

THE ST. TAMMANY FARMER
Covington, September 11, 1880

We would be glad to furnish every resident of this parish with a copy of the FARMER, but in order to be able to do this, it is necessary that everybody should subscribe. Our modesty forbids our making much mention of the advantages people generally would derive from a regular reading of this paper, but in order to extend its circulation and usefulness, we make this proposition: We will receive the payment of subscriptions any and every kind of commodity, at its market price in Covington, that our patrons may choose to bring us. An exciting election is ahead of us, and people everywhere should be posted on the situation. The FARMER proposes to meet all the requirements of a well conducted country newspaper, and we hope the proposition contained in this article will add many names to our subscription list.

LOCAL ITEMS.

SERVANT WANTED.—Apply at this office.

—This week the Bogue Falia has been booming.

—"Breakbone" makes business for the doctors.

—The new Burns Steam Cotton Gin is now in full operation.

—The huntsman of St. Tammany complains that the weather is too rainy to succeed in killing game to any extent.

—With cool weather comes increased business to our merchants. This week the streets are crowded with teams from the country.

—Reed's Gilt Edge Tonic cures Dyspepsia.

—Rev. I. L. Peebles will preach in Mandeville on Sunday evening, 19th inst., at half past seven o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

—This week we have had a blast from "Greenland's icy mountains," that was revigorating and refreshing, after the warm summer that has so recently left us.

—New bales of cotton are coming into town every day. They bring money, which the Scriptures saith is the root of all evil. Yet most people esteem it a most comfortable thing.

—There are many cases of fever in Covington and vicinity. This is unusual and is attributed to the continued wet weather. The cases are mostly mild and readily yield to the ordinary treatment.

—Reed's Gilt Edge Tonic cures Fever & Ague.

—The breakbone fever has broken out in Covington with astonishing vigor. In one family seven persons are abed with it. The prospect is that every human bone in Covington will have a crack in it before the "breakbone" gets ready to leave.

—Reed's Gilt Edge Tonic restores the appetite.

—If the FARMER for next week should come up missing, our friends can give as an apology that we have gone to Pearl River on a bear hunt. Bears in that locality are so abundant that they are becoming dangerous to the welfare of the commonwealth.

—This is leap-year, and consequently the young ladies are to "pop the question," when it is popped. Other years, when the young men felt it was their duty to attend to this interesting affair, there was something done. How is it now? Since the business is entirely with the ladies, there has hardly been a wedding in St. Tammany parish. This proves to us that there are some things that cannot be successfully managed by the ladies. Next year the young men will feel at liberty to proceed as usual, and then we may look out for better times.

—Last Wednesday evening the bank of the Bogue Falia, where it peacefully flows by our usually quiet village, was the scene of a battle such as was never before heard of in this neck of the woods. Six colored "ladies" declared war, on general principles, and pitched into each other in a miscellaneous way, and with tongues, fists, finger nails and feet scattered hair and blood in all directions. One solitary man approached as close to the battlefield as was safe, saw his sister in the thickest of it and yelled to her to go in and maintain the honor of the family, and he would stand by her. She did go in, under this inspiration from her hero brother, and the battle raged with new fury. Marshal Reagan, reinforced by the commonwealth of Louisiana, was the next force in the field, and after severe skirmishing the victory was on his side and the six Amazonians and one lone darkie man were marched to the lock-up. On Thursday morning the warlike party was brought face to face with Mayor Randolph, who officially declared that the Pelican State was damaged to the extent of thirty-seven dollars and a half, which amount he apportioned pro rata among five of them, say seven dollars and a half apiece. Three of them shelled out, while two went to jail, and they will not fight on the banks of the Bogue Falia for the space of ten days. The lone man who stood by and encouraged his sister wept bitter tears when asked for seven dollars and a half, but no use. The Mayor proposes to teach these warriors that this world is not all sunshine, but that it has its shadows also.

—Reed's Gilt Edge Tonic prevents Malaria.
