The following communication was read: New Orleans, January 3, 1911. To the Hon. Mayor and Common Council, Covington, La.: Gentlemen—The Commercial National Bank of New Orleans has placed with me for attention, a claim against A. J. Bryan, a lately deceased contractor and builder on the new school building at the corner of Florida and Harrison streets. The claim is represented by his note, secured by means of a pledge by him, of an acknowledgment for $700.00 in his favor, issued by the town of Covington. I am informed that the town subsequently issued certificates of indebtedness in denominations of $500.00 each, in Mr. Bryan's favor, the payment of which is to be made from the proceeds of the special tax voted for school purposes; and that one of these certificates is now held by the town, to be certified by a stipulation for acknowledgment of $700.00, above referred to, which is held by the bank in pledge. The bank is willing to substitute the $500.00 certificate for the $700.00 acknowledgment of indebtedness above mentioned, and will certify to a stipulation to hold the town of harmless against any action by Ryan arising from this exchange. As this proposal was first made in March last, my client feels that the offer should be passed upon without any further delay and trusts that such will be the case.
Very Respectfully,
GEO. B. SMART.
