HON. L. L. MORGAN FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

The death of Robert C. Wickliffe leaves the office of Representative of the sixth congressional district vacant. The question as to who shall fill this position seems to have been answered in every direction by the pronouncement of the name of Lewis L. Morgan, than whom we believe there can be no stronger candidate brought into the field. As to St. Tammany parish, his selection would be practically unanimous, while throughout the district his support would be very strong.

Mr. Morgan resigned from the legislature to take the attorneyship of the Twenty-Sixth Judicial District, and in both these positions his work has been highly creditable. He is now a candidate for judge of the Twenty-Sixth District. He would undoubtedly have entered the race for Congress, had he not been such a warm friend and admirer of Mr. Wickliffe, and we believe he would be a worthy successor to this admirable man of the people.

There are many reasons why Mr. Morgan should be a valuable man in Congress, both to the sixth district and the Democratic party. He is conscientious and upright; unwavering and aggressive when he has determined upon a course of action; resourceful and strong in defense of the principles which he upholds. At a time when it was estimated that Governor Hall could not carry this parish, Mr. Morgan did not hesitate to back up his advocacy of good government policy; did not hesitate to consider that defeat meant a weakening of his own strength among the people of the district in which he was shortly to be a candidate for judge, but took the stump and gave logical reasons for his action. The parish went for Hall by a good majority. There was pretty much the same situation in Livingston parish when he went among the people and appealed to them to aid the State in better things. It too, was carried for Hall, by 700 majority.

Mr. Morgan will always be an important factor in accomplishment because of his honesty of purpose, his personal magnetism, and his power of making and retaining friends.

ROBERT C. WICKLIFFE.

The news of the death of Robert C. Wickliffe was received by the people of St. Tammany parish with the deepest regret. Some had been with him but a few short days previous at Baton Rouge, where in all the strength and vigor of health he had championed the cause which his convictions dictated as best, and felt the influence of his warm and genial nature, his upright manliness and his unselfish and considerate friendship. That he should meet a violent death in the very midst of his search of recreation and pleasure, and almost at the commencement of a career that gave promise of great usefulness to the State and nation, was an added shock to the sadness of death.

Robert C. Wickliffe was born at Bardstown, Ky., May 1, 1874, and was a graduate of Center College of that State and graduated in law at Tulane University. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1898 and was elected district attorney of the Twenty-Fourth Judicial District in 1900, being elected by a large majority to Congress from the sixth district in 1908, and being re-elected without opposition. He also served in the Spanish-American War.

Mr. Wickliffe was married in 1903 to Miss Lydia W. Cooke of Louisville, Ky., who shared his ambitions, was a great help to him and gained prominence in social circles in Washington.

MISS SOPHIE B. WRIGHT.

It is said that a man receives credit for the good he does only after he is laid to rest. The work of Miss Sophie B. Wright was of a nature to attract not only public attention for its merit, but to create wonder that so frail a body should have to great a mentality and the vital force necessary to accomplish and sustain. The unselfishness of her nature, the modesty with which she carried the weight of so much achievement, and the love for others that made her labors an absolute pleasure, gave to her a personality that drew her within the spot-light on the stage of great actions and good deeds. In life, she was loved by all who knew her. In death, she is mourned by all who are left behind. Her life work was known and appreciated. Her death places a halo around her abode and will weave a wreath about her brow in the statue that will be sure to mark her memory.

CLOSING OF THE CONTEST

This is the last day in which the contestants will have to work for the prizes in the grand contest, and in order to encourage them to do their best each subscription turned in will give a credit of 4000 votes. This will enable those who are behind to catch up if they work right.

The ballot box will be placed in the park pavilion at 8 o'clock p. m. and all balloting will cease at exactly 9:30 p. m. No checks will be received, so those who have checks must get them cashed and turn the cash in with subscriptions by putting both together in an envelope and placing them into the ballot box, putting them in an envelope on which contestant's name is written. This, with the ballots that the contestant puts in the ballot box, together, will give true standing of the contestant, and these votes will be counted and added up by the committee appointed for that purpose, each contestant having the right to appoint one member of that committee to look after her interest.

