

PULLED THEM DOWN A PEG.

OAKLANDERS WIPE THE DIAMOND WITH THE GILTS.

The College Town Outfit Did as They Pleas'd With the Leaders.

The Oakland "Dudes" walloped the great Gilt Edge tribe at Oak Park yesterday afternoon to the tune of 11 to 4, and they did it easily. The game was neither great, good, nor tolerable, at least so far as the home tribe was concerned. It was one of the kind which would not have passed in a crowd, however well kicked on, and was far below the standard.

Among the locals, ginger was a minus quantity. Their concerted movements was a bad representation of a pipe dream. Most of them went into a trance, occult or otherwise, at the beginning of the trouble and did not emerge until it was all over. They were an apathetic, listless crew, which the exceptionally clever work of Tommy Sheehan at third, could not brace up.

The Oaklanders, who were in the game most of the time, were never in danger. They took a good lead in the first inning and then played Charley Horse with Kripp's aggregation of wooden Indians. They touched up Charlie Doyle for fourteen good hard hits, and had smiles and encouragement to spare for the Gilt. "Chief" Borchers, while a bit wild at times, settled down at critical moments and played the game, but he had his field behind him. His outfield was a corker. Dad Donovan was the kingpin of the lot and took every one of his numerous chances, while young Mr. Moskman in left, gave an exhibition of rounding up rough grounders seldom equaled and never excelled.

Egan's work in the field was fairly clever, but he was an easy game for Borchers. O'Connor gave an exhibition at first which made the crowd stare. He was playing ten feet away from his base when Dunlevy started a hot grounder in his direction. Stulz, at second was out of the question, but O'Connor, instead of going for the ball, went for the bag. The ball rolled out past Harvey to the far corner of the lot, and Dunlevy chased all the way around, shooting in "Pop" Hardie. Some people would like to know why Big Mike was playing ten feet from his base if not to field balls in that vicinity.

The game in detail was played as follows: McLoughlin, who was first up, shot a hot one down to Lange and expired at Hutchinson's corner, and Harvey lashed out a safe one over second base for a bag. O'Connor swiped the atmosphere thrice, and little Hammond shot Harvey out because he tried to purloin the second base.

Hutchinson, who formerly played with the Gilt, was first up for the "Dudes," and lashed a safe one out to center field and landed on O'Connor's corner with honors. Hammond poked another safe one to center field, and Hardie was hit and the bases were full. Donovan shot one to Egan and was out at first, but Hutchinson crossed the plate with the first run of the game. Dunlevy hit safe along first for a bag and Hammond scored. "Pop" Hardie on third. Lange lashed out a safe one into right field and Hardie scored, Dunlevy on third. Harvey, who fielded the ball, held it, and Dunlevy started home. Harvey made a great throw in but was wide of the plate and Dunlevy was safe, but Stanley threw Lange out at second. Schmeer ended the horror by flying out to McLoughlin.

In the second inning Egan succumbed to Borchers' shoots, but the "chief" was kind to Stanley and gave him free transportation to the initial. Borchers scalped Doyle with three balls to spare, but "O. H." Shanahan changed matters by cracking a safe one to right field for a bag. Stanley on second. Borchers scalped Stulz, and his string was fattened by three strike outs in one inning.

Moskman, in Oakland's half, flew one against the right field fence which Harvey gobbled. Borchers poked one to Stulz and was out to O'Connor, and Hutchinson lashed a safe one into the right pasture for a life. Hammond hit a slow one to Sheehan and was out on first by a nose.

In the third, Sheehan lashed a hot safe grounder over the second cushion for a bag. Hammond tried for Sheehan at first, but was wild, and Tommy tried for second, but was pinched by Hutchinson. McLoughlin was given a free hit. "Chief" also presented Harvey with a base on balls, and both runners advanced on a wild pitch. O'Connor hit to Lange and was out at first, but McLoughlin scored. Egan dropped one to the ground and the chance was over.

On the Oakland half of the inning Lew Hardie rolled a smoky one into the left field for a bag, and Donovan sent one to Doyle who threw wild to second and both runners were safe. Dunlevy sent one to Sheehan and was out at first, and Lange flew out to Egan. Schmeer hopped one to Doyle and died at the initial, and the Gilt succeeded in pulling out of a bad hole.

In the Gilt's half of a bad hole. Borchers hit Stanley in the short ribs for a base, and Doyle rapped out a safe one to left field for a bag. Shanahan sacrificed to Hutchinson, advancing both runners. Stulz flew a long one to Donovan and Stanley scored, but Doyle was caught off second and the score was 2 to 4, Oakland on the long end.

In the visitors' half of the inning, Moskman, he of the Russian name, and Danish features, flew one to the right field fence, but Harvey was there, and Borchers dropped one into O'Connor's mit, while Hutchinson tried Henry Stulz and quit at first.

