Railroad to the Pacific.

President Fillmore repeats the recommendation of President Taylor in regard to the opening of a line of communication between the Valley of the Mississippi and the Pacific.

Twenty years ago there were scarcely ten thousand human beings in both California and Oregon.

There is a population of two hundred thousand in California, the first State of the Union, and not less than fifty thousand in the Territory of Oregon.

Three plans for the construction of a Railroad to the Pacific have been laid before the country, and in one shape or other, brought to the consideration of Congress.

The third plan is that of Mr. Asa Whitney. It is a briefly this: A large tract of land on the line of the proposed road is set apart for its construction.

On this land, that in the first eight hundred miles is excellent, equal to any in the country. That which follows is poor; indeed, much of it can never support a dense population.

The consideration of this subject will be continued in another article.

Message of the Governor of Virginia.—The Legislature of Virginia assembled on the 21st instant. It was organized on the same day, and the Message of the Governor read before the two Houses.

Mr. Hilliard, from the committee on the part of the House to wait on the President, informed the House that the committee had performed the duty assigned them, and that the President would send a message immediately in writing.

THE McDONOUGH WILL.—The Philadelphia Ledger has the following remarks on the subject and legality of the McDonough will:

Mr. McDonough, the twelve million man of New Orleans, recently died in New Orleans, leaving behind him a fortune of nearly twenty million dollars.

FROM RIO JANEIRO.—Ship Friday, Captain Smith, arrived at New York on Friday from Rio Janeiro, with ten days later advice:
