

The Daily Crescent

OFFICIAL JOURNAL. Of the Council of the Second Municipality. Published Every Day—Sunday Excepted—By S. H. MADDOX.

From Brant's Courier's Weekly. The following lines, though often read, will never lose their charm:

The cheer's soft down, of sunset fire, They, round the bay, are glowing bright. The sea is blue, the sky is green, The sun is low, the moon is bright. The boat is full, the water clear, The air is sweet, the music true. The heart is glad, the soul is free, The spirit is high, the voice is true. The love is true, the friendship true, The loyalty is true, the courage true. The honor is true, the glory true, The fame is true, the name is true. The life is true, the death is true, The resurrection is true, the life is true.

AND IN THE NEWS BY THE ATLANTIC.

The steamship Atlantic, Capt. Wm. Liverpool, arrived at half past five o'clock this morning. Her news is four days later than the advices per mail.

The Atlantic brought one hundred and sixty passengers. It will be recalled that the America sailed from Boston for Liverpool, on the same day that the Atlantic sailed from New York, and the Atlantic reached Liverpool eight hours ahead of the America, the latter having arrived at 11 o'clock on the morning of the 17th ult.

The Atlantic has made the most remarkable trip to Liverpool and back on record. She left New York on the 6th of August, and arrived in Liverpool in the passage being twenty five days and seventeen hours.

General News. There was no new feature to notice in the trade in the manufacturing districts.

The sales of wool at London were well attended, and the market for the Duchesse of Southampton, the Caselli, Gustiniani & Co., a Greek house, have failed for £200,000.

A Royal order had been issued, declaring the child to be born of the Duchesse of Southampton, to be entitled to all the prerogatives of the Infant of Spain.

Count Alexander Callandrelli, minister of war during the Roman republic, will shortly be released from prison.

There is no political news from France, with the exception that a large majority of the councils favor a revision of the constitution. Commercial accounts are favorable. The harvest is an average one. The potato disease has appeared in the neighborhood of Paris.

England. The number of visitors at the Great Exhibition, on the 15th, was 57,000.

The commissioners have decided to close the building on the 11th of October.

On the 15th inst., the commissioners met to receive reports of the several juries, when the attendance of the exhibitors, local commissioners and others is required.

At the close of the proceedings leave will be given to the exhibitors to remove their goods, and the reports of the juries and the names of those receiving prizes will be published in the London Gazette.

Ireland. Reports of the potato rot indicate no further extension of the blight.

The Roman Catholic priests of Ireland have insisted their prohibition to accept the new constitution, and penalties of the Ecclesiastical Title.

Dr. Collet and Mellis have issued letters showing that the Catholic hierarchy is right, notwithstanding the recent act of Parliament.

The challenge of the yacht America remains unaccepted. She entered for the regatta at Cowes, on the 23d, when the Queen's cup will be run for. Six vessels of the Royal Yacht Club will also be competitors.

Spain. The Chinese news seems to show that the insurrection in that country is gaining ground, although little is known regarding its real objects or probabilities.

The advices from Siam state that the King of that country died on the 23d of April, and that the succession has fallen without contest to his two brothers, who are jointly to occupy the throne. The eldest of whom is well acquainted with the English language, and favorable to a more open commercial policy.

Napoleon at the Captivity of Paris. We have before given several extracts from Lamartine's new and brilliant work on the Restoration in France, but none we think written with more animation than the following description of the great captain when he learned that the Allies were about to enter Paris under the capitulation:

"We must ask what the Emperor was doing on the night preceding the triumphal entry of the foreign overlords into Paris? We have seen that after having ordered the assembling of several marshes of the army, on the 2d of April, under the walls of Paris, he had committed Troyes on the 30th of March, at daybreak, and that, accompanied by Berthier, his major-general, and by Caulaincourt, his confidential negotiator, he precipitated his course towards Paris. Uncertain of the success or reverse of Marmont and Mortier, he trembled for the heart of his empire, for his wife, for his son, for his brothers, for his throne and for his glory. He hoped that his presence and his name alone would be equal to an army for the defence of Paris. He only asked two days from Time and a respite from Destiny. Time and Destiny had granted his request, 60,000 men concentrated under the walls, an immense artillery, ready supplies, a popular enthusiasm communicated by his soldiers, one or two brilliant successes over Marmont or Blucher, and negotiations taken up by Caulaincourt on the heart of Chateau, might still have not his greatness, but his throne. He no longer denied the necessity of peace, and he hastened to give up the city, so frequently dedicated it. He was about to quit him all at the same time. He flew to learn as quick as possible the course of destiny, so frequently dictated
