

IN HONOR OF WASHINGTON.

IMPROVED RED MEN'S CELEBRATION TO-NIGHT.

Fromenade Concert and Dance—Something About the Order of Red Men.

To-night the Improved Order of Red Men will hold their annual celebration of Washington's birthday. It will be in the nature of a promenade concert and social party, to take place at the Old Pavilion. A part of the entertainment will consist of a stereopticon exhibition of rare pictures. There will be the best of music for the dancers. The Improved Order of Red Men is a social, fraternal and benevolent secret association, secret in the sense that privacy of a home circle is the property of its own members to be held secret and inviolate. Its primary objects are to promote among men the exercise and practice of the true principles of benevolence and charity, the care and protection of the widows and orphans and the cultivation of friendly relations among its members. Its origin is, as the name indicates, purely American, its history dating to the early hours of the revolution when its watchword was freedom. The fraternal feature was added after the war of 1812, when the members for a second time had returned to the avocations of peace after their struggles against Great Britain, when the motto became fraternal and friendship. In 1835 the present organization was formed in Maryland and added the benevolent feature, adopting the present motto—freedom, friendship and charity. It is the oldest protective and benevolent society of American birth and growth.

The association existing in the early days of the republic made use of the Indian dress, ceremonies, symbols and nomenclature in order to hide their identity from the uninitiated, and most of these characteristics have been retained by the present organization in passages which bear the order birth, the combination of principles indicated by the motto of the order places it in the foremost rank among the meritorious fraternities. The democratic ideas which attended its birth, the idea that all men are equal, are the tenets of the order to-day, and that a man is, not what he possesses, still constitutes his claim for recognition among the brotherhood. As a man enters the wigwam, so he departs—a free man. The questions of politics or religion are not allowed to weigh as qualifications for membership, it being necessary only that the candidate shall be white, 18 years of age, of good moral character, of sound bodily health, and with the belief in the existence of a Great Spirit, in whom all power exists. Friendship, fraternity and hospitality are exemplified in the virtues, and nowhere are hearts brought closer together than around the council fire of the Red Men. In sickness or distress a brother is visited, comforted and assisted, and when the arrow of death has removed him from his trial on earth he is buried with the same protective care for his widows and orphans. For these purposes a tribe is compelled by law to make certain appropriations for weekly and funeral benefits. A good Red Man is thus a good citizen, a good father, husband or son. Little by little, the fraternal and benevolent aspects of his teachings tend to the uplifting of man and to the fostering of a spirit of brotherly love and helpfulness. It differs from them mainly in the originality and beauties of its mysteries and ceremonies.

The dramatic beauty, originality and simplicity of the ceremonies are unsurpassed, and, when properly exemplified, they make an impression upon the mind of the candidate which time can never efface, the remembrance of which is forever pleasant stimulative of his higher and better nature. When sick or disabled, and is within the vicinity of a tribe of the order, the duty devolves upon said tribe to provide for him the same as if he were at home. Should he be where there are no tribes or the distance is such that he cannot be taken care of, his benefits are continued by the heads of the order in their own jurisdictions. The subordinate organizations are designated as tribes. The degrees in which the candidates are admitted to the order are the "Adoption" degree, "Warriors" and the "Chiefs". The ceremonies of conferring each degree are comparatively brief, and the unwritten work of all can easily be committed to memory in a very short time. The membership in Sacramento is now about 500.

There is a degree known as the degree of Poohshas of which brothers of the order and their female friends may become members. The ritual adopted is very beautiful, the cost only nominal and the degree is very popular, having a membership of about 175.

It is proposed to invite the Relief Corps and other societies to help in the work of caring for the needy.

Miss Enid Thompson, Secretary, read the following report: Sacramento, Feb. 21, 1899. To the Officers and Members of the Red Cross Society, Sacramento: Since the last general meeting of the Red Cross Society the Executive Board has held five meetings. The principal business transacted has been the arranging for Thanksgiving dinner sent to Company F at Fort Point and Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners to our local company at Fort Canby.

