

SOCIAL GOSSIP

No person who has attended our State Fair this week could have helped noticing the great stride that has taken place within the last year, along almost every line of art.

The art of oden times was along the line of tapestry, weaving, painting and sculpture; but little by little it has become so general that to-day even the rudest material may be so shaped and molded that it becomes a thing of art.

Long before you enter the brilliantly lighted pavilion, you can not help feeling something is missing. Then it dawns all of a sudden the old "merry-go-round," with its weird light from the old torch, the tuneless organ, grinding out melodies, the whirr of the horses, and the clink of the rings, all dear to our childhood hearts, and the rasping voice of the speller of the five-legged calf or a Milly Christine is hushed.

In place of these are such handsome homes, so modern and artistic, that this partly prepares you for the change that awaits you in the pavilion beyond.

It is not so much the change in the things displayed—for you know a fair is like one of our popular airs, "All cooing Look Alike to Me," but it is the style and furnishings that are so rich and artistic. The dazzling glare from the thousands of electric lights, casting down such a brilliancy upon the common everyday articles of life, so surrounds them with a glamour that, should our great grandparents but awaken on such a scene, they would surely think of the old "Arabian Nights" and believe an Aladdin's lamp had been touched.

The "Baby Show" and why not bring forth the "little dears" and exhibit the coming Presidents of the United States, Deweys, Corbets and "Hughes." The Fair is the proper place, together with our other productions, of which we are most proud. Of course, we must expect only to view the fair specimens, but we have heard of brave men who would beard the lion in his den; of others' wonderful "fortitude in front of the cannon's mouth;" but, oh! the bravery of the man who would offer a premium for the homeliest baby. Fortunately such was not awarded for your know that "every duck thinks the pin feathers of its gosling the softest swan's down."

Did you ever know it to fall, whenever it falls to our lot to have a convention, a reception, a wedding or any other function, that brings strangers to our town, that "old Sol" did not come forth in all his glory, and greet "our visitors" with the warmest welcome?

To Refill a Brain..... USE GRAPE-NUTS

Brains Are Made and Repaired by Food. Use Good Food. A NATURAL BRAIN BUILDER.

In hot weather a meat breakfast is not always desirable, one looks rather to some more cooling food, such as fruit and cereals.

One of the great advantages of Grape-Nuts lies in the fact that it is ready cooked and can be served cold at once.

Treated with cream it is as delicious as a confection, and at the same time furnishes the user with the needed food elements of the most perfect character and combined in a scientific manner.

One of the food particles in Grape-Nuts is true natural phosphate of potash as furnished in certain parts of the field grains and this is the element used by nature to change albumin into the soft gray substance with which the brain and nerve centers are filled, and which must be replaced daily as it is used up by the activities of the body.

Steady users of Grape-Nuts are lively, brainy and healthy people. Wise selection of food is a duty everyone owes self and those dependent upon it. The Postum Co., at Battle Creek, make Grape-Nuts, and all first-class grocers sell.

The season is here. Fresh daily from their beds at their Large Eastern Blue Pointers 45 cents a dozen Small Eastern Blue Pointers 50 cents a dozen. Cook with a speciality. We use the best quality in making them.

THE DELICATESSEN, 814 K.

come imaginable? I never did. But we are not complaining, after all, it seems mighty good to see him after his return from his summer outing and know he is as brilliant as ever, before he goes south for the winter.

Wasn't it cool and refreshing to look upon that tally-ho of young girls, all of them so pretty in their airy summer gowns and light sunshades, as they drove about the paddock at the races, yesterday? Like a bunch of California flowers—the pink—the rose, the heliotrope and the marigold, did these young ladies so arrange themselves that indeed, it was a pretty offering to our State's birthday. These "true born Natives" who were celebrating the day in the right spirit were the Misses Flora Meister, Nell Uren, Florence Jones, Georgia Carroll, May Seadler, Ralph Hale, Pauline Johnson, Kitty Hoehn, Edna McClatchy, Nellie Allen, Lina Turner and Mamie Small.

A morning errand took me to the southern portion of the city, and, on my way home, I halted a car, as "old Sol" seemed to be pouring forth his radiance with a vengeance. Then, too, I had not much time to do my summer gown for the races, and look my prettiest, for the reputation of our city for its pretty girls in summer frocks, must be upheld, when so many strangers are in town and particularly, men. I happened to take a seat next two very genial looking gentlemen, and from the odor of their Havanas and outward appearance, judged they must be "Knights of the Grip." I soon became convinced on overhearing their conversation, which was upon the hospitality of the city and lavish manner in which they had been entertained, especially so by Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hale at their beautiful home on Thursday evening. They were loud in their praises of the hearty and cordial welcome accorded them by their hostess and her two daughters, "So say we all of us," was the universal sentiment of all the "Knights of the Grip," to our city and State Fair.

Mr. William Schaw is visiting for a few days with relatives and friends.

The Misses Diersen are here from San Francisco for the Fair and are frequently seen about the city in their trap.

