

NAAMAN THE LEPER

He Gratefully Remembers the Little Hebrew Maid
STORY BY THE "HIGHWAY AND BYWAY" PREACHER

SERMONETTE.

No human greatness or power or riches can blot out the stain of sin.

Leprosy is a type of sin. It is incurable, except as God applies the remedy.

The world's self-treatment for sin will never cure the plague spot of sin. Only the God-prescribed remedy of Jesus' blood can cleanse.

Many Naamans in the world today are waiting for the word which will lead them to the place of cleansing for sin. Speak the word as did this little maid that will point to Christ the sinner.

When in a heathen land and among a strange people the little maid did not forget the true God. When away from home do you leave your religion behind you?

God's gifts cannot be purchased. The world's gold and silver and fine raiment are not legal tender in buying the blessings of the kingdom of God.

The sinner must accept God's way of salvation if he is ever cleansed from sin.

Many a sinner misses salvation because he willfully makes out the program as to how he will be saved.

The way of cleansing was so simple that Naaman almost missed it. So is it with the way of salvation. It is so easy and simple that many a soul refuses to enter therein.

The great Syrian general had to learn what submission and obedience to God meant before he could obtain the blessing of cleansing and healing. So it is with every one who would receive of God's salvation.

How great might he may be from the world's point of view, he must submit his will to God's will and must obey God's word before he can be saved.

When Naaman came to the King of Israel seeking cleansing, the latter knew so little about God and his prophet that he was unable to direct the needy leper to the place of cleansing. Too often this is true of the Christian. He is unable because of the low standard of his own Christian life to point the needy sinner to the Christ who can heal.

The dark hour of the little Jewish girl's slavery was made bright by the opportunity it brought her of pointing a needy soul to the true God. So it may be with the Christian. The darkest hour of affliction may be made bright with the kindly service for Jesus.

THE STORY.

WISTFULLY, and with a great heart hunger, the little maid from her vantage ground behind the bushes watched the gay cavalcade start. She had slipped out unobserved, for all the household had gathered to bid good-by to Naaman, the lord of the household, who with a great company of servants and soldiery was starting for the land of Israel.

"Oh, I am so glad he is going!" exclaimed the little maid to herself, "but I wish I were going, too." And she began to cry softly to herself, as she had done many and many a night since she had been seized by the Syrian hand during one of their raids into Israel, and had been taken into this strange land and sold to this great general.

True, they had been kind to her, but she could not forget her home away back there in Israel. She wanted to see mamma once more and her brothers and sisters. And as she watched her master depart the impulse came to rush forth and beg him to take her back to her home, but as quickly came the realization that she was only a slave girl, and could ask no favors, and with a low moan she sank back in her place. But the one comfort which she had had in her loneliness—the thought that the God of Israel whom her mother had taught her to reverence and love would not forget her—came now to help and cheer her, and she crept from her hiding place and slipped back into the house.

More than once during the days which followed the story of Joseph came to her as it had been told to her by her mother, and she had said, over and over again:

"God remembered Joseph, and he will remember me."

And there she was content to let the matter rest. So the days passed, but only once since that first morning when she had spoken to her mistress of the prophet in Israel, who could cure her master, had her mistress spoken to her of the matter, and then it was to remark, rather impatiently:

"Can help come out of Israel, when all Syria and the rest of the world has been searched for a cure?"

"The God of Israel is able to do anything," bravely but quietly ventured the girl.

"And is he more powerful than the gods of Syria?" was the contemptuous reply. "Why, then, is Syria great and Israel in bondage?"

The little maid made no reply. In fact none was expected, for the mistress dismissed her with an impatient wave of her hand and she left the apartment.

That night the household of Naaman was thrown into the greatest excitement and joy by the arrival of a runner who brought tidings that the master of the household had been healed and was even then on his way back home, and would doubtless arrive on the morrow.

There was little sleep in that household that night, because of the preparations which must needs be made for welcoming Naaman home again.

Even the royal household was in a fever of excitement over the joyful news, and the king ordered his chariot ready for the morrow that he might go forth himself to meet the great general on his return.

The wife of Naaman could scarce contain herself with joy and impatiently watched every detail of the preparations, keeping the servants rushing hither and thither until it seemed as though they would drop from sheer exhaustion.

