A law should be passed and strictly enforced, preventing two or three men from robbing express trains and coaches filled with passengers. These outrages are of daily occurrence, and the law should step in and put a stop to it.

A corporation has purchased the Herwig farm, near Amite City, and will establish a large dairy, and ship fresh milk, cream and butter to New Orleans. Covington presents unequalled advantages for such an industry.

There are 25,530 negro schools now in the South, where 2,250,000 negroes have learned to read and most of them to write. In the colored schools are 238,000 pupils and 20,000 negro teachers. There are 150 schools for advanced education and seven colleges administered by negro presidents and faculties.

Prospectors continue to arrive in search of desirable places to locate, and they generally find what they want, without proceeding further. We have the most charming country and the finest climate under the sun, and now that these facts are becoming generally known, we are receiving a most desirable class of new-comers, many of whom will remain here permanently.

The cultivation of rice pays, according to Hon. Aladin Vincent, a native of Calcasieu parish, and police juror of the fifth ward, this gentleman planted 230 acres in rice; most of the crop gathered was from 200 acres. He harvested 2000 barrels, of which he saved 175 barrels for seed and feed, and sold 1825 barrels for $3 a barrel, making the total sum of $5475. The total cost of producing the crop was about $2000, the net profit being $3475.

The recommendations of the constitutional commission, appointed by Gov. Foster to suggest to the legislature amendments to the constitution, verge on the ridiculous, and show what foolish measures can be formulated and devised by wise men when they get their heads together. The only sensible suggestion (to our mind) it made, was recommending the abolition of the circuit courts, and every man, woman and child in the State had agreed on that before the commission was appointed. Two Supreme Courts in the same State. What folly!—Morehouse Clarion.

Recently it was learned that cats readily contract diphtheria. The London Society of Hygiene reported two new cases as follows: A cat which served as companion to a child who died of this disease was taken sick, and during its sickness was nursed by four children. One of the little nurses was afterward taken down with diphtheria, and careful inquiry showed that the cat was the source of contagion. In another instance five children were down with the disease, and during their illness played with three cats, which soon afterward died, one after another. An autopsy demonstrated the fact that the cats all died of diphtheria.

Gov. Foster is beginning to train for the next gubernatorial race. It will be a grand sweepstakes, with all entries closed about January, 1896. There will be some good runners entered in the event, though their identity has not yet been made known. T. S. Wilkinson is heard in connection with the place. So also is the name of M. J. Cunningham.—N. O. Truth.

A farm on a poor road is not worth as much as a farm on a good road. The farm on the poor road may have just as good soil, capable of producing just as good crops and the improvements may be equally as good in every way as those of the farm on the good road, yet no man of sense will pay as much for it. How true it is, then, that no class of people is so deeply and vitally interested in the improvement of highways as the farmers themselves.—E.

VERY BAD POLICY. We extract the following from the proceedings of the Constitutional Commission, which recently met in Baton Rouge:

"The commission recommended that article 125, referring to fees and costs of justices of the peace and constables in the country wards be changed so that no fees be allowed by the State in criminal cases, but that salaries be fixed and paid by the police jury in the parishes; and providing that no mileage or fees be allowed to witnesses in these cases."

These propositions are both unpolitic and unjust, and neither should ever be allowed to stand. How can the police jury fix a proper salary to an officer that may never occupy an hour of the officer's time or that may take up much of his time owing entirely to circumstances of which neither they nor the officers can know any thing about until they happen. It is true that there may be officers who abuse their trusts and work their offices for much more than ought to be in them. But abuses of this kind can be more easily corrected in another way. To place all the justices and constables upon a salary, would most probably result in a bill of expenses to the parishes very much in advance of what they now pay, while it would, most likely, lead to some of them being half paid while others are paid double what their services are worth.

The proposition to not pay mileage and fees to witnesses would be an outrage on the citizen that the state would not allow one citizen to practice upon another. To say that a man may be compelled to obey a summons as a witness without compensation is simple robbery and is not entitled to respectful consideration in a civilized community. The state is able to pay the witnesses it commands to appear to assist in vindicating the majesty of the law. Not to do it would not only be wrong but it would cause many witnesses to evade summons and thwart the ends of justice.—Hammond Graphic.

