

EVERYBODY VOTE FOR LEWIS MORGAN NEXT TUESDAY

EVERY man who is a lover of home, every man whose heart beats quicker as he draws near the sheltering arch of his own doorway and greets the joyous smile and warm clasp of his loved ones, will instinctively place a cross opposite the name of LEWIS L. MORGAN at the election next Tuesday. He is the peer if not the superior of his opponent. He is qualified to represent us in Congress. Then what man would rob his own nest to feather another? But your duty does not end with simply voting. The full vote of the parish must be gotten out. Mr. Morgan will be elected, but let us show that we know how to stand shoulder to shoulder and fight for our interests, without division or disagreement; not with indifference, but to the man. We will elect him. Let him feel that he has the support and good will of every man in the parish.

A NEW DEPOT SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

Considerable Talk Among the People About it.

Impression Seems to be Covington Entitled to One.

Present Conditions Do Not Meet Requirements.

Should be Closets, Lavatory and Other Necessaries.

People are discussing the question of asking for a new depot for Covington. The progress of time requires changes. What is good enough today may be inadequate to-morrow. People are learning to live and have acquired the knowledge that a saving in present cost may be an expense for the future. Therefore in the discussion of a new depot it is being considered what should be the requirements of the new depot and whether it should not be so built that a change shall not be necessary again in the near future. It is pointed out that if the depot had been made up-to-date at the time it was built there would be no necessity for a new one now, because inspection shows that none of the modern provisions for health, comfort and convenience was considered in its plans.

Observation during the arrival of excursion trains and parties on the days of our extensive use of the roads, and especially on Sundays, will bring to notice the inadequacy of the present depot. The crowded condition of the warehouse on freight days is also apparent. But there are other lacking conveniences that still further emphasize the needs of a new structure. Sanitary improvements are greatly needed. There should be closets and lavatories. Toilet rooms for the ladies are an absolute necessity. Sudden illness or emergency cases are entirely unprovided for, and Covington, a health resort, has need of sanitary accommodations and certainly should have them. These are the questions that are being discussed, and it seems probable that a petition will be presented to the railroad commission asking for a new and modern depot.

There seems to be no desire to put the railroad to any unnecessary expense, but the people feel that such a depot is an absolute necessity, and that the business of the road would be improved if more attention was paid to the comfort of the traveling public. There are indications that many people will visit Covington this coming year. Certainly more will come if an effort is made to secure the patronage of the road.

SMALL TOWN ADVERTISING.

An unusual feature of the meeting of the Western Iowa Editorial Association at Council Bluffs recently was an address on the subject of advertising from a viewpoint of the retail merchant by David Oransky, a well-known merchant and advertiser of Atlantic, Io. Mr. Oransky spoke on "Retail Advertising from the Viewpoint of the Merchant," and declared that the merchant should advertise the quality and adaptability of his goods rather than depend upon advertising prices. He spoke in part as follows:

"It is a sad but too true fact that country merchants as a rule are not extensive advertisers. I am convinced that they should advertise regularly and persistently. I believe so not only because some people who are supposed to know say so, but also because my actual experience in connection with retail advertising in a small town has demonstrated to me the far-reaching benefits, both direct and indirect, to be derived from persistent advertising."—Barnhardt Flier.

ST. TAMMANY PRODUCTS OF PINE TIMBER

An Industry that is Growing and Promises Profits.

New Inventions Bring Waste Material Into Use.

Mackie Pine Products Co. Operating New Process.

The Biery Company Also in Field With New Patent.

History is constantly repeating itself in the use of waste products as in the development of new ideas and new processes. The valuable cotton seed that is now manufactured into feed and oil and fertilizers was once a useless waste, the problem being how to get rid of it. The waste from the saw mill and the lumber yard that was formerly burned to get rid of it, now brings a profit to the mill and the timber owner, and gives employment and profit in the manufacture of resin, turpentine, rosin oil and charcoal. The practical use of new ideas and the invention of machinery to carry them out will eventually pull the stumps from our cut-over lands and place in the hands of the farmer a profit for their use to be added to the saving in the cost of clearing the land.