Upon the little maid fell even a more trying burden, and by the time all the preparations had been made she was utterly tired out, and creeping off to her little couch, she soon fell into a heavy slumber. So deep, in fact, was her sleep, that she did not hear the bugle call, the shouting and the rejoicing as Naaman with his cavalcade came up to the house and was greeted by the waiting throngs.

The greetings are over. The ceremonies attending the return of the great general are ended. The king has departed for the palace, and the groups of curious and interested people are scattering to their homes.

"Oh, how good it is to have these back again, and healed," exclaimed Naaman's wife, when they were alone, and she reached up in a sort of awe and smoothed the fresh new skin which had taken the place of the unsightly leprosy spots which had shut him away from her for so long.

"Yes, 'tis wonderful," responded Naaman, returning the caress.

"Tell me all about it," she urged.

"Yes, yes," he responded; "but first tell me: Where is the little Hebrew maid that told me of her God and whose God has healed me? I searched all through the crowds that thronged me on my return, but saw not her face."

"Ah, that is what made thee so preoccupied. I wondered of what thou wast thinking as I saw thee searching the faces before thee, when thou shouldst have been content with but one face."

"Yes, and I am," lovingly responded Naaman, as he in turn patted her cheek, "but I must see the little maid and tell her, too, what great things her God has done for me."

And to the little audience of the great general of Syria rehearsed like an enthusiastic child the story of his visit to Israel and of his washing in the Jordan seven times, and coming out cleansed of his leprosy. And when he had finished he turned to the little maid, and putting his arm about her, asked, tenderly:

"And now what can I do for thee, who has done so much for me?"

The little maid looked up beseechingly into his face, and then looking questioning over at her mistress as she whispered the one word:

"Home!"

And even before the words of assent had been spoken she read the answer of her appeal in the loving, appreciative eyes which beamed upon her.

"I should like to have kept her as my own daughter," Naaman said to his wife later in the day, as they watched the departure of the little maid for her home, "but Naaman will not forget her."

Recording the Voice.

Dr. Marago of Paris is photographing the human voice, and with a powerful magnifying glass he is able to read the records of a person talking. It is the belief of certain scientists that these voice photographs eventually will take the place of writing, and alphabets altogether. Stenography, too, would be abolished. Instead of writing a letter the sender would talk into the microphone, pull out the strip of zigzags when through and post it. Forgery would be out of the question, for it is absolutely impossible to deceive the electric needle, which faithfully records every shade of tone. For books and newspapers the idea is to have a conventional imitation of zigzags of the various vowels and consonants in the form of type, which will be set in lines like ordinary printed matter. Telephone conversations would be as binding as a written contract to-day.

Thrifty Pyrenees Giant.

Every now and then some one announces himself as the "tallest man," one of the latest to do so being Senor Firmin Arrudi, a native of Salient, in the Spanish Pyrenees. He is seven feet eight inches tall.

Naturally most of these big fellows go about the world exhibiting themselves, that ordinary mortals may wonder and incidentally pay for their wonderment. Senor Arrudi made a tour of South America, where he made in one year more than $9,000.

He was wiser than many freaks of nature, however, and after accumulating his money he returned to his native village, where he went into retired life, married and is living on the interest of his earnings.—The Pathfinder.

Long Wireless Transmission.

Consul Thomas H. Norton of Chemnitz reports that by the Slaby-Arco system of wireless telegraphy over 1,000 words were recently telegraphed from the trial station of the company at Nauen, near Berlin, to the Austrian military station for wireless telegraphy at Korneberg, near Vienna, a distance of about 372 miles. He adds that this is the record result thus far in the use of the system for overland transmission.

The Reason.

Wiggins (to his new neighbor's son):—Where did you live before you moved here?

Johnny—Louisville. We moved here from Memphis and before that we lived in Moline.

"My! You folks move around some, don't they?"

"Yes. We're huntin' for a place where pa'll find it easier to work."—Woman's Home Companion.

Government a Good Customer.

THOUGHT IT NATIONAL TRAIT.

Driver Couldn't Understand American Not Being in a Hurry.

A traveler returned from Jaffa tells tale at his own expense. Having journeyed to the historical seaport on his way to Jerusalem, he succeeded in hiring a conveyance to carry him to the station. By speech and gesture he informed the native driver that he wished to be carried in a leisurely, sightseeing fashion through as many as possible of the principal thoroughfares of Jaffa, and to be delivered at the terminal just in time to take the outgoing train.