RICE WINE. The Chinese rice wine and its manufacture is described in Amyot's Memoires, v. 468. A yeast is employed, with which is often a flour prepared from fragrant herbs, almonds, pine seed, dried fruits, etc. Rubraquis says the liquor is not distinguishable, except by smell, from the best wine of Auxerre, a wine so famous in the middle ages that the historian Friar Salimbene went to that town for the express purpose of drinking it. Ystrandides I compare it to Rhenish, John Bell to Canary, and a modern traveler, quoted by Davis, "in color and a little in taste to Madeira." Marco Polo says, "it is a very hot stuff," making one drunk sooner than any other beverage.—American Grocer.

MUST USE UP THE STAMPS.—Postmaster General Bissell has concluded what he will do with Wanamaker's Columbian stamps. He will make the public buy and lick them. Wanamaker made a contract for 3,000,000,000 of them, under the idea that as souvenirs they would be a howling success. A few collectors were pleased, but the business public has found them simply nuisances, and the demand for them has come far short of realizing Mr. Wanamaker's expectations. Mr. Bissell managed to get the contractor to let up on 1,000,000,000 of them, but there was a large excess left on hand then, and the post office people have been wondering what to do with them. The Postmaster General has ordered that they be issued to a number of the leading offices, and the long suffering public will have to lick them and get rid of them.—Picayune.

WHAT IS THE COLOR OF YOUR EYES.

Undoubtedly the most expressive organ of the human face is the eye. It has a language of its own, which may be only interpreted by those who have studied its interesting dialect.

The color and form of the eye are unerring indications of character. Take the color first. Brown eyes invariably indicate a sympathetic and kindly disposition; their owners are amiable and may generally be regarded as trustworthy.

Gray eyes usually denote thoughtfulness, tact, and discretion; while black eyes are almost always associated with a rash and impulsive nature.

Blue eyes may be variously interpreted, according to size and form. When they are normal in size and very clear and sparkling, their possessor is of an ardent, hopeful, enthusiastic turn of mind—vivacious and merry in temperament; but lustrous diminutive blue eyes are not a good sign, most especially when they recede far under the forehead; they generally show a selfish, unsympathetic and suspicious character.

Large blue eyes are usually tokens of a receptive and potent mind, sometimes allied with extreme sensitiveness and even jealousy and passion.

A full round pupil denotes fickleness and passion. Eyes partially closed are tokens of astuteness, often combined with insincerity.

Blank staring eyes bespeak an unoriginal mind, crude perceptions, and great pretentiousness. A clear shapely pupil upon a pure white iris suggests purity and nobility of character.

Eyes that move slowly denote innate shrewdness and tactful ability. Diminutive black eyes beneath heavy brows are tokens of great sagacity and supreme cunning.—Farmerville Gazette.

MARTIAL ASTRONOMY.

Men may be good soldiers without being scholars, and it is also true that men may be amusing when they are weighed down by the gravest responsibilities.

On the evening before a solar eclipse not long ago the colonel of a regiment of German infantry sent for all his sergeants and said to them:

"There will be an eclipse of the sun to-morrow. The regiment will meet on the parade ground in uniforms. I will come and explain the eclipse before the drill. If the day is cloudy the men will meet in the drill shed as usual."

The sergeants thereupon drew up the following order of the day: "To-morrow morning, by order of the colonel, there will be an eclipse of the sun. The regiment will assemble on the parade ground, where the colonel will come and superintend the eclipse in person. If the day is cloudy the eclipse will take place in the drill shed."

The American war steamer Detroit, while escorting a merchant vessel to the wharf at Rio Janeiro, last Monday, was fired upon by a rebel vessel. The Detroit promptly returned the fire and silenced the rebel commander. The American Admiral, Benham, has shown that he is willing and able to defend American interests in foreign waters, and he is now receiving the plaudits of the country.
