LOS ANGELES, July 3.—Los Angeles is assuming a holiday garb in anticipation of the big convention which will open in this city one week from tomorrow, and the Fourth of July decorations now being put into place on the public streets of the city will be allowed to remain throughout the time of the big gathering.

The movement of teachers toward Los Angeles from the entire West and extreme East has just begun, and the Santa Fe overland, which will arrive on Wednesday morning, will bring the first installment of these passengers.

The Southern Pacific train from the North to-day brought in six cars, while the Santa Fe unloaded 183 passengers at La Grande Station this morning.

Secretary Irwin Shepard received a letter to-day notifying him that the special party consisting of President E. O. Lyte of the National Educational Association, and family, A. G. Lane, Chairman of the Board of Trustees; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Secretary, and William T. Harris and family of Washington, United States Commissioner of Education, and Professor F. L. Soldan, City Superintendent of Schools at St. Louis, will reach Los Angeles on Sunday.

Vice President Greenwood, who is City Superintendent at Kansas City, is due to arrive here on Saturday.

It is now known definitely through official sources, that every educator on the program will be present at the meeting. There are something like 300 papers to be read.

Asbury Park, N. J., and Saratoga Springs, N. Y., have added their names to the list of places desiring the next convention, making five cities now in the field for the honor. Montreal, Canada, Charleston, S. C., and Boston, are also striving for the distinction.

The new meeting place will not be finally determined here. An expression of opinion on the subject will be, however, obtained during the Los Angeles meeting. The Trustees of the National Educational Association later making the choice in the premises.

After refreshments, Senator Fairbanks made an address in the course of which he said a few years ago this party was not to be found on the map of the Western Hemisphere, but to-day it is known from one end of the United States to the other. (Applause.) The statement is not entirely correct, though our countrymen do not realize what a splendid and magnificent city and possibilities are here.

Senator Foster briefly returned thanks for the splendid reception and President E. O. Graves of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, District Attorney Evans of Minnesota and Judge Johnson of the United States District Court of Alaska also spoke.

This morning the party was taken by train to the summit, there to be entertained by the Chamber of Commerce and the White Pass Railroad at luncheon.

TURNER WON.

Knocked Out Cocker Tweedie in the Eighth Round. STOCKTON, July 3.—Rufe Turner, the colored Stockton boy who is seeking honors in the lightweight class, knocked Cocker Tweedie, of Australia, cold in the eighth round of what was to have been a twenty-round fight.

It was a hard fight from the very start, with Tweedie outpacing the colored boy in boxing in every round. Turner, on the other hand, was the decision would have been his had both stayed the limit. The knockout blow was on the back of the left jawbone and almost under the ear, and was the fourth swing which Turner had made at his jaw, three of them being successfully blocked.

Tweedie landed a knock out and fell with the gloves still at the point of the chin, showing that he had not placed it back far enough by about five inches to catch and block the force of the blow.

The referee, James Fox, of the Reliance Club, of Oakland, counted Tweedie out and declared Turner the winner. Later in conversation with Instructor Eckert, of the Stockton Athletic Club, he declared that he thought Tweedie faked the fall and the fight on his own part. For a time he believed that he had the right to declare all bets off, and so it was noised about, but as he had left the ring when he made the second part of his decision bets stand. Fox declared that Turner was not a party to the fake, but that Tweedie and his friends were. Many at the ringside agree with Fox that there was no necessity for Tweedie going out, while others are as strongly of the opinion that the knockout was clean.

The preliminary between Frank Crowley, of Marysville, and Al Doyle, of San Francisco, was decided a draw.

DAWSON'S BAD LUCK.

The Widow of the Late King Kalakaua Passes Away. SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The steamship Coptic arrived late to-night from Hongkong and Yokohama via Honolulu. The Coptic brings news of the death at Honolulu on June 24th of the Dowager Queen, Kapulani, widow of the late King Kalakaua. The former Queen, who was 65 years of age, was a sufferer from cancer, and recently had a stroke of paralysis, following several attacks of apoplexy. She was much esteemed in the islands, and her death was sincerely mourned. Her remains lay in state for eight days, and were buried with impressive ceremonies. The left no children, and during her life devoted much of her time to charitable work, the Kapulani Home for leper girls and other institutions having been founded by her. She visited San Francisco in state in 1857 with her sister-in-law, then Princess Liliuokalani, and was given a royal welcome.

DAWSON'S BAD LUCK. SEATTLE, July 3.—News of another fire at Dawson, in which sixty miners' cabins were burned with their contents, came from here to-day by the steamer Humboldt. The total loss is estimated at $10,000.

Another package of 127 pounds was tied up in a blanket and was carried by J. F. Canyon of Baker City, Oregon.

GOLF EXPERTS AT LAKE FOREST.

The Annual Tournament of the American Association Begins at the Onwentsia Club Course, Many Prominent Players Competing.

LAKE FOREST (Ill.), July 3.—The fifth annual tournament of the United States Golf Association was started to-day over the eight-hole course of the Onwentsia Golf Club. The weather was ideal for golf. The sky was overcast with clouds and a slight cool breeze blew over the course, quickly drying last night's rain from the green. Even before Secretary Robert Bage Kerr started the initial pair of contestants in the first qualifying round, the beautiful grounds and the clubhouse were thronged with players dressed in white and their escorts while all over the course the red-coated golfers were scattered, taking a last critical look at the links before starting in their week's struggle for the amateur golf championships.