He had no sooner seated himself in the vehicle, however, than the driver whipped up his horse and whirled the dismayed traveler at a furious pace through all the dust and over all the stones of the notoriously rough streets of Jaffa. The passenger was too busy employed in saving his bones to be able to see anything of the interesting town.

Arriving at the station, he found that he still had two hours to wait.

"Why in the world," he demanded, indignantly, "did you ever hurry like that?"

"You American," responded the driver, with an expressive shrug. "All American like go very much fast."—Youth's Companion.

BOY KEPT SCRATCHING.

Eczema Lasted 7 Years—Face Was All Raw—Skin Specialists Failed, But Cuticura Effected Cure.

"When my little boy was six weeks old an eruption broke out on his face. I took him to a doctor, but his face kept on getting worse until it got so bad that no one could look at him. His whole face was one crust and he scratched day and night until his face was raw. Then I took him to all the best specialists in skin diseases but they could not do much for him. The eczema got on his arms and legs and we could not get a night's sleep in months. I got a set of Cuticura Remedies and he felt relieved the first time I used them. I gave the Cuticura Remedies a good trial and gradually the eczema healed all up. He is now seven years old and I think the trouble will never return. Mrs. John G. Klumpp, 80 Niagara St., Newark, N. J., Oct. 17 and 22, 1907."

Ready to Pay Fine.

"I know where $3,000,000 in cash lies concealed," said a New York lawyer. "This vast sum lies concealed in the inside vest pocket of the 30,000 automobilists of New York state. Each man carries $100 of it in one crisp note, ready to be paid out in a fine, if he should be arrested for speeding. Fine, though, don't appear to stop speeding," he continued. "Perhaps the rich automobilist regards them much as the Suabian wood thief did. The thief was arrested. The magistrate said to him: 'You are brought up on the charge of stealing wood. This charge has been proved against you. But you are old and poor and you shall be let off this time. Only don't do it again.' 'Nonsense!' retorted the thief. 'Let us not have any false sentimentalism here. I steal my wood, I pay my fine, and there's an end of it.'"

Economical Physician.

Ambassador Wu Ting-fang was once, it is alleged, telling about a certain selfish politician. He said: "The man reminds me of a doctor of Shanghai. A mandarin came to this doctor for advice. He could not sleep, had no appetite, suffered a good deal from depression and nevertheless was taking on fat at an alarming rate. 'Well' soon put you in condition again,' said the physician. 'What you need is exercise, good, hard exercise. Four times a week you can come here and put in the morning polishing my floors.' But why not my own floors?' the mandarin inquired. 'Mine,' said the physician, 'are larger.'"

CHANGE IN FOOD

Works Wonders in Health.

It is worth knowing that a change in food can cure dyspepsia. "I deem it my duty to let you know how Grape-Nuts food has cured me of indigestion. 'I had been troubled with it for years, until last year my doctor recommended Grape-Nuts food to be used every morning. I followed instructions and now I am entirely well. 'The whole family like Grape-Nuts, we use four packages a week. You are welcome to use this testimonial as you see fit.'"

The reason this lady was helped by the use of Grape-Nuts food, is that it is predigested by natural processes and therefore does not tax the stomach as the food she had been using; it also contains the elements required for building up the nervous system. If that part of the human body is in perfect working order, there can be no dyspepsia, for nervous energy represents the steam that drives the engine.

When the nervous system is run down, the machinery of the body works badly. Grape-Nuts food can be used by small children as well as adults. It is perfectly cooked and ready for instant use.

AT A CRITICAL TIME.

Women Are Likely to Suffer with Dangerous Kidney Disorders.

Mrs. John Kirk, R. F. D. No. 2, Detroit, Mich., says: "Five years ago at a critical time of life I was on the verge of a collapse with kidney troubles, backache, dizziness, puffiness, dropsy swellings and urinary irregularities. I lost flesh and felt languid, nervous or unstrung all the time. As my doctor did not help me I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. In a few weeks all these symptoms left me. I now weigh 163 pounds and feel in excellent health."

The Coloring Matter. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the government's famous food expert, was talking about the adulteration of wines.

"One day," he said, "I heard a wine salesman discussing a new price list with his father. The father was going to buy some wines. He turned page after page of the list, ticking off his selections with a pencil.

"Look here, son," he said, "how is it that your red wines are all dearer than your whites?"

"Why," said the son indignantly, "do you think that crimson lake costs nothing?"

You Would Not Accept Counterfeit Money, Why Accept Counterfeit Goods?

