Quarantine Not The Issue In Mandeville.

The Daily States having published a lengthy account of the Mandeville election, wherein its correspondent states that the two tickets in the field were divided on the question of quarantine, published the following letter of detail in its issue of last Tuesday:

THE RECENT ELECTION AT MANDEVILLE.

Mandeville, La., Aug. 21, 1905. Editor Daily States:

Dear Sir—A long-winded article in last Thursday's States, headed "Open Door the Burning Issue," is misleading because of its glaring inaccuracies, and I hope that you will, in a spirit of fairness, kindly accord space in one of the columns of your splendid paper to this emphatic denial, earnestly endorsed by many Mandevillians, and give it as much prominence as the article in question.

At no time during the very brief campaign preceding the town election referred to did the question of "quarantine or no quarantine" figure in any way. Indeed, the matter had been definitely settled several weeks prior thereto by the town council of Mandeville at one of its sessions, and citizens, both residents and visitors at a largely attended mass meeting, the few who favored putting up the bars soon discovered that they had run up against a large adverse majority and gracefully submitted to the latter's wish vigorously expressed, for wide open doors.

The election was by no means "one of the most hotly contested, etc.," and not a single candidate was pledged for or against "closed doors."

In fact, so meager was the attention given to the election, that few visitors were aware of the unusual occurrence. The contest was almost altogether personal, each voter casting his ballot not for the ticket named by "a party," or for those championing a political principle or economic scheme as your article would lead one to believe erroneously, but for favorite friends running for feeble offices in a country town enjoying promising prospects for the near future.

Mandevillians cannot conceive the motive underlying those grossly false assertions, nor the objects sought to be obtained by the mischievous fellow who inspired them. It is well for him that he cloaks his identity, for, were it revealed, he would certainly suffer severe castigation for endeavoring to work up a needless sensation and place the public-spirited, hospitable people of Mandeville, welcoming the world to their cheerful homes, their fertile acres and their health giving piney woods with unstinted hospitality, in this intensely falsely light. Fraternally,

LOUIS ROSENTHAL, Editor Mandeville Wave.

At a meeting of the town council of Franklinton, Aug. 16, an ordinance was passed forbidding any person or persons coming into the town from any infected point of yellow fever. No certificates will be received from persons from any unquarantined points—especially Hammond, Covington and New Orleans. Any person deemed guilty of a violation of this ordinance will be fined in the sum not exceeding $50.00.

A WARNING TO MOTHERS

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to grip. It is this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by Jos. S. Claverie, druggist.

Nothing on the Market Equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This fact is well known to druggists everywhere and one out of ten will give their customers this preparation when the best is asked for. Mr. Obe Witmer a prominent druggist of Joplin, Mo., in a circular to his customers, says: "There is nothing on the market in the way of patent medicines which equals Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. We sell and recommend this preparation." For sale by Jos. S. Claverie, druggist.

Magnolia House

MADISONVILLE, LA. Board by Day, Week or Month. Mrs. J. Milloit, Prop.

Held His Cotton.

The following is an extract from a letter written to the Avoyelles Blade by Paul M. Potts, President of the Louisiana Division of the Southern Cotton Association at Natchitoches, La., and will no doubt be read with interest by all who handle the staple.

What I have made by holding my cotton, I give the New Orleans Convention and the Southern Cotton Association credit for, because had it not been for the existence of these two movements, I would like many others have sold my cotton at 7 cents. I now feel handsomely paid for the gratuitous work that I have been doing in the interest of organizing the cotton producers of the South and shall continue to do all I can in the cause. I have faith in the ultimate success of our movement, and I appeal to all the good people of Louisiana to come with us and to do what they can to help our great cause. You all see how you could have been benefited by holding your cotton according to the plans outlined by the New Orleans Cotton Convention, and now that the price is above ten cents, is no reason why we should not push our work of organization harder than we have ever pushed it before. There was never a truer saying than the quotation: "In time of peace prepare for war." In my humble judgment we can make no better preparations than to build co-operative cotton warehouses at all points where one thousand or more bales can be concentrated. Each local organization can now own its own warehouse and have its classes and weighers. We could eventually bond them. Then everyone who wanted to do so, could use the warehouse receipt and borrow money on the cotton when it became necessary. I believe this to be the true solution of our difficulties and the sooner we do it, the sooner we will have the situation in hand. It has been said that the loss by country damage on the cotton held over from last crop would have been sufficient to have paid for the necessary number of these warehouses. The West never succeeded in paying off their mortgages until they had built a co-operative grain elevator at every railroad station where sufficient grain was raised. This enabled them to put their grain in the elevators and hold it when the price was not satisfactory. By this plan they made fifty cent wheat a thing of the past and $1.00 wheat possible, and it is my opinion that we can, with a system of local cotton warehouses make five cent cotton a thing of the past and ten cent cotton permanent.

I am going to try and get one of these local co-operative warehouses in my own town, and I hope to be able in a few days to furnish plans and specifications of the cost, capacity etc., to all communities who may desire them, and hope we can get a lot of them ready in time to receive our next crop.

Card of Thanks.

A vote of thanks is hereby tendered to Mr. Ike Samuels for his comic songs and recitations given last Tuesday evening at the Pavilion, at the entertainment for the benefit of the Presbyterian Manse fund. Also to Mrs. Ed. Heintz, who so kindly and ably acted as accompanist, and to Mr. C. Korfeldt's Orchestra for furnishing music for the occasion. Also to Misses Laura Conlin, Lillian Smith, Bianca Oliver, Marie Kronenberg, Adelle Dreyfus, Olivia Hoffman, and Mr. George Tierney, who either by recitation or musical selection, so kindly contributed to the success of the evening.

