

APPRECIATIVE PRINTERS.

Their Attest Their Friendship for State Controller Colgan. Controller Colgan did not expect it. He thought it was meant for Eugene Hadley, but it wasn't, and as a consequence he was cornered and canded by the employees of the State Printing Office yesterday morning.

Indeed, it was hardly a fair deal. Mr. Colgan's Deputy, Major Douglas, stood in, and it was partially through his efforts at deception that the veteran was caught. The Major confided to the Controller that the employees of the Printing Office were going to do something awful to Mr. Hadley, and suggested that they go over and see the fun. They went over.

The employees of the big office were drawn up in line when the Controller entered, and he suggested that the camera friend was losing the chance of his life. But he got no further. He was held up by General Foreman Harry Rogers and was made to listen to a neat, crisp presentation speech, which was followed by a beautiful gold-handled ebony cane.

Timekeeper Talbot H. Wallis followed Mr. Rogers, and told Controller Colgan that the employees appreciated his kindness to them in making it possible to obtain their warrants without delay, thereby insuring their pay with practically no delay.

Then Controller Colgan got the camera. Its crook is composed of finely-chased gold, and on the plate on one side is inscribed the following: "Presented to Hon. E. P. Colgan, State Controller, by Employees of the State Printing Office, November 16, 1898."

Mr. Colgan thanked the employees. He told them he had been a working man himself and knew what it meant to have money he had labored for withheld after it was due. He also told them that he had made several political campaigns, but never speaking in his life, which might account for his success. All the time he was making an attempt that smacked of oratory, and when he finally concluded he was warmly applauded.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Sam T. Shaw Company returns to the Orpheum to-morrow evening for a three nights' engagement. Friday and Saturday evenings the comedy "Love in Law," Saturday matinee and Sunday evening "Plink Dominoes." Popular prices will prevail.

At the Orpheum last night Gorton's minstrel and variety company appeared. There are nineteen members of the troupe, sixteen of whom appear in the first part and six of these in the second part. The first part is a novel, in that the instruments are brass, no reed or string being used, but French horns, a tuba, a cornet and euphonium.

The combination is used as a light support, mellow, rich and played with high skill and made to resemble a pipe organ. The entertainment, as a minstrel show, would not satisfy those who have been accustomed to the modern grossly extravagant caricature of original negro minstrelsy, for there was in it no buffoonery nor gross burlesque.

Weather Reports. The Weather Bureau report shows the highest and lowest temperatures yesterday to have been 66 and 38 degrees, with gentle southerly winds and cloudy weather prevailing. There was a light frost during the early morning hours.

Divorce Granted. Judge Johnson yesterday granted Nellie McGraw a divorce from Edward McGraw, with custody of the minor child and leave to resume her maiden name of Nellie Cronan. The defendant was ordered to pay $10 a month for the support of the child and $50 attorney's fees and costs.

There is too little preaching of the gospel of health. It is the last thing that anyone thinks of when a man, child or woman-child, is one of the most important branches of an education.

Without health, a man will be a business, and a woman a social failure. When the body of either a man or a woman is properly nourished, the result is the enjoyment of good health. Almost all ill-health is due to improper or insufficient nourishment.

Constitution is the father of all manner of maladies. If it did not exist, or was in all cases promptly relieved, the majority of medical books could be safely destroyed. It is the easiest sickness to neglect and the simplest to cure.

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES' CLUB.

Members Congratulate Themselves on its Good Work. The Railway Employees' Political Club of Sacramento met last evening. The various committees submitted their fiscal reports, which showed that none of the members appointed to serve on committees had neglected their duty.

The club took up business relating to the good of the club, and several of the members made remarks on the growth of the organization, the faithful and harmonious manner in which the members had worked together, and the magnificent results which their efforts had produced.

A vote of thanks was extended to all officers of the club for their faithful and efficient services during their terms of office. The following resolution of commendation was also adopted: "Whereas, Our honorable President and Secretary, Messrs. E. L. Reguin and T. N. Heffron, have labored hard and faithfully without any recompense, or expectation of recompense, for the success of this club, and that they conducted the campaign, electing the major portion of our ticket, be it resolved, That we, the members of the Railway Employees' Political Club of Sacramento, extend to these officers our sincere thanks, and that the same be spread upon the minutes of the club."

