UPDOWN BRANCH OFFICES At Thomas W. McAuliffe & Co.'s Drug Store, southeast corner of Tenth and J streets.

Weather Forecast. For Northern California: Cloudy Thursday, with showers in the forenoon; fresh southerly winds.

OIL STOCK GAMBLING.

The "Record-Union" has twice raised the voice of warning against the oil stock speculation craze now rampant in this State.

The disposition to gamble in oil stocks has so grown that already an "Oil Exchange" has been established in San Francisco.

The legitimate oil industries need no artificial devices to capitalize them or develop their wealth.

two blocks back both north and south of that street. It will mean more quiet in the south section of the city, and will result in the building of many new homes in that region.

The company, on its part, under its contemplated improvements will secure better yard switching facilities, a speedier way out of and into the city, have far less liability of accidents, because of the thirty-one street crossings on the R-street line.

Assuming that the railroad authorities will interpose no objection to the proposition to remove the embankment on R street, that their track may be brought to the street grade, the city should take steps to effect an arrangement to that end.

It is of course, not in the mind of any one to propose that the railroad company shall remove the R-street embankment upon which the track now lies.

It is unlikely that the city should take steps to effect an arrangement to that end. It is of course, not in the mind of any one to propose that the railroad company shall remove the R-street embankment upon which the track now lies.

The railroad company can probably be induced to agree to this latter arrangement, and to lower its tracks to the level of the other streets upon the new grade of R street.

For this route is not to be used to run fast trains upon when the new line is ready, or for any other than occasional hauls from side-tracks at factories, etc., so that such cars as are run upon that route will always be slow and the use will be infrequent.

It is certainly very desirable to have this interior cross levee or embankment removed. As it is, it is a great inconvenience to the people, a positive detriment to the growth of the south-end; it is unsightly and suggests a time of need which has now passed not to return.

Of course if the arrangement suggested is effected there will have to be a gentle incline from the grade of Front street to the new grade on R street and this will probably extend as far east as Fourth street.

But beyond that to the end of the R-street grade at Thirty-first street, the removal of the embankment and the proper grading of R street will be a blessing to the whole city.

It will add to taxable values and thus tend to reduce taxation. It will greatly improve health conditions by enabling a proper drainage to be effected. It will take out of the heart of the city a dangerous and unsightly embankment and thus stimulate the spirit of improvement and town beautifying, which are now becoming so prominent in our midst.

It is, therefore, to be hoped that the municipal authorities will take the necessary steps to arrive at an agreement with the railroad company by which the improvement suggested may be realized.

A WATER REPORT.

In the local columns of the "Record-Union" yesterday was a report to the Citizens' Water Committee from Mr. Grau who has recently visited the settling and the filter plants of the two Kansas cities.

In both cases the water supply source is a dirty river. In one case settling basins are used, and the water is passed through several processes and treated with chemicals before it is fit for use.

We invite reading of Mr. Grau's report on that point, with a view to having the reader ask himself the question whether the game is worth the candle when so much work has to be done to convert filthy or not least unserviceable water into a fluid fit to drink.

Mr. Grau says that the settling basins used by Kansas City, Mo., cover no less than seven acres of ground, and the water works are located seven miles from the city, in order to avoid the contamination of sewage discharged into the stream, and the offtal emptied into it by packing house concerns.

Twice the water has to be treated by injection into it of sulphide of alumina, and has to pass through six settling basins before it is fit to be delivered to consumers.

These settling basins, he says, have not proved satisfactory, for, after all the treatment described, the water has again to be filtered by consumers.

The Kansas City, Kansas, supply is also taken from the Missouri River, but it is filtered by the Jewell system, the same that was one time offered to this city.

The ten filters employed were guaranteed to furnish six million gallons per day. But with this system there is also a settling reservoir after the water is lifted from the river. When it has been filtered from this it runs into a cemented reservoir, where it is for the second time lifted or pumped in order to effect its delivery through the city pipes.

