

MOOSE HEAD PARTY IS NOW GOING SOME

Roosevelt Makes His Confession of Faith to Progressive Convention.

Is Nominated to Head the Ticket and Elected by Acclamation.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Theodore Roosevelt made his "confession of faith" today to the National Progressive Convention. He struck out into new ground, advocating measures which he said frankly would be denounced as either socialism or anarchy.

Mr. Roosevelt's speech strikes a keynote for his followers and supporters in the party. It lays down the plan of battle to be waged by the national Progressive party. He discusses those principles under twelve subdivisions, namely: "The Helplessness of the Old Parties," "The Right of the People to Rule," "The Control of the People," "Constructive Control of the Trusts," "Rights of the Wage Worker," "The Farmer," "The Tariff," "The High Cost of Living," "Currency," "Conservation," "Alaska and International Affairs."

He said, "are harks, with no real soul within either, divided on artificial lines, loss-ridden and privilege-controlled, each a jumble of incongruous elements, and neither daring to speak out wisely and fearlessly what should be said on the vital issues of the day."

As opposed to this incongruity and ineffectiveness of action he asserted that the national Progressive platform will be "a contract with the people," with definite and concrete provisions to be carried out if the people ratify the contract on election day as exactly and honestly as if it were actually enforceable under the law.

Right of the People to Rule. "The action of the Chicago convention and to an only less degree of the Baltimore convention, have shown in striking fashion how little the people do rule under our present conditions."

Courts and the People. "Under this head Mr. Roosevelt re-iterated his well-known views regarding the courts. 'The American people, and not the courts, are to determine their own fundamental policies. This does not mean that the people are to interfere in cases which involve merely questions of justice between individuals except that means should be devised for making it easier than at present to get rid of an incompetent judge.'"

Constructive Trust Control. "In addition for punishment for wrong-doing by the trusts, the imperative demand is effective and complete regulation. The views of President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin, in his scientific work on trust regulation are in harmony with the program of the national Progressives. 'The present conditions of business cannot be accepted as satisfactory. The reason for this is explained, in Mr. Roosevelt's opinion, by the fact that "those dealing with the subject have attempted to divide into two camps, each as unwise as the other." One camp has fixed its attention only on the need of prosperity—"prosperity to the big men on top, trusting to their mercy to let something leak through to the mass of their countrymen below, which, in effect, means that there should be no attempt to regulate the ferocious scramble in which greed and cunning reap the largest rewards." The other camp has so fixed its attention upon the injustices of the distribution of prosperity, "omitting all consideration of having something to distribute, advocates action which, it is true, would abolish most of the inequalities of the distribution of prosperity, by only the unfortunately simple process of abolishing the property itself."

Justice to Wage-Workers. Referring to the opening sentence of his address, namely, "that we are now in the midst of a great economic revolution," Mr. Roosevelt presents an advanced and comprehensive plan to insure the rights and better conditions for labor. He gives it the paramount place in his speech. "The first charge upon the industrial statesmanship of the day," he said, "is to prevent human waste, to dead weight of mismanagement and depleted craftsmanship, of crippled workers and workers suffering from trade diseases, of casual labor, of insecure old age, and of household depletion due to industrial conditions are, like our depleted soils, our gashed mountain-sides and flooded river bottoms, so many strains upon the national structure, draining the reserve strength of all industries, and showing beyond all peradventure the public element and public concern in industrial health." He proposed several specific methods for preserving and improving "our human resources, and therefore our labor power." Wage scales and other data should be made public; all deaths, injuries, and diseases due to industrial operation should be reported to the authorities; wage commissions should be established in the nation and State to determine the minimum wage scale in different industries; the Federal Government should investigate all industries with a view to establishing standards of sanitation and safety. There should be mine and factory inspection according to standards fixed by interstate agreement of the Federal government, national and State legislation should establish standards of compensation for industrial accidents and deaths and for diseases clearly due to industrial conditions; for the adoption by law of a fair standard of compensation for casualties resulting fatally which shall clearly fix the minimum compensation in all cases.

Living Wage. The monetary equivalent of a living wage varies according to local conditions, but should be sufficiently high to make morality possible and to proper care of the children, maintenance during sickness, and reasonable saving for old age; excessive hours of labor should be prohibited for all wage-workers, and night labor of women and children should be forbidden; one day of rest in seven should be provided by law; common twenty-four-hour labor should be divided into three shifts of eight hours by law; tenement-house manufacture should be entirely prohibited, and labor camps should be subject to governmental sanitary regulation; insurance funds against sickness, accident, invalidism, and old age should be established by a charge either in whole or in part upon the industries; the suffrage should be granted to women, if for no other reason, to enable working men to combine for their own protection by the use of the ballot. "As a people we cannot afford to let any group of citizens or any individual citizen labor under conditions which are injurious to the common welfare. Industry, therefore, must submit to such public regulation as will make it a means of life and health, not of death or inefficiency."

