

With Rush of Diamond Mines,
A wild rush of diamond mines reported at Nallagan, Western Australia, where diamonds have been discovered in large quantities, it is feared that many will leave their lives in the mad struggle for riches. In this country the rush for gain is causing many other men to break down in health and strength. Nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of flesh and appetite and general debility are the common ailments. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will cure them all.

The wealth of the multi-millionaires is not equal to good health. Riches without health are a curse, and yet the rich, the middle classes and the poor alike have, in Hood's Sarsaparilla, a valuable assistant in getting and maintaining perfect health. It never disappoints.

Scrofula—Three years ago my son, now eleven, had a serious case of scrofula and erysipelas with dreadful sores, discharging and itching constantly. He could not walk. Several physicians did not help for sixteen months. Three months' treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla made him perfectly well. We are since all others as I do now." Mrs. A. V. CURED WITHOUT MEDICINE.

The Man with Rheumatism Comes in Contact with the Healthiest Man.

"Yes," said the man in the macintosh, lighting another cigar, "it was one of the most remarkable cases I ever knew. Rheumatism 25 years—both shoulders—had to be fed like a little child. Arms had hung helplessly down. I knew him—use of them whatever."

"And he was cured without medicine?" asked the man who had his foot on the table.

"Of innumerable," inquired the man with the slouch hat.

"And recovered the use of his arms in one moment?" observed the man with the goggles.

"Yes."

"I've heard of such things," remarked the man in the macintosh, "but I never heard of a man who was cured without medicine."

"I suppose so," said the man with the slouch hat, "but I never heard of a man who was cured without medicine."

THE TOMB OF JULIET.

A Magnificent and Costly Structure Is to Be Built Around It in the Near Future.

Cable dispatches bring the news that the tomb of Juliet at Verona is to be restored and that a magnificent structure is to be built around it.

Juliet, like some kings of England, a few Roman generals and other persons now equally famous, had never been known to mankind at large but for the art of Shakespeare. Lord Byron, writing to Thomas Moore from Verona, speaks in his 'The Grave of Juliet': 'Of the truth of Juliet's story the Veronese seem tenacious to a degree, insisting on the fact, giving a date (1303) and showing a tomb. It is a plain, open and partly decayed sarcophagus, with a relief in the center, in a wild and desolate conventual garden, once a cemetery, now ruined to the very grass. The situation struck me as very appropriate to the legend, being blighted as these 'loves' were. For here Juliet, and her beauty makes the plot for his immortal play. As a matter of fact, Juliet's resting place may be a ruined grave and desolate, but it needs no transformation to restore it to the imagination.

JULIET'S TOMB AT VERONA.

three men who made Italy "savagely and unmanageable." The Veronese believe the legends of these famous 'loves' to be historically true, but although the historians have neglected it, the romancers have not. The first written story of the loves of "Juliet and her Romeo" of which there is account is that of Masuccio, a Neapolitan, who lived about the middle of the fifteenth century. He places the scene of his action at Sienna, and makes no mention of the Montagues and Capulets. The bride recoverer from her trance, as did Juliet, but to find her husband executed for murder. Douce takes the legend back to a Greek romance by Xenophon Ephesus. The story of Romeo and Juliet was also told by Luigi da Porto, and his romance, published in 1575, is the source of the play. In 1581, a play in English was written and published by Shakespeare. In a copy of Brooke's poem belonging to Rev. H. White, of Lichfield, there is this address to the reader: "Though I saw the same argument lately set forth on the stage with more commendation than I can look for, being there much better set forth than I have or can do, yet the same matter, penned as it is, may serve to lyke good effect if the readers will be diligent in their choice, and in order to consider it, which hath the more encouraged me to publish it, such as it is."

Shakespeare had therefore "set forth" for him his great play, blemished and all, but he had courage enough to try one of his own, and it is the Shakespeare play that lived. Many attempts have been made to show that Shakespeare "spoiled" the story by changing some of the scenes in his models, but most people who have heard of this fact, Shakespeare's play was first printed in 1597 under the title: "An Excellent Comedie Tragedie of Romeo and Juliet. As it hath bene often (with great applause) played publicly, by the right honorable the Lord of Hunsdon, his Servants." A copy of this edition, as may be imagined, is very rare and highly valuable. The play was revised and corrected, and its finished form is to be found in the great folio edition of 1623.

