WASHINGTON, Aug. 7, 1848.—Senate.—The presiding officer laid before the Senate a communication from the Treasury Department, with a statement of the quantity of sugar imported, furnished in compliance with a resolution of the Senate.

Petitions and memorials were presented by Messrs. Benton, Mason and Downs.

Mr. Walker presented the resolutions of the Wisconsin Legislature, in favor of improvement of harbors on the western shore of Lake Michigan.

Mr. Benton gave notice that he would, at the next session, introduce a bill to relieve the officers of the Court Martial upon Lieut. Col. Fremont from their oath of secrecy.

Mr. Benton, from the joint committee of the two Houses for revising the present system of reporting debates and proceedings of Congress, made a long report, in which he recommended the present system adopted by the Senate has entirely failed in attaining the object contemplated—and recommends the employment of the "Union" and "Intelligencer" to publish on each and every morning after they occur, sketches of the proceedings and debates of the two Houses, to commence immediately, paying each $750 per column of breviter, payments weekly—and to employ also the "Congressional Globe" for the publication of full and revised reports of the speeches and proceedings, in book form, for binding and preservation as a history of the national legislation of the country—the proprietors of the Globe to be paid, as usual, by subscription on the part of Congress, for a certain number of copies, 2,000 copies of the report were ordered to be printed.

On motion of Mr. Rev. Johnson, the statement of the Secretary of the Treasury in reference to the number of officers in the Baltimore Custom-house is ordered to be printed.

Mr. Atherton reported, with-out amendment, the bill in reference to the payment into the Treasury of receipts from customs, without deduction or abatement.

On motion of Mr. Borland, the bill to grant the State of Arkansas a resolution in aid of the State remaining unpaid in consequence of overflows, was again taken up, amended by him, and after debate, passed.

On motion of Mr. Douglas, the Oregon Territorial bill was taken up, and the Senate, as in committee of the whole, proceeded to the consideration of the amendments proposed by Mr. D., from the Territorial committee.

The first of these amendments, was to insert in line eleven on the eighth page, after the word "effect," the words "provided, that no act of the Territorial Legislature shall become a law until approved by the Governor."

Mr. Davis of Missouri, moved to amend the amendment by adding thereto, "or if not so approved, until specifically submitted to, and approved by the Congress of the United States."

The amendment of Mr. Davis was adopted, and then the amendment of the Territorial committee, so amended, was agreed to.

Mr. Hale moved further to amend on the same page by moving it to the duty of the Governor to transmit immediately, for action by Congress, all acts not approved. Agreed to.

The second amendment of the Territorial committee, was to strike out, in the first line of the seventh page, the words "inasmuch as the said territory is north of the parallel of thirty-six degrees and thirty minutes of north latitude, usually known as the Missouri Compromise."

Mr. Underwood moved further to amend, so as to insert in the fourth line of the seventh page, the words "and to strike out the words 'Missouri Compromise'."

Mr. Douglas hoped the motion would not prevail, as the Senator would just as well attain his object by voting against the amendment of the Territorial committee, and he thought a straight course would be to vote against it.

Mr. Underwood, in reply, said that he was not concluding, he gave way to a motion of Mr. Johnson, of Md., to pass the bill over informally, as there was no probability that it would be disposed of to-day, with a view to go into Executive session.

The motion prevailed, and the Senate is yet in Executive session.

The amendment of the territorial committee, last above given, is important, because it is made as a preamble to the sixth section of the ordinance of 1787, which comes as the bill from the House, and this declares as the reason why the Wilcox proviso is inserted, that the territory is north of the parallel of 36° 30', known as the Missouri Compromise line.

The following is a copy of the amendments proposed by Mr. Douglas, and ordered to be printed, viz: At the end thereof, and all that part of the (rejected) Senate bill to establish the territorial governments of Oregon, California, and New Mexico, after the twentieth section, with the following amendments:

Page seventeen, section twenty-one, line three, strike out the words "called Upper California," and after the word "forty-eight" in the seventh line, insert "lying north of thirty-six degrees thirty minutes north latitude."

Page twenty-two, section twenty-six, line ten, strike out the words "or respecting slavery," and insert in lieu of them "and in said territory slavery or involuntary servitude (except for crime) shall be prohibited."

Page twenty-four, section twenty-eight, line three, strike out the words "called New Mexico," and in the seventh line, after the word "forfeiture," insert "lying south of the said line of thirty-six degrees thirty minutes north latitude, commonly called the Missouri compromise line."

Page thirty, section thirty-three, line nine, strike out the words "or of the territory," and insert in lieu of them, "and in said territory," in line fourteen, and the said territory of New Mexico shall stand in all respects, in regard to slavery, on the same footing as did the territory of Louisiana, at the time of its cession to the United States.

TO HOPE.—By Mrs. C. E. DA PONT. Spent bright when'er thou art. Why with eyes so fond and wooing. Look'st thou in my weary heart. Seest thou there no cause of sorrow. Written on its pale of lip. Joyous days—by shadows darkened: None record of war and strife? Smiling ever, yet bright, Journeying slowly along. Sometimes catching gleams of sunshine. From thy wild yet distant song: Now thy face with love is lighted. Now the deepest grief appears. Shout'st thou why must I clasp thee. Ever though my burning tears? "Humbly-lana."

Editors Critter.—A man taking the rounds of the papers from Texas to Maine and vice versa, of a Pic being the cause of a difficulty between two neighbors in Rhode Island—one of them being a candidate for a seat in the State Legislature; the result of this difficulty being the defeat of the candidate for the seat of a Senator to the U. S. Congress, who gave his vote for the war in Britain, which is stated to have been declared by a vote of one majority, and giving the Pic the credit of the declaration. We think to place a ring on this Pic.

The Congressional records for the year 1842 inform us that the vote on the bill declaring war against Great Britain and dependencies, was: In the House of Representatives, for the war, 79; Against the war, 49. Majority, 30. In the Senate, for the war, 13; Against the war, 13. Majority, 0. A READER.

CHEAP GAS.—The average nightly consumption of Gas at the Astor House, New York, is 1400 cubic feet. The kind used is "Coston's Silvic Gas Light," made on the premises from rosin, and the apparatus generates 1300 cubic feet in about three hours. The expense for two weeks ending on the 1st inst., was $48 98, being a saving of $88 22, as compared with the price of the common gas formerly used. It is said that the same gas is to be introduced in the Park theatre; and that, as the result of a very able report by a committee at Springfield, Mass., the Council of that town have commenced lighting it with this gas. Trenton, New Jersey, has also adopted the plan, and the city of Norfolk, Va., will put it into operation early in the Fall. In Boston many private and public houses have this gas.
