THE RICH MAN... BY J. W. WHITFIELD.

The rich man thinks his gold his wealth, And all his gold can bring; The rich man thinks, when thus he thinks, A very foolish thing. He builds a palace, beautiful; The graceful columns rise, And while he thinks them all his own, They glint a thousand eyes. He spreads his floral garden round; The roses and the flowers bloom; But with himself we all enjoy The roses and the flowers bloom.

Interesting European Intelligence.

The interesting intelligence which follows, is a further selection from the budget of the steamship Navigators.

The United States Club have made the amende honorable for the reported insult offered to the officers of the United States frigate, Lawrence, by adopting a resolution "that all field officers, captains, commanders in the service of America, or other foreign States, who may come to England on duty, be properly received, and that the Minister or Ambassador, shall be authorized honorary members of the club, and entitled to all its privileges during their stay in England."

The French Constitution to be Amended.—We find the following in the Evening of the 15th of May: "There was a council in Ministers held today at the Ministry of the Interior, and the subject to be discussed was the revision of the constitution. The project to be presented by a member of the 28th, a member of one of the Ministries, and the project of the Minister of the Interior, is to be presented to the Assembly."

The Bulletin of Paris says: "The Minister of the Interior intends to present a bill to the Assembly, for the purpose of authorizing an extraordinary and special session of the Council of Ministers, to be held on the 15th of May. The bill is to be submitted to the Council, in the following terms: 'Ought the Constitution to be revised, and if so, in what manner? Yes or No, without any comment or explanation. The Opposition party cry out already against this plan. They say that the Constitution has left the question of its revision to the Assembly, and that the Minister of the Interior, by proposing to call on the Assembly, would give rise to agitation and intrigue.'

Madame Gris and her Husband.—By the deed of separation of the celebrated singer, Gris, and his husband, M. de Gris, he was to have the property of some iron works at Chiberty, but as the revenue arising from them was uncertain, it was further stipulated that the works should be sold, and the proceeds to be divided between them. The works have not been sold, and M. de Gris, the day before yesterday, brought an action against the wife, to compel her to sell the works, and to divide the proceeds between them. The court has granted the wife's petition, and she is to have the works, and the proceeds of their sale.

DESTRUCTIVE GALE ON LAKE ERIC.

BUFFALO, May 2, 1851.—We were visited yesterday by a gale of greater severity than has occurred on the lake since 1847. It appeared to be indicated by the barometer, and hence it caught our shipping outside unprepared, and we fear involves a severe loss of property, if not of life. The morning was cloudy and chilly, the night and early part of the day, the sky being overcast and the wind blowing from the west with great force, accompanied with snow, hail and rain. It continued with great fury throughout the day, and did not abate until late in the evening. The extent of the damage to property, and the loss of life, is not yet known. The following disasters to shipping have fallen under our notice: The brig J. G. Scammon left here yesterday morning, bound west, and was blowing from the west with great force, and was blowing from the west with great force, and was blowing from the west with great force.

The World's Exhibition. At the time when this exhibition was about to be realized near all England and all Europe, and most especially all Goodwyn, abandoned with interest, curiosity, excitement, hope, fear and doubt, regarding it, the day of the exhibition was the most glorious page in civil history, and assuredly every feature of its progress, is worthy of our calmest consideration with reference to its results. The active mind in all parts of the world has here a majestic subject to dwell on—to elucidate.

The annexed letter from the London Correspondent of the New York Courier and Enquirer, of the 3d inst., contains some graphic and interesting picture of feeling in London as regards the "opening" of London.

State of London.—The excitement is in some degree taking a recess during Passion week, and the Easter Holidays; and a great number of persons have left town. But so beyond all precedent is the town crowded at this juncture, that twenty times the number who have gone away would not be missed, if called on the instant.

The Exhibition.—I can give you but a faint idea of the present excitement, and the grandeur of the exhibition, of the multifarious forms in which that excitement displays itself.

The whole Press teems with every variety of suggestion, inquiry, and opinion, in regard to this, or that, or the other particular of the Fair, or of affairs.

Is it a loss? Does it? Will it give a final blow to the Exhibition? Can it, possibly, open the way to its completion? Can it, possibly, open the way to its completion? Can it, possibly, open the way to its completion?

These, and a thousand—may, ten thousand—other interrogatories, equally incongruous and absurd, assail the eye and ear, and fill the mind with the subject, in regard to the probable success or failure of the thing, as an experiment; as to the position which Great Britain will occupy in the world, as a competitor; and as to the ultimate effect upon the trading and manufacturing interests of the country.

From the severity and duration of the gale, we are apprehensive that we will lose several of our boats, and that the shipping will be much damaged.

An interesting Controversy.—Green, of the Tribune, and W. W. W. of the Home Journal, are discussing the question of fact, whether the American ladies paint, and, secondly, whether they ought to do so. Greeley says they do not, and ought not. Willis says they do, and refers to the sales of perfumery. And then he rather justifies the position, by showing that other deceptions are practiced with cotton and wigs.

And now, unveiled the toilet stands display'd, Each other's wigs in mystic order laid. With hair uncurled, the cosmetic powder, A heavenly incense in the glass appears.

The telegraphic communication with the Home Guards is to be established, in however, as I learn, quite a different manner, than it has been heretofore. It is to be established, in however, as I learn, quite a different manner, than it has been heretofore.

At any rate, there are very many among the public, who are in favor of the proposed measures, and who are in favor of the proposed measures, and who are in favor of the proposed measures.

The Bulletin of Paris says: "The Minister of the Interior intends to present a bill to the Assembly, for the purpose of authorizing an extraordinary and special session of the Council of Ministers, to be held on the 15th of May."