In the fifth Sheehan rolled a whisker one to Schmeer and was out easy; McLoughlin rolled a safe one toward third, and stole second an instant later. Harvey lashed a wild one over second and McLoughlin scored, but Borchers and Hutchinson pinched Harvey between first and second. O'Connor tipped one to Lange and the trouble was over. Score, Gilt Edge 3, Oakland 4.

In Oakland's half of the inning, Hammond fanned the wind and sat on the bench; Hardie fouled to Sheehan, and Donovan flew to Timothy Shanahan, who was waking up.

In the sixth inning "Truckerino" Egan knocked one over the left field fence, but it meant it, drove a safe one into the same garden—only it wasn't foul—for a bag. Stanley sacrificed to Borchers, Egan on second, and Doyle poked a safe one to Schmeer and was on first. "Truckerino" on third. Shanahan bunted to Borchers, and was safe on the latter's error, and the bases were full, and then, for variety's sake, Borchers fanned Stulz out. Then by Hutchinson's generalship, the Gilt died. Shanahan was off first and Hutchinson coaxed Hammond to throw him the ball. Hammond responded, and while the dance between first and second was going on "Truckerino" Egan started home—just what Hutchinson was waiting for. Result—"Truckerino" pinched at the plate.

In Oakland's half, Dunlevy and Lange flew out to Egan and Shanahan, respectively, and Schmeer expired at first via Stulz.

In the seventh Sheehan flew a foul which Hammond pinched and McLoughlin flew to Moskman, and Harvey duplicated Sheehan's act and fouled to Hammond.

For Oakland, Moskman lashed a safe one to center field for a base, and Borchers took his first hit of the game, a slow one to the infield, and both runners were safe. Hutchinson was an easy out on three strikes, and Hammond flew one to Stulz who dropped it and Moskman scored. Hardie lashed one into left field and Borchers scored, Hammond on third, Hardie on second and one hand game Donovan struck out.

Then Dunlevy sent one to O'Connor, who started for the bag and let the ball roll out into the field. It kept on rolling, past Harvey, who was evidently astonished at O'Connor's new play, and on out to the fence, and Dunlevy scored—a home run, inasmuch as nobody touched it. Dun herded in Hardie. Then Lange shot a long one to McLoughlin, who fell before he reached it. Lange scoring on Schmeer's safe drive to center field. The shifty shortstop, however, was put in limbo in trying to purloin the second bag.

In the eighth O'Connor sent a three-bagger to center field and scored on a passed ball a moment later. "Truckerino" Egan struck out, and Stanley hit a slow safe infielder for a base. Doyle and Shanahan flew to Donovan. Dad Donovan, by the way, did good work all through the game in his garden.

In Oakland's half, young Mr. Moskman went out at first by the way of Egan. Borchers lashed a safe one to the left fence, but stopped at first because the occasion demanded no more. Hutchinson sent one out to McLoughlin, who dropped it, Borchers on second. Hammond drove a clean hit into center field and the bases were full. Then Hardie drove one to Egan who retired Hutchinson at third by the way of Sheehan and the Chief scored. Moskman stole third and Hardie was caught in the act of attempting to steal second, and the score was 11 to 4, with Oakland on top.

And then came the end. Stulz flew to Moskman, and Sheehan took a base on balls. McLoughlin struck out and Harvey flew to Donovan and the trouble was over.

The following chart explains how the scorekeeper saw the drubbing administered to the Gilt by the "Dudes."

This morning at 10 o'clock there will be a hot baseball game at Oak Park between the Sacramento Athletic Club and Phoenix teams for a purse of $100. Both teams have been strengthened for this occasion. The Phoenix having secured Beville, the crack amateur pitcher of the coast, who made such a record with the Colusa Club this season. Russ Pace will be at the receiving end. The Athletics also promise a surprise, but are guarding their secret very closely, and they say they will surely win, even if they are up against the Phoenix's strong battery. No admission will be charged.

TRAVELING MEN'S WIVES.

They Establish a Ladies' Auxiliary of the U. C. T. There was an interesting and important meeting of the wives of commercial travelers, at the residence of Mrs. W. F. Peterson, last night. They organized the Ladies' Auxiliary of the United Commercial Travelers of the United States, thus becoming pioneers in an important and far-reaching movement.

The following officers were elected for the year: Past President, Mrs. H. A. Bell; President, Mrs. W. F. Peterson; Vice President, Mrs. W. F. Peterson; Secretary, Mrs. John F. Olsen; Treasurer, Mrs. John Dolan; "Our Dewey," Mrs. W. M. Henderson.

The ladies would not explain the duties of the officer called "Our Dewey," but it is supposed she is to be a leader in the work of the society. The auxiliary proposes social, literary and benevolent work. It was organized as an outgrowth of Commercial Travelers' Day at the State Fair, where the wives of commercial travelers (serving on Reception Committees) discovered that they did not know one another.

The organization effected last night will remedy the defect, and there will hereafter be one night each month, say Mrs. Olsen said, "when we'll not sit up and wonder when our husbands are coming home." They will meet once a month at the residences of members, and they expect to perfect their society from month to month.
