THE SULZER IMPEACHMENT.

While Gov. Sulzer, of New York, has been found guilty by the high court of impeachment, he must still have the sympathy of a large number of people. He will not be excused for the weakness that made it possible to impeach him. He could not have retained the confidence of the people. But it rubs the wrong way to see a man fall who has had the temerity to say seat to the tiger. Sulzer may have been actuated by a desire for notoriety, or he may have been actuated by a desire to become a reformer and win the laurel due to victory over corrupt practices. It is too bad that the reformation did not start at his own door. Perhaps then he may not have exemplified the axiom, that "people who live in glass houses should not throw stones."

THE PARISH FAIR.

Everything points to a successful parish fair, a very encouraging evidence being the increased interest of the farmers. With the farmers to help it along, the very object of its institution is carried out. St. Tammany parish is dependent upon its agricultural development for future prosperity. The timber is being cut away and the value of its products are being carried abroad. We will have only the land left. We must induce people to settle on these lands and till the soil. If our farmers show that the soil is worth tilling; that it will produce profitable crops; that the people are prosperous and contented; then others will gladly come, the farms will increase in value and the opportunities of the farmer will become greater. There is no place like the fair to advertise this fact. The agricultural industry of the people is displayed there with greater impression and exactitude than by many days of expensive travel and investigation.

If there are any who feel that they cannot win prizes and hesitate to enter into competition, it should be considered that if only prize-winners exhibited at the fair it would be a failure. It is each one striving to do his best that makes success. The man who is only willing to help if he can win a prize is a very poor booster and a very poor citizen. The man who has taken the determination to strive until he does win, who boosts for the sake of his fellow men as well as for his own sake, is the useful man in a community and the one who will ultimately succeed. Every farmer should enter into the spirit of the fair. Lose sight of self and strive to be one of the units of a successful whole.

Congressman and Mrs. Morgan have arrived in Covington from Washington, and will remain until December. They will be visitors at the parish fair, where Mr. Morgan will speak on the opening day.

DUMPED IN PONTCHATALAWA.

The big 200-horsepower boiler for the saw mill near the Hart brickyard passed through Covington Monday but it never got any further than the Pontchatalawa bridge, which broke and let it down into the stream. The boiler was not damaged and it will be rolled out. One of the oxen was slightly skinned up. Nobody hurt.

Senators Ransdell and Broussard were Covington visitors, this week. They, with Congressman Morgan have just returned from a tour through the state with the government experts looking over the farm lands, with a view of determining the best method of making these lands profitable and relieving the farmers of the distress caused by the boll weevil and sugar legislation.

Miss Cecile Cantrelle, of New Orleans, is visiting her sister, Miss Nani Cantrelle, in Covington.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anderson, of Bogalusa, spent Sunday in Covington as the guests of their parents.

Mrs. Geo. W. Hatch, of Humphreys, La., is here for a visit during the fair. Mrs. Hatch will be remembered as the popular Miss Haddock of Military Road, before her recent marriage to Mr. Hatch, when she returned to his home in Humphreys.

Mrs. Hatch still has a warm spot in her heart for Covington and could not resist the temptation of visiting the fair and noting what progress we are making. She will be here for a week or two.

BURN YOUR COTTON STALKS NOW AND MAKE COTTON NEXT YEAR.

In the highest part of this parish some cotton was grown this year and probably more will be planted next year. The important point now is to destroy all stalks after you get this crop harvested which you do not doubt have finished by now. Take a middle burster or lister and run under the stalks and let dry a few days then rake up in rows with hay rakes and burn. This will destroy thousands of weevils that would otherwise go through the winter and come out in good condition next spring.

The Department of Agriculture is sending out warning to the farmer in the cotton belt, cautioning them against the spread of the boll weevil. It is also advising them through the demonstration agents how to destroy and prevent the rapid spread of the insect, which if followed will add thousands of dollars to this country every year.

"Destroy the cotton stalk early in October" is the text of every weevil sermon being preached now, and no better text could be found as the department conducted an experiment for some years, last year for the first time, to determine the value of burning the stalks and the results were as follows:
On 117 acres where no stalks were destroyed, but where all other instructions of the government were followed, the average yield was 618 pounds of seed cotton per acre. On 28 acres where the stalks were destroyed before October 10th, and the same cultural methods applied, the average yield per acre was 1050 pounds seed cotton, or a gain of 441 pounds of seed cotton per acre, worth at that time $17.64, was secured by early destruction of stalks.

If it pays to burn the stalks in Amite County, Miss., to the amount of $17.64 per acre, what would it mean to this section of the State if every farmer, large or small, would burn their stalks early in the fall? I will add that on other farms in the neighborhood it took from six to eight acres to make a bale of cotton. This one experiment shows what the demonstration work has done in Mississippi.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The High School Athletic Association wishes to express their many thanks for the check sent by St. Paul's College. The neat little sum will be a great help and we wish to offer our services in returning the favor.
L. S. HAYS, Mgr.

The picture show of the High School Athletic Association last Friday night was quite a success, $27 having been realized. Mr. Hays went to New Orleans last Saturday and purchased some material needed for the association.

The fifth, sixth and seventh grades held a joint meeting Thursday evening to take steps for the purpose of holding some benefit entertainment for their rooms. Plans were laid for some exercises that will net them a working capital.

New pupils are still coming in. The enrollment at present is about 300.
The high school boys are making them a basket ball ground on the yard of the annex, where they will practice in the evenings.
This week closes the first month of the school is well organized now and will do some pretty good work next month.

The fourth grade had a candy sale last Friday, for the benefit of the library, and it proved quite a success. The neat sum of $2.75 was realized. We hope to have another sale soon.

The roll of honor for the fourth grade for the week ending Oct. 10, is as follows: Paul Merritt, Lucy Gask, Marguerite Sharp, Emma Haddock. The spelling match was won again this week by Hazel Jones, writing 50 words correctly.

We missed Dorothy Blossman very much from our grade last Friday and all are glad to welcome her back.

The first literary meeting was held Friday, Oct. 10th, at the school house. The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Norma Weaver. The minutes were omitted.

Prof. Bynum announced that the next meeting would have a roll call answered with quotations.
Miss Morrell announced the program, which was well rendered. The first number was an essay on "Cane Industry of St. Tammany Parish." Next was the debate on the subject "Is our country in more danger from external causes than from internal?" The affirmative was splendidly argued by Sam Lanning and Elise Ray, and the negative by Alice Ostendorf and Myrtle Sharp. The judges decided in favor of the negative.
A chorus by the high school pupils was sung under the direction of Miss Kathleen O'Brien.

A LETTER FROM SENATOR J. E. RANDELL.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9, 1913.
The St. Tammany Farmer, Covington, Louisiana.

Dear Sirs:—In the list of publications furnished me for free distribution by the Government, there are three books of especial interest to the farmers: The Agricultural Year-Book, Diseases of the Horse, and Diseases of Cattle. They are all nicely bound and handsomely illustrated. I have about a thousand copies each of the year book for 1910, 1911 and 1912, but only a few hundred copies of the horse and cattle books. As long as the supply of these publications last I shall be glad to send a copy to anyone interested in agriculture, who will request me.

Thanking you to publish this letter as a news item for the benefit of your farmer subscribers, believe me, Very sincerely yours,
JOS. E. RANDELL.