Purchasing Table Linens.
The young housekeeper buying her outfit of table linens will find it an economy to provide a generous supply of tray cloths and carvers' cloths. These for general use need not be embroidered, and are preferable, indeed, of hemstitched finish or fringed. They are a genuine saving to the large cloth merchant, and being much more easily laundered, can be renewed with great frequency. It is the practice of an old housekeeper, who is an adept at fine hemstitching, to cut up the best parts of a fine tablecloth which shows signs of wear into a set of cloths. Where the art of such decoration is unacquired, the cloth may be neatly hemmed and finished with an edge of linen torcheur.

Collar of a Princess.
For women who are growing a bit past a stiff collar is an impossibility. A woman of this type should adopt the velvet band the princess of Wales has made such a familiar thing to her set. Whether at court in a décolleté gown, at a reception, garden party or yachting, England's future queen wears a velvet hand about her throat. It is covered with jewels, ornamented with the flag of her husband's yacht in enamel, or plain, according to the occasion. Her intimates say that even her dressing gowns have this becoming finishing touch. For nothing softens the face and throws such a flattering glow as velvet.

New Gloves.
Tan gloves are quite as fashionable as white for calling and street wear, but white, pale yellow and pink are the proper tints for evening dress, except with a black costume, which requires a black glove. The four-button length is worn with the long sleeves.

A Violet Puff.
Collar bands with high standing ruffs and battlement-shaped pieces wired to stand out well from the neck have become a settled fashion; but a novelty is the use of violets to cover the tabs, and other small artificial flowers arranged in a wreath around the edge.

BITS OF KNOWLEDGE.

Try to Remember Them for They Will Save You Lots of Trouble and Annoyance.

The unsightly white marks on tables caused by handling too hot dishes upon them can be removed by the application of a little paraffin rubbed on to them with a piece of flannel. Afterward polish with alcohol.

To remove stains from linen rub them on either side with yellow soap, and then apply starch made into a paste with cold water. Rub this paste well into the stains and then put the cloth to hang out in the open air—if possible in the sun—for some hours. After it has been washed in ordinary way the stains will have disappeared.

To clean enameled saucers: Dissolve half a teaspoonful of chloride of lime in a saucapan of water and boil till all the stain is removed. Wash in cold water. Rub this paste well into the stains and then put the cloth to hang out in the open air—if possible in the sun—for some hours. After it has been washed in ordinary way the stains will have disappeared.

To prevent the saucapan burning when boiling milk: Rinse well with cold water before putting the milk in, and heat over a slow fire.

The oil left from sardines is an excellent substitute for butter in mixing fish cakes.

Yellow oil stains left by the sewing machine will easily be removed in the wash if they are first rubbed over with a little liquid ammonia.

Use soap water for making starch. The linen will have a glossier appearance and the iron will not be so apt to stick.

To grind old scissors at home saw the blade on the neck of a glass bottle, as if you were trying to saw that part of it. In a short time the scissors will be quite sharp.

To lighten the kitchen table: Spread it all over with this paste of chloride of lime and hot water; leave on all night, and in the morning wash off with cold water.

To remove iron rust from marble: Use a solution of one quart of nitric acid in 25 parts of water. Apply to the spots only, then rinse with water and ammonia.

The housewife who wishes to buy eggs when they are cheap and preserve them for future use will do well to follow these directions: Mix equal portions of unslaked lime and salt. Put a good layer of this mixture in a deep box, then a layer of eggs far apart from each other, and standing on end (broad end up). Continue with alternate layers of eggs and the mixture until the box is filled, which is then fastened. Properly packed they will easily keep for a year.

A hasty expedient when your postage stamp refuses to stick is to moisten it and rub across the gummed flap of your envelope. It will take on a sufficient amount of moisture to hold the stamp in place. —Marion Dewey, in Chicago Record.

