Sibara, Agent. GOOD HINTS FOR THE ST. TAMMANY PARISH FARMER JAN 1915. When the man who knows something about the conditions under which live stock are successfully raised and then stops to consider how easy these conditions can be improved in this grand old parish it is a puzzle to him—it is the eighth wonder. Why do we not try to bet-

most eat to make up the loss of vitality every day the animal lives. Just take up a paper and note the difference between the prices of cattle in the tier belt and those from where no ticks exist. Texas parish get 100 of them in less than ten months and we can do the same if we will make use of the dipping vat as we should. In selecting the crops to fatten your hogs and cattle referred to in the above article I wish to call your attention to a new variety bean. This bean has only been in the country a few years and is far ahead of the old speckled Florida bean, both in the production of seed and in size. It keeps well through the winter and cattle will eat them while they walk over the old bean. The bunches are much longer and more beans in the pod. Hogs prefer them also to cowpeas or Florida beans. The name of this bean is the Yokahoma. Get some this season and try them. This parish needs more corn than she has been producing and one of the quickest ways to increase the yield is to get good seed. Corn is the main stake on every farm and we should see that we produce the largest yield possible on every acre we plant in 1915. I am going to get up a large order of Calhoun's red cob seed corn, and I request every farmer in this parish who is interested in making more corn to the acre with no increase in cost, to write me at once. This corn is grown almost entirely in north Louisiana and down as far as Lake Charles. It has a red cob, yellow grain and produces from one to two ears to the stalk. It is a general corn crop and not to be gotten from any seed house to be grown for the birds and weevils to eat. It has taken the prize at the State Fair for two years and no farmer will lose anything by planting his entire crop in it this year. Write me if you wish to get in line with us in getting good seed corn. The farmer who is interested in hay crops, and all should be, should try a small plot of Sudan grass. This plant is new to the southern farmer but is one of the coming forage crops of this section. It is not a pest as Johnson grass or nut grass, not any more pest than oats. It can be cut from two to three times in a season and will yield from three to five tons of hay to the acre that will suit the animal's taste better than Timothy. I will have a lot of this grass seed on hand by the first of March and I am going to furnish every farmer who will promise to give it a fair trial enough of the seed to make a test. Write me if you want a sample of this fine grass. One of the best leaguers crops grown in the south and one that is appreciated less is the soy bean. It will make as much rich pig feed on an acre as any crop a farmer can grow. They should be planted in three foot rows on small ridges and cultivated a few times, they will do the rest. When the first beans begin to ripen the hogs should be turned in as the beans shatter out as fast as they ripen. The pigs pick them up from the ground as they do most of the swamp and nine times out of ten will never touch the leaves or vines. The plants continue to bear and ripen beans. This plant should be grown in a crop rotation and where the pigs can be turned in without damage to other crops. This crop can be planted after Irish potatoes in spring and followed again with Irish potatoes in the fall. Try an acre or so this year. Do not forget to get a start of the triumph sweet potato for your hog feeding camp. They make more to the acre and the hogs like them better than any other. The seed of these potatoes can be had from some of St. Tammany's farmers, so do not fail to get a few bushels and bed them out early in order to have plenty of plants from which you can get all the cuttings or vines you need for planting your crop early in June. Any point on this crop will be answered by calling on me or writing. Leave out cotton this year in your farming. There is very little money in it at ten cents a pound and there can be no counting when it will ever reach that price again. Most assuredly not before the war closes. Let the rich man grow cotton this year. A poor man is not able. Confine your efforts to growing feed crops and raising hogs and cattle. There will be money in producing meat to sell if the farmer will produce his feed on his farm and not buy anything in the form of corn, hay, oats, meat and lard. Hundreds of bushels of corn are destroyed in this parish every year by rats, mice and weevils. It does not cost much to get cheap lumber and make the corn crib airtight. After this is done—if you will use carbon bisulphide, one quart to each one hundred barrels of corn—you will not be bothered with rats or weevils. Write or call on me for full particulars. It will save you money and worry. As I am confining my article to stock and feeds I wish to call the attention of every farmer to the many advertisements of hog cholera remedies in the different papers circulated in the parish. There is no faith to be placed in any of them. They are made to sell to you just for your money and you are to have the fun of giving it to your hogs for pasture. The only one remedy or rather preventive, is to inoculate your hogs with anti-hog cholera serum. This serum makes the hog immune to the disease for a period of about seven months, which is long enough to tide you over any outbreak in your neighborhood. I am going to keep this on hand at my office hereafter and I ask every farmer to not wait until he sees his hogs dying to get busy but get busy as soon as it is heard of in the parish, for the chances are it will be scattered by the many agencies that spread the different disease germs. The cost of inoculating one hog weighing 100 pounds is about 20 cents, so it will not cost much to do the work. I will come to your place and do the work for you free of charge as far as my services are concerned. Let us see if we cannot keep this great loss from again visiting us in this parish in 1915. It will mean many dollars saved to the parish. Call on me for any other information on this point. Have you been in to see those fine latest improved plows and other tools at the Smith Hardware Store yet. I have them there for samples. Be sure to see them before spring. GROVER C. LEWIS, Farm Demonstrator.