But, says Mr. Grau, when the river is very muddy in the season of freshets the guaranteed supply of clear water falls down one-half, and this fact the people did not discover until the plant had been erected and paid for. The city is therefore now compelled to put in an additional plant to get the quantity of water needed.

Alum is used in this plant in the settling tanks when the water is very muddy, but not at other times.

It is greatly to be regretted that Mr. Grau did not ascertain and report three important facts, namely, the cost of the plants in each case, the cost of current operation, and the cost of replacement or refurbishing after the efficiency of either has been impaired by use—otherwise, the per cent. of deterioration. In none of these settling or filtering schemes proposed for Sacramento, have we been able to pin any proponent down to even approximate figures of cost, maintenance and replacement.

While by no means attached to the east side well system now under investigation to the exclusion of investigation of all others; while in favor of the best and most economic system; while perfectly content to abide the actual, fair and full test of any and all systems proposed for Sacramento, the "Record-Union" is decidedly in favor of that water which needs the least treatment if it can be procured in quality and quantity within the economic bounds which must limit our output for a water supply.

But it suggests to any one of sensibility and a love for cleanliness that water treated as that at Kansas City, Mo., has to be, as described by Mr. Grau, is not inviting. Indeed, the very thought of it tends to make a refined stomach turn upon itself in revolt.

If the east side system fails us, if it turns out that we cannot get proper and sufficient water from that source, and are compelled to turn to some other, in the name of decency let us get just as far away from the conversion of unclean and polluted water into apparently potable water as is possible.

For our own part, and we think we echo the thought of ten out of twelve people, we would gladly pay a double price for clear, pure water, untreated.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

EXTRACTS FROM EDITORIAL EXPRESSIONS.

State and Coast Opinions on Subjects of Living News Interest.

Los Angeles Express: Senior Regidor is reported as saying that Aguinado and his Generals smile at the plan of campaign mapped out by General Otis, the features of which they claim to know.

There are two ways of smiling, one out of the right, the other out of the wrong side of the mouth. The senior can later describe which brand of smile he meant.

WHOSE BUSINESS WAS IT? Fresno Republican: You may think that the Filipinos could govern themselves if we left them to do it, and doubtless you have a right to your opinion, but you must hold it in the face of the fact that every man in the world whose knowledge of the subject is first hand, based on large personal experience, is of the contrary opinion.

You may think that it is none of our business what would happen if we left the islands, and you have the right to that opinion, as you have the abstract right to any opinion, but the whole world is of the contrary opinion, and stands ready to act on it.

You may think that no one agrees with you except people who, like yourself, know very little definite about the question, and that every man in the world who has anything like definite or authoritative knowledge is of the contrary opinion.

And, while you may continue to go your own way, the world will go the other way.

TOPICS. In Dulare Register: Topics has unfortunately forgotten what paper he clipped it from but some enterprising searcher has stumbled into the following refrain which was sung in the days when Jefferson was adding Louisiana, and trying to add Cuba, to the American Union.

See him commence, land speculator, And buy up realms of nature. Towns, cities, Indians, Spaniards, Prairies.

This was sung by the "Little Americans" in those days of derision of Jefferson's expansion policy, but the trouble with quoting it with advantage against the anti-expansion worshippers of Jefferson in our day is that the Little American singers of the refrain were the ancestors of our day expansionists.

The exigencies of opposition induced the Federalists to mount the wrong horse in their day and it has put the Democrats on the wrong horse in ours. Query, have the American people got any sense that they are under obligations to use or are they for or against things mostly through partisanship and downright contrariness?

PLEAS OF JOURNALISM. Stockton Record: Only a few days ago the yellow newspapers had it that the Government let a couple of the Philippine islanders through the Peace Commissioners' fingers. Notwithstanding the mocking cry of "consent of the governed," the jaundiced editors "jumped on" the Commissioners and the administration for missing an opportunity to "oppress" more alleged strugglers for liberty or death.

