Schoolboy English.

Here are some choice specimens of "associated ideas" drawn forth from the schoolboy mind during the tortures of examination: "Queen Elizabeth was never married. She was so fond of dresses she was never seen without one and she was beautiful and clever, with a red head and freckles." "The provisions of Oxford were butter, eggs, cheese bread and beer." "The constitution of Clarendon was so shattered through grief that he died quite a young man before he had time to grow old." "Lord Alfred Tennyson was a celebrated poet, and he wrote a lot of beautiful poems with long hair, and studied so much that he used to say to his mother, 'Call me early, dear.' His greatest poem is called 'The Idle King.' He was made a lord, but he was a good man and wrote many odes." - London Times.

Plans are being perfected to run a train from St. Louis to Mexico City in fifty-four hours.

In a recent issue of Harper's Weekly appeared an interesting account of Andrew Jackson's duel with Col. Avery. A correspondent of the Weekly, writing in the issue of Feb. 4, adds this to the story: It was Jackson's habit to carry in his saddlebags when he attended court a copy of "Bacon's Abridgment" and to make frequent appeals to it in his cases. This precious book was always carefully done up in coarse brown paper, and the unwrapping of the volume was a very solemn function as performed by Jackson, who was then only twenty-one years old. Avery, during the trial which preceded the duel, procured a piece of bacon the size of the book, and while Jackson was addressing the court he slipped out the volume from its wrapping and substituted the bit of pork. At length Jackson had occasion to appeal to Lord Bacon. While still talking he raised the bear-skin flap of his saddlebags, drew out the brown paper package, carefully unwrapped the string, unfolded the paper with decorous gravity, and then, without looking at what he held in his hand, exclaimed, triumphantly, "We will now see what Bacon says!" What wonder that the fiery young lawyer blazed with anger, while the court room rang with laughter at his expense.

Judge Blank, a justice of the peace from Kotchi Hills, Oklahoma, was called upon to perform the marriage ceremony for a young couple. The Judge, being from Arkansas, where ministers usually officiate on such occasions, was at a loss to know how to proceed, but, as the Chickasaw Express reports it, he sees to the occasion. He commended the couple to stand and be sworn as follows: "Do you each solemnly swear that you will obey the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the great State of Arkansas, and perform the duties of your office to the best of your ability, so help you God?" The couple nodded assent. The Judge continued: "Then by the power in me vested by the strong arm of the law, I pronounce you man and wife, now, henceforth and forever, and you will stand committed until the fines and costs are paid, and may the Lord have mercy on your souls!"

CHEATED DEATH. Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine E. H. Wells, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had kidney trouble, which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but I took Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and kidney trouble, and keep them constantly on hand since, as I find they have no equal." J. L. Watkins, City Drug Store, and Jos. S. Claverie, druggist, Covington, La., at 24c.

LAST HOPE VANISHED. When leading physicians said that W. M. Smith, of Pekin, Ia., had incurable consumption, his last hope vanished, but Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, Coughs and Colds, kept him out of his grave. He says: "This great specific completely cured me and saved my life. Since then, I have used it for over ten years, and consider it a marvelous throat and lung cure." Strictly scientific cure for Coughs, Sore Throats or Colds; sure preventative of Pneumonia. Guaranteed, 50c and $1.00 bottles at the City Drugstore, J. L. Watkins, Proprietor, and Jos. S. Claverie's Drugstore. Trial bottle free.