The Mackie Pine Products Company, organized by Mr. Harry Mackie and Mr. E. J. Frederick, using the Mackie invention for the extraction of products from pine, is now again in operation, after having closed down during an experimentation in the application of new ideas and the introduction of new machinery invented by Mr. Mackie for carrying them out. Under the new process pure rosin has been added to the products formerly extracted adding very largely to the profits of the business, the increase being from $7 to $10 more per cord. At the same time the increased output of the mill will require fifteen more cords a day to keep it going. The new machinery to be put in will cost $20,000 and the entire cost of running the plant will be about $5,000 per month. It will be readily seen that this new business is a considerable profit to St. Tammany parish.

Besides the Mackie Company, a new company, known as the Biery Pine Products Company has been organized, and the charter is now being published in the Farmer. Mr. Wm. Biery, the inventor of the machinery used in this process, went to New Orleans Monday for the purpose of ordering and having made the outfit for the plant. A large number of products are claimed for the invention of Mr. Biery, economy of production being assisted by the cooling-off process in the manufacture of charcoal, which requires but a few minutes, while other processes require thirty-six hours. Rosin is also obtained by this process. It is claimed that there is a profit of from $14 to $18 a cord. Sufficient stock has already been subscribed to make this company a going concern.

There is also a pine product company in Slidell, under still another process. It will be seen that the pine product business is assuming proportions in St. Tammany parish that will make this industry quite an important commercial interest. The business has assumed large proportions in Georgia and other Southern States.

Behrman's Majority Runs Over Nine Thousand.

He Leads the Entire Ticket of Commission Govt.

New Orleans, Oct. 2.—The prediction of the Regulars was fulfilled at the election yesterday. Mayor Behrman ran at the head of his ticket without any trouble, and the report circulated that he would be knifed seems to have had no foundation. NEW PRIZES DONATED TO PARISH FAIR

New Prizes are Donated by Merchants for the Fair.

Covington Grocery & Grain Co. Among the Donors.

Harry Piguet and Jack Bokenfohr Company Also.

R. E. Bruce Will Give a Cup for Poultry Prize.

Superintendent Lyon and President Sanders, on their visit to Slidell last week, found that great interest was being taken in the fair. The schools are preparing to make good exhibits and claim that when the distribution of prizes is made it will be found that a goodly number of them will find their way to Slidell. Judging from the fine interest that is taken in school matters there this year must not be looked upon lightly. There will be 300 Slidell school children in the parade.

Some new prizes have been added to the list this week. R. E. Bruce, who was judge in the poultry department last year, states that the Bruce Poultry and Seed Company, of New Orleans, will offer a cup for the best cocker in the Mediterranean class. The Jack Bokenfohr Company, of New Orleans, offer two barrels of seed potatoes as a prize in the agricultural department. The Covington Grocery and Grain Company will give a barrel of Canopy flour to the one winning the first premium on cane; this company also offers a sack of Purine Chicken Corn to be competed for in the Poultry Department. Harry Piguet donates two bales of alfalfa hay, to be awarded as the officials see fit. Interest is constantly growing, and there will be quite a lot of fine prizes.

The catalog and premium list is now in the press and any one interested can secure a copy by writing to Secretary N. H. Fitzsimons, Covington, La.

The places for the new tents have been staked off on the grounds and preparations are being made for the comfortable housing of stock and the care of exhibits. The badges for premiums and for the officers and honorary vice presidents have been selected. One of the features of the fair, the "Jolly Way," something on the order of the famous "Midway," is commanding the attention of the officials. It promises to be a great attraction.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

Covington, La., Sept. 30, 1912.

It is quite well known that an effort by some of our enterprising citizens has been made to put in cultivation a forty acre farm of strawberries in this vicinity. As the effort may have been of importance to the community, it seems appropriate that some explanation should be made at this time.

Arrangements have been made with Mr. G. E. Miller to manage the experiment; in fact, the forty acre farm proposition was originated by him. Shortly after commencing operations, Mr. Miller was offered employment in New Orleans, which was against his interests to refuse. Being unable to secure, at a reasonable salary, another experienced farm manager and several who had subscribed being unwilling to pay in under the changed conditions, it is thought best to not attempt to carry this experiment further this season. Another effort will be made when there will be more time in which to make preparations, get a manager, etc.
