KILLED IN SAW MILL. Horace Heard, colored, thrown from Carriage, Broken Leg, Dies from Shock.

Horace Heard, colored, about 24 years of age, went to work in the Covington saw mill Wednesday morning, and a few minutes later was thrown from the carriage. His foot was caught in some manner and his leg was also hit and a half inch of bone was broken and it was seen immediately by the attending physician that he would have to be taken to New Orleans for surgical treatment. In the meantime he was made as comfortable as possible at Poole's livery stable. Heard seemed to be doing very well until about 11 o'clock when he collapsed, and was dead at 11:50 a. m. A coroner's jury brought in a verdict of death from shock.

Heard said that he did not know how the accident happened. That it seemed to him that the lever either broke or slipped and he was thrown from the carriage.

CHINCHUBA ENTERTAINMENT.

The deaf mute children of the Chinchuba Institute will give an elaborate entertainment for the benefit of the Institute, May 22, at 1:30 p. m., at the Pavilion, Bogue Falaya Park, Covington. The good people of Covington will remember that the children have willingly co-operated at the centennial celebration and the Covington fair, last November, which was a success.

An excellent program in speech and sign language is prepared. Mr. Kornfeld, of Covington, will kindly act as interpreter. The musical part of the program will be executed by the ladies of St. Scholastica's Academy and the band of St. Paul's College. The Daughters of Isabella have consented to take charge of the refreshment tables. Different other opportunities to help the Institute will be given.

Hon. J. B. Lancaster will deliver the closing address.

Flagged Train With Shirt.

COVINGTON WATERWORKS.

Editor St. Tammany Farmer:

Although the election for waterworks for Covington is right on us (Tuesday, May 14), very little interest seems to be taken in the matter. Can it be that sentiment in favor of the project is so strong that no one doubts the outcome of the issue or is it just the lack of interest that is so often shown when the welfare of Covington is at stake? In this election the taxpayers of the town have an opportunity to put Covington in the ranks of prosperity or to hold her back ten or fifteen years behind other towns of the same size and smaller. Values of improved and unimproved property have decreased considerably within the past several years. Property values, like all other values, are regulated by supply and demand. Not so much by supply, as that remains practically the same, but the demand has all to do with it. In Covington there have been so many disastrous fires (and preventable ones) that the insurance companies are compelled to charge exorbitant rates. The rates on residence property are high enough, but on business property in many instances they are positively prohibitive. Conservative people will not invest in property that cannot be insured, therefore the conservative man is eliminated in the demand for our business prosperity. No conservative man is going to buy or own property when insurance rates run from five to ten per cent, while in its beginning, the business sections of Covington.

We need only to recall the conflagration that visited Covington last June, when property to the amount of $200,000.00 over and above insurance carried was destroyed. With one good stream of water played on the fire in its beginning, the loss would have been only a few hundred dollars. Would it not be "penny wise and pound foolish" to refuse to vote this tax when such an instance as cited above may be repeated at any time? Are we going to continue to allow conditions to remain such that when the fire alarm sounds, our hearts jump into our throats, for we know we have nothing to fight the fire with; or are we going to put in waterworks and have the secure feeling that unless the fire has already gained headway, it will be quenched? The cost of one fire like the one we had last June will buy and pay for, four times over, the kind of waterworks system we are asking for.

A great many offer the objection that we already have another case of the public school house, the money will not be judiciously spent. To avoid this possibility, the town council has decided to join with the Commercial League in naming a commission composed entirely of business men, which commission will not be changed with the change of administrations and whose duty will be to see to the placing of the contracts and the proper construction of the plant, etc. Surely it cannot be said that Covington cannot find the business man who can be entrusted to see that every dollar is well spent and to guarantee the completion of the plant within a reasonable time.

TAX PAYER.

The Rt. Rev. David Sessums, bishop of Louisiana, will conduct services and preach at Christ church on Sunday, May 19, at 7:30 p. m.

SAW MILL DEAL CLOSED.

The Sheridan and Cassidy interests have taken over the timber of Jones & Pickett, St. Tammany Naval Stores and John P. Rausch. The price paid was $85,000. Sunday school teachers need not be afraid, nor ashamed, to use the Suggestive Questions on the Sunday school lesson, which we publish each week and the same remark applies to pastors. These questions do not attempt to do people's thinking for them. They simply suggest thought and compel the reader, or student, to do his own thinking. The suggestive method of teaching is much more effective than the didactic method. It is also fascinatingly interesting. Just try these questions for yourself.