Now the same class of irresponsibles have changed from those to the Sulu group. A few days ago they censured the Government for not having secured sufficient control without the consent of the governed to extinguish polygamy in those islands.

Now some of the same strugglers and howlers are gleefully giggling that it will cost more than it will come to for the Government to attempt any kind of government over the Mohammedan population there.

This style of journalism has its advantages. Nobody expects a yellow yeller to be bound by his own utterances from day to day, and he has all the license of a lunatic's irresponsibility and it is about all he has of influence except with other irresponsibles. Many of these fellows are brilliant, but it must be remembered that lunatics and rogues are often brilliant.

PEOPLE ABROAD. Santa Rosa Republican: The people who persist in living in some other country than their own often make a great deal of trouble. They expect and public sentiment concedes them more protection abroad than at home.

The man who gets into trouble with his neighbors of the land to which he overtly and receives rough treatment in consequence cannot have the national army called out for his protection, abroad if he is treated to any indignity but if it becomes a very serious matter, the South African war has been caused by Englishmen who insisted on living under another flag than their own, and England has ever been active in protecting the rights of her people in other lands.

Our own Government has often been censured for being less vigilant than England in this respect. But what is the sense in any Government assuming more responsibility for the life and property of its citizens abroad than at home? We think there is none.

While the representatives in a foreign land of any Government are treated to all the protection that can be given them, the people who deliberately go out from their own country, for monetary or other reasons to live elsewhere should look for protection very largely to the laws and customs of that land in which they elect to live.

DEWEY. Redlands Facts: "Dewey did it" has been a very common expression running through the newspapers up to the present time. "Dewey said it" is not apt to become quite as popular, especially since he has utterly crushed the hopes of the Democrats and would-be Fusionists by declaring that under no circumstances will he consent to become a candidate for the presidency.

Moreover, he has given the direct lie to that he would be out for the office in time or eventuality give his consent. No! "Dewey said it" will not be as popular as "Dewey did it," and we miss our guess if in certain quarters the latter expression is not tabooed altogether hereafter.

AUTOMOBILES. Willows Journal: About fifteen months ago a horseless carriage was brought from Paris to this country, the invention of a Frenchman. Since that time an American manufacturer, who pays a royalty to the French inventor, has sold over 500 carriages right in Paris.

The cost of the American carriage is one-half the price paid for the French article and the Paris people are buying them as fast as they can be made and get them for much less than an American can buy them at the factory. This is an illustration of the genius and energy of the American who enjoys protection at home to such an extent that he can sell at $500 in a foreign market, what readily brings $1,100 at home.

HOPES FOR MCKINLEY'S DEFEAT. Humboldt Standard: The Anti-Imperialist League has an ally, or at least a well-wisher, in Germany. Dispatches from Germany, found in Sunday morning's San Francisco dailies, show that the German press is hostile to President McKinley. One dispatch says: "The Semi-Official Post" German press, editorially, the hope that the Anti-Imperialist movement would lead to the defeat of President McKinley.

This shows that the Government in Germany hopes for the defeat of McKinley. Why? Manifestly because the leading officials and papers believe that a new American tariff law would be enacted which would be more favorable to them and that the Philippines would be abandoned, in case President McKinley should be defeated.

The sugar duty in our tariff laws, and the certainty that we shall have enough sugar-producing territory to supply our demand without buying beet sugar from Germany, render the present Administration distasteful to the Germans. Our protective tariff keeps the money at home to pay our workmen and our farmers, instead of sending it to Europe and paying German laborers and mechanics wages in their own country.

This is the secret, if German hostility to President McKinley in Europe. But, when the Germans wish to thrive by getting American wages, they must come to America, where they are welcome, for they make good, thrifty, frugal and energetic citizens.

The Germans who live in this country and have become citizens of America, will have but little sympathy with the semi-official utterances of the "Post." We can get along very well without any interference in our politics from over the sea, and McKinley will be elected on an American, protective and sound money platform as he was in 1896, though every German official paper in the empire should denounce him.