Good money is made by the Government in which you have implicit faith and confidence. Good goods are made by manufacturers who are willing to stake their reputations on the quality of the material offered to you through the medium of their advertisements in this paper. Counterfeit goods are not advertised. The reason for it is they will not bear the close scrutiny to which genuine advertised goods are subjected. Counterfeit money pays more profit to the counterfeiter. Counterfeit goods are offered to you for the same reason.

Insist on the Genuine—Reject the Counterfeit.

A Kansas Girl's Advice. A Lincoln county girl writes this advice to the Kansas City Star: "Why do young men do so much loafing? Go to work. Push ahead! I am but a young girl, but I clothe myself and have money in the bank. I lay up more money every year than any young man within three miles of my home. When they get a dollar they go to a dance and go home a dollar out. I advise all girls to cut clear of loafing boys. Stand by the boy who works, and never put your arm through the handle of a jug."

"Makes It Go Way." We are not going to try. When Bobby stubs or cuts his toe, it's "Ma, where's the Lightning Oil?" When Lizzie burns her hand or arm, it's "Where's the Lightning Oil?" When little Dick's been playing with a hunkie bee, it's "Where's the Lightning Oil?" The echo of all our afflictions is "Where's the Lightning Oil?" It's the balm that makes the pain go way. Sincerely yours, P. CASSIDY, Montevallo, Ala.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous membrane, such articles should never be used except on prescription from a physician as the damage they will do to the system is too great to be trifled with. Buy only the genuine. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. DESERVED TO WIN HIS CASE.

Really Able Argument Put Forward by Accused Sailor.

A very good story has recently been told in the fleet of an incident which happened when Admiral Evans was in command of the Indiana. An old-time bluejacket was at the mast before Capt. Evans, charged with getting food out of a mess chest outside of meal hours. This getting of food for night watches is a common and strong desire on the part of most men aboard ship.

Capt. Evans asked the man what he had to say; and the man, sizing up the delicate situation, said:

"Captain, I didn't take no food outter that chest. Why, captain, there weren't no food in that chest! I looked in that chest, and, captain, I met a cockroach coming out of that chest with tears in his eyes."—Harper's Weekly.

COMPLAINTS ABOUT PAINT.

The time to complain about paint is before the painter applies it. The man who puts up the money should not shirk the responsibility of choosing the paint. True, the painter ought to know paint better than the banker, the professional man or the merchant. The trouble is, the house-owner too often deliberately bars the competent and honest painter from the job by accepting a bid which he ought to know would make an honest job impossible.

Secure your bids on the basis of National Lead Company's pure White Lead and pure Linseed Oil and see that you get these materials.

No one need be fooled by adulterated white lead. A blowpipe testing outfit will be mailed to anyone interested in paint.

What is Pe-ru-na?

Is it a Catarrh Remedy, or a Tonic, or is it Both?

Some people call Peruna a great tonic. Others refer to Peruna as a great catarrh remedy.

Which of these people are right? Is it more proper to call Peruna a catarrh remedy than to call it a tonic? Our reply is, that Peruna is both a tonic and a catarrh remedy. Indeed, there can be no effectual catarrh remedy that is not also a tonic.

In order to thoroughly relieve any case of catarrh, a remedy must not only have a specific action on the mucous membrane affected by the catarrh, but it must have a general tonic action on the nervous system.

Catarrh, even in persons who are otherwise strong, is a weakened condition of some mucous membrane. There must be something to strengthen the circulation, to give tone to the arteries, and to raise the vital forces.

Perhaps no vegetable remedy in the world has attracted so much attention from medical writers as HYDRASTIS CANADENSIS. The wonderful efficacy of this herb has been recognized many years, and is growing in its hold upon the medical profession. When joined with CUBEBS and COPAIBA a trio of medical agents is formed in Peruna which constitutes a specific remedy for catarrh that in the present state of medical progress cannot be improved upon. This action, reinforced by such renowned tonics as COLLINSONIA CANADENSIS, CORYDALIS FORMOSA and CEDRON SEED, ought to make this compound an ideal remedy for catarrh in all its stages and locations in the body.

From a theoretical standpoint, therefore, Peruna is beyond criticism. The use of Peruna, confirms this opinion. Numberless testimonials from every quarter of the earth furnish ample evidence that this judgment is not over enthusiastic. When practical experience confirms a well-grounded theory the result is a truth that cannot be shaken.
