THE TOWN ITSELF. A Live, Wide Awake Population, Which is Rapidly Increasing.

It is many years since Globe came into prominence as a mining camp. When every adventurer who wooed the fabled goddess carried his life in his hand, fearless, hardy, ambitious men forced their way into the heart of the mountains...

It is not only the center of rich copper deposits, but is surrounded on all sides by richly mineralized veins of gold and silver as well.

Latterly prospectors have turned their attention in other directions, and now scarcely a week passes that does not record an important discovery somewhere in the district.

For many years all the material for working the mines, all the provisions necessary to the maintenance of the prosperous camp, in fact everything in use in the entire place was hauled by wagons from Wilcox.

Recently the G. V. G. & N. railroad has been completed to Geronimo and the distance from that point to Globe is only a trifle, as compared with the former long, tedious and dangerous haul.

Early in the history of southern Arizona, the famous mining camp of Tombstone became prominently noted for its rich silver mines.