The Anti-Imperialist may be proud of his allies in Europe. If we should surrender the Philippines they would be a rich prize for the German Emperor, who is looking after new territory and has invaded China with the hope of securing a large slice of her territory when the "carving up" process begins.

ALASKAN BOUNDARY. Alameda Enchan: The Canadians persist in their demand that the United States give them some of the Alaska territory belonging to this country and whose title was never in question during all the Russian occupancy and during our own until the gold discoveries on the Yukon made them want a seaport in Alaskan waters. The American people will never consent to this.

As well might this country demand Vancouver Island or any other portion of the Canadian territory upon which it might set covetous eyes. The United States would be very foolish to even think of submitting the question to arbitration. A householder does not arbitrate when a burglar gets some of his property and is caught while trying to get away. And that is about the position occupied by Canada. She has not a foot to stand on in this controversy.

No Trail Back. He was a tanned and wrinkled and grizzled frontiersman who had spent nearly half a century along the trails of the frontier, where he had hunted and mined and trapped and scouted and prospected and fought Indians. He had climbed mountains and scaled peaks and crossed deserts with never a thought of fear, for he knew that he could always depend on his sharp eye and his quick intelligence to tell him where he was and how he could get out. And then, one day, he decided he would like to see the ocean, and so he came out to Catalina. When he came a friend he had acquired in Los Angeles asked him how he liked the ocean.

"Well, sir," he replied, "I felt a little bit ticklish, that's what I did. When I stood on that deck and saw the land hikin' away and the waves rollin' in there behind us, I felt a little skeery, for the first time in my life."

"What was the matter? Were you seasick?" "Seasick! Nothin'! No, sir; there wasn't no trail back, and it made me feel a little bit skeery."—Los Angeles Times.

The Origin of Dreyfus. The curious origin of the name "Dreyfus," which is so widely extended among the Jews of France, Germany and Switzerland, is interesting just at this time. It arose in Elsass in the form of "Trevus." Its present form is due to a strange popular misunderstanding. In the year 1555, when the persecution of the Jews took a new start in nearly all the States of Germany, the Elector Palatine, Johann II., and his neighbor, the Archbishop Elector, Johann of Trier, agreed to expel all the Jews from their dominions. The Jewish fugitives from Trier sought a new home, for the most part in Elsass. The Jews of that time, faithful to their ancient customs, had not adopted the use of hereditary surnames, which had been common among their Christian neighbors in Germany for more than two centuries. Hence the municipal and communal authorities throughout Elsass entered the names of one and all the Hebrew immigrants as "Trevirus" (that is, "the man from Trier," the Latin Trevier). The "T" of the official scribe was altered in the popular dialect to the hard "D," and the official abbreviation "Trevirus" in the local registers became "Dreyfus." Thus every Jewish exile from Trier had to accept, no less volens, the surname of Dreyfus. There is no ground whatever for the various ingenious and fanciful derivations of the name from "Three Foot" (Drei Fuss), "Tripod," "London News."

WOMEN are assailed at every turn by troubles peculiar to their sex. Every mysterious ache or pain is a symptom. These distressing sensations will keep on coming unless properly treated. The history of neglect is written in the worn faces and wasted figures of our women, every one of whom may receive the invaluable advice of Mrs. Pinkham, without charge, by writing to her at Lynn, Mass.

MISS LULA EVANS, of Parkersburg, Iowa, writes of her recovery as follows: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I had been a constant sufferer for nearly three years. Had inflammation of the womb, leucorrhoea, heart trouble, bearing-down pains, backache, headache, ached all over, and at times could hardly stand on my feet. My heart trouble was so bad that some nights I was compelled to sit up in bed or get up and walk the floor, for it seemed as though I should smother. More than once I have been obliged to have the doctor visit me in the middle of the night. I was also very nervous and fretful. I was utterly discouraged. One day I thought I would write and see if you could do anything for me. I followed your advice and now I feel like a new woman. All those dreadful troubles I have no more, and I have found Lydia E.
