finding the conditions not so favorable as expected, may demand the troops. It does not follow that the entire army corps, even if called out, will be sent to General Buller. It is more probable that it will be kept home to supply the places of units sent out in consonance with General Buller's wishes. Upon the present organization, these home forces are supposed to be capable of raising at short notice three army corps. Should the War Office decide upon raising a second corps, it will necessitate the calling out of more reserves.

BOERS LOST HEAVILY. LONDON, Oct. 31.—A dispatch from Ladysmith says the Boers suffered severely during the engagement, some persons estimating their loss at 800 to 1,000 killed and wounded.

CAPE TOWN, Oct. 31, 12:10 p. m.—The South African "News" publishes the following dispatch: "Ladysmith, Oct. 31.—A battle is proceeding at the foot of Umbanane, a few miles from Ladysmith. Several shells have dropped into the town."

It is reported from Barkley-West that the Boers are constructing forts around Kimberley for the purpose of shelling the town.

THE WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

arrive daily after Sunday, until by the end of next week 28,000 troops will have landed in South Africa. These men are intended for General Sir Red Buller's army, but they will undoubtedly be sent to Natal if the situation there should become perilous. The British army will eventually reach the huge total of 89,650, of which 69,634 will be regulars and the other 20,000 miscellaneous but excellent colonial troops.

The disaster had an immediate effect on the Stock Exchange, the market fell 1/2. South African securities dropped heavily. Rand lines falling 2 points. Rio Tintos fell 1/2.

The afternoon newspapers made only brief editorial comments on the news from Ladysmith, but their headlines voiced the feeling of general sorrow. The tone of the editorials can be summed up in the following statement of the "St. James Gazette":

"It is evident that the patriotism and fortitude of the nation are to be tested in real earnest by these operations of ours in Natal against great odds. General Buller has a difficult task set him, and we must take the disaster with the dogged coolness which Britons know how to display. We shall await the final result without apprehension. The "Globe" calls upon the British Empire "to receive this bitter and unpalatable piece of news with the spirit of a great nation that relies upon its invincible reserves of strength."

Advices from Cape Town show that the Boers are gathering in considerable force at Kimberley and Mafeking. While the late forces of Boers are advancing over the Helmsmaak road. A big camp of Boers is to be formed between Harrismith bridge and Potgieter farm camp at Dewdorp, which, it said, will extend four miles. An Englishman who has arrived at All-walworth from Pretoria, whence he was expelled by the Boers, says that when he left Pretoria all the stores there were carrying on business as usual, and President Kruger was still there. He did not see any wounded at Johannesburg.

Some of the Transvaal papers are still publishing and contain glowing accounts of the success of the Boer army, saying that Kimberley and Mafeking are expected to fall at any moment, while Bechuanaland is conquered and annexed; that the Republican arms are also successful in Natal, and that the Burgers are continuing their victorious march south, capturing British prisoners and stores. The papers admit that the battle of Elands Laagte is a reverse for the Boers, who lost thirty killed and many wounded, and that eighty-five Boers were made prisoners. Ladysmith, according to the Boer newspapers, is soon to be taken.

The Englishman added that the Boers are absolutely confident of their ultimate triumph, and believe the whole of Natal is already practically in their hands.

A dispatch from Vryburg, dated October 25th, gives a report of a speech of Commandant Delarey when hoisting the Boer flag there. He declared that the flag of the republic was now floating over the whole country north of the Orange River, and that the British flag would never again float there until the Boers, who had bodies of the Burgers. Complete order prevailed at Vryburg.

Advices from Kimberley dated October 27th, received through a dispatch rider at Orange River, October 30th, report that all the wounded are progressing favorably.

It is apparent that as they are unable to blow up the piers of the Modder River bridge, the Boers are demolishing them stone by stone. They have blown up practically every culvert from the Modder River to the Orange River.

An armored train, strongly supported, made a reconnaissance October 27th, and found the Boers still at Spytfontein.

There was an extraordinary military parade at Aldershot yesterday, when fifteen traction engines and forty trucks were inspected previous to their departure for South Africa. A stretch of Sandy Rock road was selected for the tests, and gave excellent chance to observe the points of the engines. A steep ditch and banks two and three feet higher were safely traversed, though at times the wheels sank axle deep, other engines pulled out the helpless ones. The Duke of Connaught and Prince Louis and Prince Victor Napoleon attended the trials and were much pleased with the result. Twenty-four of these engines will be dispatched to South Africa.

The preparation to call out the second army corps, taken in conjunction with the extraordinary naval activity here, has again aroused the belief in good circles that the Government has good reason to anticipate European hostility. No reason to justify this latest reiteration of rumors of Russian, French or German intervention can be found however. It was learned on good authority that the motive consists, to quote an official, in wanting to show the other fellows what we can do and in a line with calling out the militia, a purely precautionary measure dictated by the necessity of bringing up the home military force to its normal strength, or rather a strength proportionate to the necessities of a nation engaged in a foreign war. Still, it is doubtful whether the Government will be actually called out.

That development depends on the circumstances, first the attitude of European nations, as evinced by this serious British reverse; second, upon the judgment of General Buller, who

Improvements in store and service

The most casual visitor cannot fail to be impressed with the many changes and improvements in these stores within the past few months—and these changes, be it remembered, are all for the betterment of the business, making Hale's a more inviting, more attractive place in which to do your shopping.

The new building, with its really elegant appointments, gives room to four new and important departments: The Millinery, Dressmaking and Ladies' Man-tailoring, on the second floor, and the Grocery Department on the third floor.

Electric elevators, the most modern and perfected form of carrier, maintain close and rapid communication with the several floors, and add much to the pleasure of shopping.

Within a very few days the newest and most improved cable cash system will be in operation, the idea being to give you quicker and better service than formerly. Electricity furnishes the motive power for this system.

A modern system of steam heating has been installed throughout the stores, and Winter shopping will be stripped of its most unpleasant feature—You'll appreciate a warm, comfortable store to shop in.

There are cozy nooks about the Turkish room, with its inviting couches; the reception room, with its many conveniences, and the waiting parlors on the second floor, where there are comfortable chairs and soft divans.