When this counting is completed the winners of the prizes will be announced by the committee. While the counting is going on there will be music and dancing for those who feel inclined to enjoy themselves in that way.

We wish to state that announcement of the standing of the contestants in this issue of the paper cannot be taken as absolutely correct, as there is no way of telling exactly what the contestants have until everything is turned in. The true standing can only be told by adding the receipts held by the contestants to what is put in the box to-night.

All contestants will please call at this office before 12 o'clock to-day.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

A very pleasant day we spent Wednesday, June 12th, in the pretty little town of Madisonville, the occasion being a Union Missionary meeting held in the Presbyterian church by the Methodist and Presbyterian ladies. After the arrival of the boat which brought two New Orleans ladies over, Mrs. Davidson and Miss Creevy, a bountiful luncheon was served in the hospitable Perkins home, flowers decorated the long table, were on the side-board, in the hall, everywhere, and here ended not their usefulness for the dear ladies sent them with Miss Creevy to the hospital in New Orleans to cheer the hearts of many a sufferer. In the church Miss Marie Perkins opened the meeting with reading in scripture and a beautiful prayer, and then asked Mrs. Davidson of New Orleans, to take the chair. She spoke at some length on the necessity of getting more people interested in missions, home and foreign, advocating the use of leaflets which would teach the many the great need for more active workers. Other ladies told of the work done by their mission bands. Mrs. Call, of New Orleans, told of the mission work that Miss Creevy does in the hospital in New Orleans, distributing flowers and candy twice a week. She is called the flower and candy lady by the inmates. Mrs. Call sang "God Will Take Care of You." The girls of Madisonville sang for us, accompanied by Miss Simmons at the organ. The ladies passed around lemonade. After the benediction we repaired to the boat landing to see our New Orleans friends off. The Covington ladies who attended were Mrs. J. M. Williams, Mrs. Dan Dowe, Miss Jesse Cox and Mrs. Preston Burns, who came home thankful for the many courtesies extended and the new ideas grasped and hoping that we shall soon spend another day in Madisonville.

COMMUNION SERVICES.

The first communion services in two years, which took place at St. Peter's church in Covington, Thursday, brought classes from Abita Springs, Mandeville and other places. In the morning there was a communion class of 103, and a class of 17 from Mandeville in the afternoon. Quite a number came up from the Deaf Mute Institute at Chinchuba. The afternoon class was delayed by the storm and prevented from coming in the morning. The communion services were held by Rt. Rev. Bishop Lavalle.

BORN.

To Mrs. A. Kustenmaker, near Abita Springs, Monday, June 10, 1912, a girl.

To Mrs. Louis Manint, Mandeville Tuesday, June 11, 1912, a boy. Mr. Manint now has two boys. He says if he is lucky all the time he will soon be in a position to have the ward bosses call on him and ask for his assistance during election times. Mrs. Manint says if women can't vote they can at least teach the boys how to vote. So we think if Mr. Manint wants to wield any political influence it is up to him to consult Mrs. Manint in the matter.

HIGH WATER IN THE LAKE AT MANDEVILLE.

Back-water from the lake at Mandeville was higher Wednesday and Thursday than it has been for years. It is said that if the water had risen a little higher some of the buildings would have been lifted from their foundations. Water was on the floors of some of the business places.

THE JOLLY GLEE CLUB.

The second monthly meeting of the Jolly Glee Club was held at the home of Miss Lillian Dubourg last Saturday, at 7:30 p. m. Four new members were entered into our circle of jolly makers. After all the business was transacted dancing, music and games were indulged in.

After some consideration on the part of the club members the meeting nights were changed from Saturday to Thursday nights. Everyone seemed to have enjoyed themselves and we are glad they had not forgotten about the club meeting as so many of them do.

We have about $18 in the treasury.

We have decided to keep the same officers until later on.

We are sorry to learn that our treasurer, Miss Schneider, will soon leave us, but we will make the best of it while she is with us.

Our club is progressing fine. We invite all friends to join.

Next Thursday night, June 20, Mr. and Mrs. Fremam Buckley will entertain the club in honor of Miss Nora McMalcon. All members are urged to be present.

LILLIAN DUBOURG, Reporter.