UP-TO-DATE GLOVES.

Some of the Modes That Will Be Fashionable for Street and Evening Wear.

It has always been claimed that a woman is not dressed unless her hands are covered. If this be so the woman of fashion will have to go a little deeper down in her pocket than usual this year, for gloves have advanced in price. It is said that the dealers have been driven to do this on account of the expense incurred in securing the delicate colors in which kid now comes.

Street gloves are made to match in color the gown with which they are worn.

STREET AND EVENING GLOVES.

Perfumed Soap.
Cut in very small shavings one-half pound of pure imported castile soap. Place in a porcelain vessel and pour on two quarts of boiling water. Let it simmer, stirring it gently, till every particle of soap is dissolved. When this is done it should have the consistency of thick cream.

If thicker add more warm water. Stir in one-quarter of a pint of alcohol and set aside in a warm room for several days. All the impurities will settle in the bottom and the lotion will be as clear as crystal. Pour off, being careful not to disturb the settled portion. Add one-quarter ounce of essence of verberna, and you have the nicest, most harmless soap possible.

White lace curtains often turn a sickly, starchy shade after they have been laundered. To prevent this, prepare the boiling starch in the usual manner. In a little clear water put a tablespoonful of ochre, stir until smooth. Add the ochre to the starch and mix well. Starch the curtains in the usual way, and the suggestion of ochre will not fade soon. This mixture will be sufficient to color one pair of curtains.

Pleasant Luncheon Drink.
A pleasant drink of luncheon is made from orange tips placed with fruits. The juice is served in tall glasses and is undiluted. Into each glass is dropped four slices of banana, a Tokay grape cut and seeded, a slice from a tart apple and a pinch of sugar. The drink, of course, is intended to be sipped through the courses, and may be the only one served. A preserved cherry and slice of canned peach or any other pretty fruit can be used.

Perfume Burners in Demand.
A perfume burner is the latest fad. They are little glass lamps supplied with carbon tips placed in the center of a round Wick. The lamp is filled with a specially made violet perfume, the Wick is let burn till the carbon is heated and then the flame is put out. The sweet fragrance of violets is wafted through all the rooms of a house in this manner.

WHAT ALABASTINE IS.
Alabastine is the original and only durable wall coating on the market. It is a white, non-toxic, and fireproof preparation. Alabastine is made ready for use by the addition of cold water. It is put up in dry powdered form, in five-pound packages, with full directions for every package. It takes the place of lime and sand, and is used for wall, ceiling, and canvas, and a child can brush it on.

WHAT "KALSONINE" ARE.
Kalsoline are cheap and temporary preparations, manufactured from white lead, zinc, and other toxic materials. They are used for wall, ceiling, and canvas, and a child can brush it on.

CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS.
The interior walls of churches, school-houses and all public halls should never be coated with anything but the durable and pure Alabastine. So evident has this fact become that many paint dealers are used annually for this work. The genuine Alabastine does not rub or scale off, it is cleanly during the long period of its usefulness. Every owner of a building should use it. It is sold by all drug stores and dealers for four pounds and upwards. Customers are a five-pound package.

REJECT THE "JUST AS GOOD."
The dealer who tells you that he can sell you the "same thing" as Alabastine or "something just as good," either is not posted or is trying to deceive you. In selecting something he has bought cheap and is trying to sell on Alabastine's department, he is not only selling a cheap substitute, but he is also selling a dangerous one. Alabastine Co. own the right to make and sell wall coatings adapted to mix with cold water.

MADE AN IMPRESSION.
The "Smart Aleck" Candidate Spells His Chances by Being Too Foremost.

"Do you happen to know why the rural vote went to him when he ran for congress?" asked one leading Michigan politician of another.

"No, did I. Just happened to learn a few facts. He went to a big meeting of horticulturists in the cabbage head."

"Who cultivates the flowers of rhetoric?" was his next question, and then he wanted to know if the candidate could be forced and if they could survive a hard winter.

