and he is unhurt he will lower his head and toss it right and left, and then take a sudden breath for the crash. If charging infantry he will thunder straight at a man and knock him down; if against a line of horsemen he will lift his head and front feet as if going over a fence. A man seldom cries out when hit in the turmoil of battle. It is the same with a horse. Five troopers out of six when struck by a bullet are out of their saddles within a minute. If hit in the breast or shoulder up go their hands and they get a heavy fall; if in the leg or foot or arm they fall forward and roll off. Even with a foot cut by a jagged piece of shell a horse will not drop. It is only when shot through the head or heart that he comes down. He may be fatally wounded, but he hobbles out of the fight to right or left, and stands with drooping head until loss of blood brings him down. The horse that loses his rider and is unwounded himself will continue to run with his set of fours until some movement throws him out. Then he goes galloping here and there, fighting with fear and alarm, but will not leave the field. In his racing about he may get among the dead and wounded, but he will dodge them if possible, and in any case leap over them. When he has come upon three or four other riderless steeds they "fall in" and keep together, as if for mutual protection, and the "rally" on the bugle may bring the whole of them into the ranks in a body.

Where the Soldiers Come From. It was an earnest and enthusiastic company drilling in Cass Park. There were not to exceed a dozen in the ranks, and the average age was about 65 years. Broom handles crossed their shoulders at various angles and elevations, a few had toy pistols, and a little chap with an eight-inch snare drum furnished the music. "Get off that grass!" shouted a big policeman just as a particularly difficult evolution was being executed. "Halt!" screamed the little curly haired Captain, just in time to avert a disgraceful stampede. "Make ready. Take aim. Fire!" and the report of three paper caps "rang out on the startled air."

Every little body was fairly rigid in its determination to fall back in good order while loading, when the policeman joined in the laughter of a score of other witnesses. An old gentleman, bent with years, walked over to the brave Captain, patting him on the head and turned with a beaming face to those about him: "And yet other nations wonder where our soldiers spring from when the country needs them to fight its battles."—Detroit Free Press.