During the past three months there have been calls for aid from several of our Sacramento volunteers, who, through exposure in camp, have been seriously ill. We are happy to state that the money so generously donated has served its noble purpose in restoring them to health and again fitting them for work.

Principals of the Red Cross Society have presented itself in furnishing railroad fares to discharged soldiers who have thus been enabled to accept work in neighboring counties. A number of the families of our volunteers have been given needed assistance in the way of rent, fuel and food, and Thanksgiving and Christmas brought to them, through our society, the same "good cheer" that was accorded their absent ones.

RED CROSS WORK IN DETAIL.

SECRETARY'S REPORT TELLS THE STORY.

Ladies Are Trying to Aid Soldiers Who Are Out of Work.

At a small gathering of Sacramento Red Cross members yesterday afternoon (less than a quorum) the question of raising a fund for returning soldiers who are without means of support was discussed. It is proposed to invite the Relief Corps and other societies to help in the work of caring for the needy.

Miss Enid Thompson, Secretary, read the following report: Sacramento, Feb. 21, 1899. To the Officers and Members of the Red Cross Society, Sacramento: Since the last general meeting of the Red Cross Society the Executive Board has held five meetings. The principal business transacted has been the arranging for Thanksgiving dinner sent to Company F at Fort Point and Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners to our local company at Fort Canby.

During the past three months there have been calls for aid from several of our Sacramento volunteers, who, through exposure in camp, have been seriously ill. We are happy to state that the money so generously donated has served its noble purpose in restoring them to health and again fitting them for work.

Principals of the Red Cross Society have presented itself in furnishing railroad fares to discharged soldiers who have thus been enabled to accept work in neighboring counties. A number of the families of our volunteers have been given needed assistance in the way of rent, fuel and food, and Thanksgiving and Christmas brought to them, through our society, the same "good cheer" that was accorded their absent ones.

In response to an appeal from the State society for caps and chest protectors for the men in camp at the Presidio, many faithful workers, under the kindly superintendence of Mrs. W. D. Lawton, assembled at the guild rooms of the Episcopal Church and within three days 200 caps and 150 chest protectors were shipped to San Francisco.

Fifty $400 dollars having been voted at the general meeting November 23 for the purchase of invalid chairs for the convalescent home, a letter was received in reply to a communication to this effect sent the State board, asking that only six chairs be sent, and the balance spent in purchase of commodes. This request was granted, and the chairs and commodes forwarded. Since our last report $100 has been sent to San Francisco toward maintenance of the convalescent home, and $400 to aid in hospital work at Manila.

The following letter of acknowledgment has been received: San Francisco, Jan. 31, 1899. Miss Emily Thompson, Secretary Red Cross Society, Sacramento—Dear Madam: Inclosed find receipt for checks for $300. Miss Harrington asks me to express to the society the most hearty thanks for your generosity, not only now, but at all times during the work. She thoroughly appreciates the great assistance your society has been to the State organization.

The convalescent home is closing to-day, but there are of course expenses to be met. An inventory will be kept so the home can be quickly reopened should the First California men require nursing or care when they return from Manila. Many may be without homes to go to if ill, and for such it will be reopened. Again, with many thanks, Respectfully, KATHERINE B. ELLIOTT, Through the kindness of the "Bees" in collecting reading matter, three large cases have been forwarded to Manila. Our relief work has been greatly lightened by the use of the Capital telephone placed at our disposal. Wells, Fargo & Co. have gratuitously forwarded the above-mentioned dinners and all supplies and reading matter. The Episcopal Church has kindly allowed us the use of the Guild room. The Needlework Guild has given our society substantial aid. The Foresters' Hall Association has liberally donated its hall for the meetings and the local press has at all times aided and encouraged our work by generous recognition. To all these the Red Cross Society returns its most grateful thanks.

Our Treasurer, Frank Miller, reports: Balance in Red Cross fund, $54.20; balance in Comfort fund, $1,856.12; total balance, $1,910.32. Respectfully submitted, EMILY M. THOMPSON, Secretary.