PERSONAL MENTION.

M. M. Glenn has returned from a trip through Oregon and Washington. W. R. Spaulding and J. R. Turner are down from Truckee, and are stopping at the Golden Eagle.

Harbor Commissioner F. J. Harney came up from San Francisco yesterday to attend the wedding of his sister-in-law, Miss Celia Ryan. William H. Layson of San Francisco, who was First Deputy Attorney General under General W. H. H. Hart, spent a few hours in this city yesterday.

Major General William M. Graham of the regular army, who has many friends in Sacramento, is ill at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., of typhoid pneumonia. General Graham was recently retired on full pay on account of age.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Ryan, 1200 P street, the former's sister, Miss Celia Ryan, and James Strachan were yesterday united in marriage. Rev. Father Walsh. Only relatives of the bride and groom were present. Among the wedding gifts was a superb set of silver from the brothers and sisters of the bride. The happy couple departed for Los Angeles on their wedding journey. Their home will be in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Dodge last evening celebrated their silver wedding at their home, 716 Thirteenth street, they having been married in this city twenty-five years ago. The cottage was cozily decorated for the occasion, and the guests were light royally entertained. Good music was furnished by Messrs. Joe and Frank Fry, Will Hilderbrand and J. Parker, and bounteous refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Dodge were the recipients of many handsome and valuable presents, and received the hearty congratulations of their guests. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Frazer, Mr. and Mrs. Etter, Mrs. Bailey and son, Miss Jessie Petrie, Mrs. Hunt, Miss Lettie L. Pierce, Miss Annie, Hattie, Ollie and Helen Dodge, J. Petrie, Joseph Fry, Will Hilderbrand, Charles Morebeck, Frank Fry, B. Wood, J. Parker, George Jacobs, and Eddie and George Dodge.

TAPPED A TILL.

Two Youngsters Who Need to Be Restrained. Johnny Stone and Chester Sweet, the infantile crooks, are again in limbo. They were locked up yesterday by Officers Hardy and Naghel on suspicion of having tapped the till of a K-street tamale house to the tune of $150.

The officers say the shavers admitted having taken the money, and also said they had attempted to rifle the cash box of a Third-street bakery, but that it was too strong for them.

Though both boys are under 11 years of age, they are first-class incorrigibles. About six weeks ago they were in jail for thieving, and admitted having made raids on a half dozen stores in town. Sweet's parents at the time of his arrest yesterday had everything in readiness to send him to a ranch twenty miles from anywhere, in order to get him out of the way of temptation. It is probable that both youngsters will be committed to a reformatory—probably the Preston School of Industry at Ione.

A DOUBLE SENTENCE.

Why Elmore Golden Wants to Get Out of Prison. Judge Hart yesterday issued a writ of habeas corpus on the application of H. G. Soule, attorney for Elmore Golden, returnable on Friday. Golden is at present a prisoner in the Polson Prison, whither he was sent from Tulare County in September, 1895.

In his petition the prisoner sets forth that he was sentenced to four years for burglary in the second degree, also for two years for injuring a jail building. He claims that he has served the term for which he could legally be held, and therefore wants his discharge.

INJURED INTERNALLY.

Accident to an Employee of the Street Car Company. Frank Nichols, an employee of the Sacramento Electric, Gas and Railway Company, was seriously injured at the carhouse on Twenty-eighth street yesterday morning.

Nichols and several other men were pushing a car from the carpenter shop into the carhouse, and in attempting to walk around the car Nichols was caught between it and a post at one side. His body, acting as a buffer, stopped the car.

He was taken to his home near Fourteenth and Q streets, and a physician called. The latter declined to venture an opinion as to the extent of the patient's injuries, which are internal.

Bill Nye's Hit.

James Whitcomb Riley tells a quaint story of his former lecturing partner, Bill Nye: It was the opening of their joint season; they had both been rusticated during the vacation, and were both brown as berries. Nye looked much like an Othello in his sunburned make-up, and Riley suggested to him the application of some "liquid white," a cosmetic much affected by the gentler sex at the time.