"After Chairman," shouted a little wrened man in the back of the hall, "I would move you, sir, that we appoint a committee of three to report on the feasibility of raising 'pumpkins in large cities and for the nation' attending from west to shoulder, is made of brocaded satin to correspond with the gown. Successful Enterprises Based on Merit —The Importance of Informing the Public of the Value of an Article Through the Leading Newspapers.

The few remedies which have attained to world-wide fame, as truly beneficial in effect and giving satisfaction to millions of people, are those which are based on the knowledge of the most eminent physicians, and presented in the form most acceptable to the human system, namely, skill of the world's great chemists; and one of the most successful examples is the Syrup of Figs manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Unlike a host of imitations and cheap substitutes, Syrup of Figs is a natural, healthful, and safe remedy, and therefore lives and promotes good health, while inferior preparations are being cast aside and forgotten. In olden times, if a remedy gave temporary relief to individuals here and there, it was thought good; but now-a-days a laxative remedy must give satisfaction to all. If you have never used Syrup of Figs, give it a trial, and you will be pleased with it, and will recommend it to your friends or to say who suffer from constipation, or from over-eating, or from colds, headaches, biliousness, or other ills resulting from an inactive condition of the kidney, liver and bowels.

GOVERNOR OF OREGON

Uses Pe-ru-na in His Family and Grip.

CAPITOL BUILDING, SALEM, OREGON. A Letter from the Executive Office of Oregon.

Pe-ru-na is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Letters of congratulation and commendation testifying to the merits of Pe-ru-na as a cathartic remedy are pouring in from every state in the Union. Dr. Hartman is receiving hundreds of such letters daily. All classes write these letters, from the highest to the lowest.

The outdoor laborer, the indoor artisan, the clerk, the editor, the statesman, the preacher—all agree that Pe-ru-na is the cathartic remedy of the age. The stage and rostrum, recognizing cathartics as their greatest enemy, are especially enthusiastic in their praise and testimony.

Any man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from cathartics. Cathartics is well-nigh universal; almost omnipresent. Pe-ru-na is the only absolute safeguard known. A cold in the beginning of cathartics. To prevent colds, to cure colds, is to heat cathartics out of their victims. Pe-ru-na not only cures cathartics, but prevents. Every household should be supplied with this great remedy for coughs, colds and so forth.

The Governor of Oregon is an ardent admirer of Pe-ru-na. He keeps it constantly in the house. In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman he says: STATE OF OREGON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, SALEM, May 9, 1895. Dear Sir—I have had occasion to use your Pe-ru-na medicine in my family for colds, and it proved to be an excellent remedy. I have not had occasion to use it for other ailments. Yours very truly, W. M. Lord.

It will be noticed that the Governor says he has not had occasion to use Pe-ru-na for other ailments. The reason for this, most other ailments begin with a cold. Using Pe-ru-na to promptly cure colds, he protects his family against other ailments. Such families should provide themselves with a copy of Pe-ru-na medicine in my family for colds, and it proved to be an excellent remedy. I have not had occasion to use it for other ailments. Yours very truly, W. M. Lord.

and, in fact, nearly all women who undergo a nervous strain, are compelled to grovel fully watch the greying pallor of their cheeks, the coming wrinkles and thinness that become more distressing every day.

Every woman knows that ill-health is a fatal enemy to beauty and that good health gives to the plainest face an enduring attractiveness. Pure blood and strong nerves—these are the secret of health and beauty.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People build up and purify the blood, and strengthen the nerves. To the young girl they are invaluable, to the mother they are a necessity, to the woman approaching fifty they are the best remedy that science has devised for this crisis of her life.

Mrs. Jacob Weaver, of Bushnell, Ill., is fifty-six years old. She says: "I suffered for five or six years with the troubles that come to women at this time of life. I was much weakened, was unable, much of the time, to do any work, and suffered beyond my power to describe. I was down-hearted and melancholy. Nothing seemed to do me any good. Then I made up my mind to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I thought the first box in March, 1893, and was benefited from the start. A box and a half cured me completely, and I am now rugged and strong." —Bushnell (Ill.) Record.