Walter McKittrick of the St. Louis Country Club and Phelps B. Hoyt of the Glen View Golf Club opened the tournament, the little grandstand at the first teeing ground was filled to overflowing with golf enthusiasts, and as Mr. Hoyt, who had the honor, drove his ball over the bunker, down the slope of the green beyond, thus formally opening the tournament, a hearty round of applause was given. Mr. McKittrick also cleared the first of the bunkers beautifully, and he was also applauded.

Four minutes after they were away, had played their second shot, and passed out of range of the next green's drive, the Secretary called the next pair of contestants, M. Cummings, of the Washington Park Club, and P. W. Harvey, of the Cleveland Golf Club, and thereafter, at intervals of four minutes, the players began to compete for National Championship honors, drove and were away until the long list had been completed. As the celebrities appeared to start on their long journey over the course, they were applauded liberally. Finlay S. Douglass made a to-day his opening round by competing with W. C. Carnegie, Jr. of the Allegheny Club, the longest up to that time, but four minutes later James H. Tyne, of the Morris County Golf Club, beat him by many yards.

Messrs. McKittrick and Hoyt finished their first round at 9:45 a. m. Neither showed a record of less than 150. Mr. McKittrick drove the eighteen holes in 104, while Mr. Hoyt took 99.

It is the general opinion of the golf experts that, considering the almost perfect condition of the course, 190 will be the highest to qualify, while the scores will run from that down to 150. Some of the experts have been showing such good form that scores even lower than 170 were looked for.

By 10 o'clock the contestants began to come in rapidly from their first round over the course. High scores were being made by those who were apparently being afflicted with nervousness. It was in the putting that most of the golfers fell by the wayside, running the scores of the first round in many instances around the hundred mark.

M. Cummings, Washington Park Club, 105; J. Stewart, St. Louis Country Golf Club, 96; P. Sterling Beckwith, Cleveland Golf Club, 93; W. P. Smith, Huntington Valley Club, 96; H. E. Rea, Allegheny County Club, 100; Burdette O'Connor, Staten Island Cricket and Golf Club, 98; C. B. Corey, Wallabout Golf Club, 98; H. A. Coley, Essex Country Club, 89.

Good scores were made by both John Reid, Jr., the intercollegiate champion, and his Onwentsia Club opponent, Thompson. Reid made the course in 85 and Thompson in 88.

O. D. Thompson, Allegheny Golf Club, 82; Thomas Taylor, Jr., Onwentsia, 81; Glenville Kane, Tuxedo Golf Club, 98; C. H. Russell, Milwaukee Country Club, 92; W. E. Kirk, ex-Moore, 102; H. M. Billings, 95; J. W. Watson, ex-Moore, 98; F. C. Miller, Glenview, 98; A. H. Smith, Huntington Valley Country Club, 89; R. G. Wilson, Jr., Onwentsia, 98; W. J. Patton, Allegheny Country Club, 102; Howard Elking, St. Louis Country Club, 106; J. D. Hubbard, Onwentsia, 105; Stewart Stickney, St. Louis Country Club, 93; F. H. Hamlin, Chicago Golf Club, 93.

D. R. Forgan, the Onwentsia expert, made a splendid score, making nine of the eighteen holes in four each; and finishing with a total of 83. G. G. Hubbard, with whom he was paired, made 93. W. A. Alexander, ex-Moore Country Club, 105; G. F. Fiske, Onwentsia, 103; J. G. Thorpe, Oakley Country Club, 92; O. C. Fuller, Milwaukee Country Club; A. C. McDonald, Chicago Golf Club, also made the course in 83.

WASSERMAN, KAUFMAN & CO. DREYFUS' FIGHT FOR JUSTICE. YOUR FEATURES.

Rennes (France), July 3.—Maitres Labori and Demange, counsel for Dreyfus, who had a long conference with Mme. Dreyfus yesterday, visited Dreyfus in the military prison at 10 o'clock this morning. The permit for the lawyers to enter the prison bore the inscription:

"Temporary Corps, Tribunal of the Court-Martial. Permit to communicate. Available until the day judgment is delivered."

"Monsieur, counsel for the Court of Appeal, is authorized to communicate with Captain Dreyfus, whom he is charged to defend.

This was the first time M. Demange, the defender of Dreyfus at the court-martial of 1894, and Dreyfus had seen each other since the sentence. On entering the room, M. Demange and Dreyfus threw themselves into each other's arms. The scene was most touching. Neither was able to utter a word but warmly embraced. Dreyfus when able to speak, thanked M. Demange for his devoted services.

M. Demange then presented M. Labori, who had been a silent spectator in the background of the foregoing scene. Dreyfus clasped M. Labori's hand, in a voice choked by emotion, expressed the greatest gratitude for the splendid manner in which M. Labori had championed his cause.

M. Demange and Labori then gave the prisoner a general review of all which has happened since Dreyfus was sent to Devil's Island. Dreyfus explained that he knew nothing but what was contained in the volume which M. Labori had sent him, giving an account of the proceedings of the Court of Cassation in 1898.

M. Demange and Labori then left. They were both greatly impressed with the appearance of Dreyfus. They declared Dreyfus was both physically and mentally in much better health than they anticipated.

Madame Dreyfus visited her husband this afternoon. She has received permission to call upon him each day.

This evening Maitres Demange and Labori had another conference with the prisoner. M. Labori said that after it was over that the time had been devoted to continuing the review of events since 1898. His counsel was surprised at Captain Dreyfus' strength of memory, even in trifling matters and at the lucidity of mind he displayed.

After the interview they dined with Mme. Dreyfus.