Miss Emma Schilling has returned from her enjoyable summer outing at Pacific Grove.

Mrs. F. G. Fay and children are home from the cool sea breezes of Pacific Grove.

Most delicate and dainty was the reception, Tuesday evening, tendered to the ladies and gentlemen of Sacramento, as well as the guests of our fair city, by the wives and daughters of the officers and Directors of the State Agricultural Society. In the east end, prettily decorated, a score of ladies and a bevy of lovely girls and fair debutantes warmly welcomed and served with dainty refreshments, making it seem like a hospitable home. It was a thoughtful attention and added another link to Sacramento's long list of kindnesses to strangers.

Miss Ruby Cooper will spend the coming winter months in San Francisco, continuing her studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Welch have left for an extended visit to Salt Lake City.

Miss Emma Dwyer has returned from her visit to the coast.

On Wednesday evening last, at their residence, 1220 O street, Col. J. W. Guthrie and wife celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary. Friendly hands helped to deck their home until it was a bower of flowers and greens, where the happy couple again received the congratulations of their friends. All the clouds of their journey in life evidently turned their silver linings and emptied their treasures into the laps of the again wedded pair. The banquet was spread under a canopy on the lawn, where sixty or more were served with a dainty supper and "health and happiness" was drunk to the still fair couple and their children.

It has been learned with regret that R. J. Bentley, with his family, contemplate removing to San Francisco. Sacramento will suffer a great loss in the departure of Mrs. Bentley, who has ever been among the first in all charitable work and her sweet voice will be missed from among our vocalists.

Mrs. Alice Foye and Miss Julia Sullivan are the guests of Mrs. W. K. Coltrin during the remainder of the Fair.

Crawford Cox and family are in town, for Fair week and are staying at Mrs. W. F. Knox's home.

Dr. W. A. Briggs has returned from his outing at Tahoe and surrounding resorts.

The contracting parties were Miss Annie L. Dosch and William W. Mott, Jr., both well known young people of Sacramento. The church was artistically decorated with palms and potted plants. The ceremony took place under a beautiful floral bell suspended from an arch of graceful and unique design. Rev. R. J. Johnston, the officiating clergyman, performed the ceremony which united two loving hearts, in his usually impressive manner. After listening to a few words of fatherly advice from the minister, the happy couple were escorted to the vestibule of the church, where they received the congratulations of all. The wedding party and a number of invited guests then partook of a sumptuous breakfast. A reception was held at the residence of Walter L. Dosch, 1424 K street, where the numerous wedding gifts were viewed by many. At 5 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Mott were escorted to the depot by their friends, who showered them with rice and good wishes. On their return from San Francisco they will reside at 1324 Twenty-fourth street. Those taking part, aside from the bride and groom, were maid of honor, Miss Clara Grubler; bridesmaids, Miss Josephine Scott and Miss Grace Priest; groomsmen, Frank Schoenbacher, ushers, William Brown and George Dosch. Walter L. Dosch, the elder brother of the bride, gave her away.

The bride's gown was of white organdie, skirt made in train with two graduated accordinated flounces edged with small ruches that were trimmed with satin ribbon, overskirt of organdie with yoke of lace insertion edged with satin ribbon, bottom trimmed with insertion and ribbon same as yoke. The corsage was completely tucked, made with long pointed yoke of lace insertion and ribbon and trimmed with ruffles edged with satin ribbon sleeves tucked to elbow and length finished out with insertion to the hand, high flaring collar of lace. The bride carried white carnations. The groom wore a pink organdie skirt, accordinated pleated tunic, edged with lace ruche, overskirt trimmed with lace ruche, and scrolls of satin ribbon, corsage was made with low yoke tucked and trimmed with lace ruches and satin ribbon. Pink carnations. The bridesmaids were attired in pale blue organdie, skirts becomingly made with small ruffles and tucked waist. The bridesmaids carried blueets.

There was a merry gathering of little tots at the residence of E. H. Bolze, 2128 K street, Friday afternoon, to celebrate the anniversary of Ed. Bolze, Jr.'s birthday. The little fellow was overjoyed when he came from a neighbor's and found his home filled with his little playmates. After much romping and playing, the guests were served with dainty refreshments.

The large birthday cake decorated with four miniature candles told the age of their little host. Eddie was the recipient of many handsome presents. The invited guests were: Vera Gandy, Ruth Merry, Oliveide Prudeux, Evelyn Nicholes, Rose McQueeney, Mary Kendall, Eva Contell, Dolly Appleton, Verne Green, Grace Green, Meree Hammond, Norma Huber, Mable Shirriff, Adell Slawson, Lillie Taylor, Lettie Smale, Bernice Little, Leas McCorry, Berdie Nagler, Edna Napier, Norma Huber, Albert Lewis Westley Carpenter, Clyde McCorry, Roland Lockart, Bourne Taylor, Percy Smale, Charley Smale, Russell Kern, Lawrence Kern, Edwin Shirriff, Ed.