GARLAND NOT FOUND

Mysterious Disappearance Unaccounted For. Do Not Think He is Dead, But May be Traveling.

Baton Rouge, Aug. 5.—Representative A. H. Garland of St. Landry parish has mysteriously disappeared, and his relatives at Opelousas are alarmed about his safety. Mr. Garland failed to return to his home at Opelousas after the Legislature adjourned, but his mother and sister did not become alarmed until after several days had elapsed. They were of the opinion that he was visiting in New Orleans or some other city.

As time passed and no letters were received from the missing Representative, his relatives instituted a search for him. Representative A. D. Stewart of St. Landry, one of Mr. Garland's colleagues in the House, visited New Orleans and Baton Rouge, and endeavored to learn something about his whereabouts, but no trace of him could be found. Representative Stewart, when he visited Baton Rouge said that the last time he saw Mr. Garland was about half an hour before the Legislature adjourned sine die. Stewart said he asked Garland what he intended to do and Garland replied that he did not know. Stewart asked him to go to New Orleans with him and spend four or five days and then go to the State military encampment at Alexandria. Garland assented to this, and said he would meet Stewart at the hotel. Stewart and Garland occupied the same room at the Istrouma Hotel here. Stewart went to New Orleans, but Garland did not show up.

Yesterday District Attorney Garland, an uncle of the missing man arrived here from Opelousas in search of his nephew, but, like Mr. Stewart he could not learn anything of him. He found Mr. Garland's baggage still in his room in the hotel here. He paid a small hotel bill and left. It is said that Garland lost heavily playing poker here during the session of the Legislature. Some days ago Clerk Menefee of the House Committee on Appropriations attempted to sell a diamond ring, which, he said, had been won from Garland in a poker game.

Family Believes He May Have Gone to Panama.

Opelousas, Aug. 5.—Nothing has been learned of the whereabouts of Representative A. H. Garland, up to the present time, and no reasonable cause has as yet been offered for his inexplicable absence. Garland left the Istrouma Hotel in Baton Rouge two days after the session of the Legislature adjourned, and has not been heard from up to the present time, although members of his family have made diligent efforts to locate him. District Attorney R. Lee Garland of this city, uncle of young Garland yesterday visited Baton Rouge for the purpose of making inquiries as to the movements of his nephew and returned without any information on the subject. He stated to a reporter that he had made a report inquiry among persons who might know something about his nephew, including the proprietor of the Istrouma Hotel, where he resided during the session. The hotel manager informed him that Garland had left two days after the session closed, without stating where he was going, and that while he had left part of his clothing hanging in his room, this was not unusual, several other members having done the same thing. District Attorney Garland said that inasmuch as his nephew was not married he had no one to whom he was obliged to account for his movements, and that he did not consider that young Garland's absence should be the subject of so much public attention. He suggested that "Gussie" might have taken a trip to Panama in company with friends or gone to some other place as he always had desired to travel. District Attorney Garland says that members of his family are not uneasy over his absence.

Told Fellow Member of House He Might Travel.

New Orleans, Aug. 5.—Representative A. H. Garland of St. Landry, whose disappearance is reported, has been reported to have been in Opelousas, La. A week after the Legislature adjourned, according to the statement of a citizen of this city last night who knows him well. He said he met Garland on the street. An effort to trace Mr. Garland's movements while in the city failed. A member of the city delegation in the House said that a day or two before the Legislature adjourned, Clerk Menefee of the House Appropriations Committee offered to sell him a diamond ring, which had been won from Garland in a poker game. Menefee told the Representative that he had paid $50 for the ring and wished to sell it at a profit. The Representative said he offered $51 for the ring, but Menefee declined to accept that price, stating that he wanted $65 for the sparkler. Another member of the House said that he had a long talk with Garland in the Mayer Hotel at Baton Rouge a few nights before the Legislature adjourned, and that Garland appeared to be in a despondent frame of mind. He said that Garland remarked: "Well, I have hobbled it over the country for three years and I can hobble it again."

Some of the members of the Legislature expressed the opinion last night that Garland boarded one of the fruit ships and went to Central America. They are of the opinion that he will return.