LADIES AID SOCIETY, Presbyterian Church.

Consul Brady, writing from London, says the English spinners expect to pay 14 cents a pound for cotton, and that they have sold eighteen months ahead on that basis, from which we infer that the present small crop will bring big prices.

Dr. Touartre's Fever Treatment.

Most Successful Known—An Excellent Prescription to Prevent Disease.

We publish below the treatment and preventative used by the celebrated French physician Dr. Touartre, of New Orleans. The treatment has been adopted and followed with eminent success in many epidemics, and is so simple that any one can follow directions without fear of making a mistake. Of course a physician must be called, but if one cannot be secured for several hours, the treatment given serves a good purpose and prepares for anything the doctor might do.

TREATMENT.

Put the patient to bed as soon as possible and insist on absolute rest and quiet during disease. Keep the room well ventilated but allow no draft. Keep the patient perfectly clean. Cleanse the mouth two or three times a day with Bicarbonate of soda—teaspoonful in a glass of water. Give Vichy water (Celestin) about three quarts every twenty-four hours. Give foot bath a la creole as follows: Half fill foot tub with very warm water. Place tub in bed, flex the legs and plunge feet in tub. Keep patient on back and put two blankets over tub and patient. Add hot water every four minutes until profuse perspiration is induced. Then quickly dry off feet and cover with light blanket. After this keep down fever with cool sponging as follows: Take large bucket filled with water of natural temperature and using large soft towels wipe off body until skin is same temperature as water. Then turn patient on stomach and sponge off back, legs, etc. Sponge head with water made cooler with ice. Repeat this every hour if necessary to keep down temperature.

Give no food for three days. On third day give milk and Vichy water, equal parts every four hours. Give an enema of teaspoonful of epsom salts in warm water morning and night.

As a preventative the following prescription has been found effective and can be filled at any drugstore: Reduced iron one dram, Quinine Sulphate 2 drams, Strychinine Sulphate one grain, Arsenious Acid one grain. Mix and make sixty capsules. Take one after each meal or three a day.

Evergreen Cottage.

Abita Springs, La., Aug. 21, 1905.

Whilst the rain came down in a deluge the inmates of dear old Evergreen Cottage had a jolly evening. They indulged in singing and dancing. Miss Sophie Gerken delighted them with her sweet voice. Mrs. Charles F. Thomas, of New Orleans, was the guest of the gay. Mr. J. F. Griffen, of New Orleans, our interesting friend, and Mrs. J. F. Mottram, always sweet and lively. The mascot of the Cottage, Jose A. Cantrelle, the jolly fellow, the handsome boys of Col. and Mrs. C. F. Thomas, Hadden and Jacques and their sweet little girl Agnes and Miss Juanita Mottram, the charming daughter of Mrs. J. R. Mottram, and the merry boys, Francis and Oscar Mottram. Mrs. K. V. Cantrelle, the esteemed guest of the cottage and Mrs. Anna Gerken with her lovely white hair added dignity to the crowd. The beautiful songs echoed sweetly among the noble pines of Abita. After many jokes and games, which afforded much laughter, the pleasant evening ended with an old Virginia reel led by Mrs. C. F. Thomas and Jose A. Cantrelle, enjoyed by all. They retired by singing the well-known song "Good Bye Little Girl, Good Bye." Refreshments were served by Mrs. Cooley, Cochran and Wegand assisted by the most obliging of maids, Lucy Bird.

The merry crowd contributed freely to the entertainment which was given on Tuesday evening for benefit of the public school, and attended in a body.

Focus, Fool.

Focus—Bignatively (with a consciousness of the classical Latin meaning) a central or gathering point; the point at or about which anything is concentrated; a center (in referring to prevalent conditions of yellow fever); a point at which a case or cases of fever have been developed, in the connection now spoken of.

Focus—Plural of focus. (Pronounced as though spelled foss.)

Pearl River Items.

Editor St. Tammany FARMER

Pearl River believes in the "open door policy." There is no quarantine against anybody or any place even the notorious stegomyia mosquito has unbounded liberty here as yet. This scribe killed one last Sunday, and thinking it was a genuine stegomyia it was examined. Under the microscope it showed its pretty yellow jacket in alternate stripes, with black and white stripes on its still looking legs, its eyes were large and bright, its body small and slender, its wings standing upright ready for an immediate flight if disturbed. Its mouth (how can it bite if it has no mouth) well its mouth looks like the points of fine scissors. It pierces the skin and injects the poison, and takes your blood to pay for the operation. Then it is ready for more business. It is certainly true that this wonderful insect is the cause of the spreading of the yellow fever, and the fear of its being carried around in mail bags and on merchandise, clothes, and so on will soon be eradicated.

This scribe had a very pleasant outing of ten days duration, all the way to our old sister town, Sildell, and back without being quarantined. She did not even have to have her baggage fumigated or stop at a detention camp and pay two dollars a day for that pleasure. She thanked God she lived at Pearl River in these troublous times that try women's souls as well as men's.

Sildell is almost as large as some other towns, and is being built up in all directions, and will soon be so big it keeps on at the present rate. Some one has prophesied that it would in the near future creep up this way until it reaches our town. Then we would surely have "a greater" Pearl River. Our door is open. come on.
