Miss Amelia Miller, who has been assistant in the Covington postoffice nine or ten years, has tendered her resignation. Her retirement is due to private matters and has no relation to the business of the office. She has been a most efficient assistant, and Postmaster Seller parts with her with regret. She will also be missed by the patrons of the office, for she was always courteous and considerate and made many friends. She has the best wishes of all.

SEA WALL AT MANDEVILLE.

The last concrete piece for the sea wall at Mandeville has been completed. It should not now take long to finish the work, and this work finished will no doubt pave the way for beautifying the lake frontage as a promenade, drive and lounging place for summer visitors. The large number that visited Mandeville last season promises to be increased during the coming summer. The boat service will be better than ever, and the Motor Line, which handled considerable business last year, may become an electric line by June. If this proves true, it will add greatly to travel between Mandeville and points along the line. It is also rumored that an electric line may be run to Slidell. Nothing definite could be learned regarding this, but such a line would be a boon to the people and would build up the traffic between Covington, Abita Springs, Mandeville and New Orleans, and would relieve the situation created by the removal of the two N. O. G. N. trains.

COVINGTON HIGH SCHOOL.

School opened Monday, with almost a full enrollment. Everybody seemed glad to get back to work, indicating that they have had a satisfactory vacation.

The mid-term examinations, sent out by the State Board of Education, will be given on January 20, 21 and 22.

Miss Paysinger did not return from her home until Monday night, being delayed because of a change in train schedules. Mrs. Park substituted for her.

Several new pupils were added during the week, principally in the first grade.

Lawrence Smith, our star guard on the basketball team, will be out of the game for some time, on account of an injury.

Misses O'Brien and Robertson spent a day in New Orleans last week. Mrs. Young returned from Natchitoches Sunday night, having taken her daughter, Ethel, to the State Normal for the remainder of the school year.

The heating system is now working almost perfectly, since the new grates have been placed in the boiler. The next meeting of the High School Literary Society will be on January 29. The reason for the postponement is the mid-term examinations sent out by the State Department. The program will appear next week.

A class of beginners is being started in the first grade. All beginners are urged to begin not later than January 18, because after that time they will be unable to catch up with the class now starting. No other class for beginners will be started during this school year.

The Seniors said that "the ninth grade must have made a New Year's resolution to be quiet." They were quiet this week, more so than usual.

Covington High School will play Franklinton, Saturday (today), at 2:30. Everybody come.

After two weeks' holidays school opened Monday with all the pupils back, ready to work hard for the mid-term examinations, which will begin some time this month.

Miss Marie Dossat, a Senior, was absent Monday and Tuesday from school on account of sickness. We suppose it was a case of too much Xmas fun.

Lots of New Year resolutions must have been made by the ninth graders judging from the quietness of their room since Monday. If they only keep up the good work they have begun they will get 100 (?) in department.

The small library, which has recently been added to the school's equipment, affords great pleasure to the children.

SLIDELL HIGH SCHOOL.

School was resumed in the Slidell high school on Monday, January 4, after a ten days' vacation. Both the faculty and the children seem to have made "good, active work" one of their New Year resolutions.

Eighteen new pupils have been enrolled during the week. The names are as follows: Myrtle Hodgson, Ada Gardner, Willie Strode, Daniel Loyd Crawford, Ursula Moutis, Louise Keyser, Clyde Glover, Ralph Welch and John Strode, first grade; Mary Hodgson, Albert Hodgson, Edward Bolland and Vivian Duxant, second grade; James Barthelemy, third grade; Edward Schmidt, fourth grade.

The boys' basketball team is growing stronger, despite the fact that two boys of the team have left school. A game is being arranged with Carriere, Miss., for Saturday.

The girls' basketball team has been re-organized and promises to maintain their right to the parish championship. A game is expected with the Picayune, Miss., high school girls here Saturday.

SIMMONS CREEK SCHOOL. Christmas play where two children hung up their stockings and Santa Claus came down a chimney that was made to look like a real brick chimney and fire place. All this staging was the work of teacher and pupils. The Simmons Creek school house is a one-room, detached building. Inside, however, it looks inviting. There are patent desks, the blackboards are stenciled in colors, on the walls arranged in good taste are suitable pictures and also excellent pictures painted by the pupils. They have a nice bookcase and twenty dollars worth of library books, secured this season, also a globe bought this season. The pupils are divided and arranged into six groups. But they teach the best of the program.