Nye sent for the preparation, and never having used anything of the kind before, he filled the palm of his hand with it and carelessly smeared it over his countenance. There was no mirror in his very primitive dressing-room, but he was busy busy with himself on the other side of the stage.

The "liquid white" dries out somewhat like whitewash, and when Nye appeared before the audience he was a sight to behold. His head looked like a frosted top-piece on a wedding cake; his face, white as the undowny snow, was expressive and blank. The audience shrieked, and when he came off from his first selection they demanded his reappearance. He obliged them to howls of laughter; again he made his exit, and again was redemanded by the uproarious audience.

Nye was mortified, and, catching sight of Riley just about going on the stage, he would have undoubtedly followed him on and been revenged but for the intervention of Mrs. Nye. His head was scraped, combed and washed, and his next selection was read without "a hand" from the audience. Moreover, the story is a fact, and not a press agent's concoction.—Detroit Free Press.

Getting Even.

Down at Atlantic City, so a girl fresh from there tells me, there is a Washington family, the maternal head of which is locally famed for her thrift. It is young son who has been declining the waiter's offer of a second dish of ice cream.

"Take it," said the mother. "I don't want it," said the boy. "Take it, I say," persisted the mother. "I don't want it," yelled the boy in a tone that suggested the prompting of a maternal pinch.

"You take that ice cream," commanded the mother in a stage whisper. "Your father's paying $15 a week for your board, and you're here taking only one dish of cream. Take it, I say,"—Washington Post.

An Inexcusable Omission.

"Josiah," said Mrs. Chugwater, looking at him over her glasses, "why don't the newspapers print the whole of the President's message?" "What's the matter now?" inquired Mr. Chugwater, bracing himself. "Why, this paper says: 'The full text of the message will be found below,' and then it goes ahead and prints the message without giving the text at all. It's got so you just can't put any dependence in the papers at all."

LYNCHING DIFFICULTIES.

Not Always Easy to Find a Tree on the Prairies. A blue-shirted cavalcade came riding over the Nebraska prairie toward Hart Henders' shack, which was like a dot of brown on a miles-wide field of gray. Hart Henders watched with interest and finally announced to his wife that the man in front was Jim Mullet and that somebody was tied to one of the horses.

Jim Mullet rode out in front of the others, who approached in a more leisurely fashion, as though their mounts were about exhausted. "Howdy, Hart!" he cried. "We wanter berry yer wagon tongue."

"Busted it on the way to Gridley las' week," said Hart. "Left the wagon there. Howdy?" "The pretty well, considerin'. Mebbe you've got a two-by-four scantlin'?"

"Where in thunder'd a man git a two-by-four out in the heart of a prairie without even a tree in eighty mile? Howdy, Jim, anyway?" "Right. We're goin' to hang Kirk, you know. Shot a hole into Miggs an' crippled Sandy Wallace. We've been ravagin' all over this county lookin' fer a tree an' can't find one. The boys got kinder tired an' allowed if they could git a wagon tongue or a board they'd hang him down yer well. Not so's he'd resent the water, you know. We'd be polite and keurlful about any little thing like that. Didn't wanter down him; don't wanter shot him. Wanter hang him. We've laid out to do for the moral effect. Nothing but hangin' 'll do. Mebbe you've got a board that could be pulled apart so's the sides would make a good thing to go across the top of a well?"

"No. The tick is set on two dry goods boxes. Table leg wouldn't do, would it?" "The short. Well, I'm glad to 'a' seen you anyway, Hart. Howdy. We're goin' on up to Blue Crossin'. It's only eighteen miles, an' they use to be a cottonwood there by the creek—if it ain't been blowed over. Ellis says he heard somethin' about it bein' throwed down las' cyclone. Well, Howdy, Hart, I know we get your best wishes an' that you'd be glad to help us out of trouble."

"You bet," said Hart. "Howdy." And the cavalcade started off northward in an optimistic endeavor to find the cottonwood tree of which Ellis was so fearful.—Chicago Record.
