TRAVELING MAN'S EXPERIENCE.

"In the summer of 1888 I had a very serious attack of cholera morbus. Two physicians worked over me from 4 a. m. to 6 p. m. without giving me any relief and then told me they did not expect me to live; that I had best telegraph my family instead of doing so, I gave the hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and take no substitute. I took double dose according to the directions and went to sleep after the second dose. At five o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping point, a well man but feeling rather shaky from the severity of the attack," writes H. W. Ireland, Louisville, Ky. Obtainable every where.

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

VII.—Hon. Elihu Root On Woman's Sphere

The question of Woman Suffrage is an issue before the American people. Twelve states have adopted it, four more states vote upon it this fall and it is strongly urged that it become a platform demand of the national political parties.

"I am opposed to the granting of suffrage to women, because I believe that it would be a loss to women, to all women and to every woman; and because I believe it would be an injury to the State, and to every man and every woman in the State. It would be useless to argue this if the right of suffrage were a natural right. If it were a natural right, then women should have it though the heavens fall. But if there be any one thing settled in the long discussion of this subject, it is that suffrage is not a natural right, but is simply a means of government, and the sole question to be discussed is whether government by the suffrage of men and women will be better government than by the suffrage of men alone.

Woman rules today by the sweet and noble influences of her character. Put woman into the arena of conflict and she abandons these great weapons which control the world, and she takes into her hands, feeble and nervous for strife, weapons with which she is unfamiliar and which she is unable to wield. Woman in strife becomes hard, harsh, unyielding, repulsive; as far removed from that gentle creature to whom we all owe allegiance and to whom we confess submission, as the heaven is removed from the earth.

The whole science of government is the science of protecting life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness. In the divine distribution of powers, the duty and the right of protection rests with the male. It is so throughout nature. It is so with men, and I, for one, will never consent to part with the divine right of protecting my wife, my daughter, the women whom I love, and the women whom I respect, exercising the birthright of man, and place that high duty in the weak and nerveless hands of those designed by God to be protected rather than to engage in the stern warfare of government. In my judgment, this whole movement arises from a false conception of the duty and of the right of both men and women.

The time will never come when the line of demarcation between the functions of the two sexes will be broken down. I believe it to be false philosophy; I believe that it is an attempt to turn backward upon the line of social development, and that if the step ever be taken, we go centuries backward on the march towards a higher, a nobler and a purer civilization, which must be found not in the confusion, but in the higher differentiation of the sexes."

New Orleans Gets Louisiana National Guard Rifle Range. Amite Also.

New Orleans, Aug. 27.—The Louisiana National Guard, which has taken no part in the competitions on the big rifle range during the past five years, chiefly because of very careful work in reorganization, now is prepared to do excellent work on the range and to meet successfully the teams of this and other states, and of that nation at large, according to Major L. A. Toombs, chief ordnance officer of Louisiana. The government makes an annual appropriation of eight or nine thousand dollars for target practice to the respective state guards. This money has been accumulating in the treasury of the Louisiana guard since 1910, and now is being expended in the purchase and equipment of rifle ranges in various parts of the state. Property for such purpose in New Orleans, recently has been purchased, and the necessary legal papers are being prepared to submit to the War Department. The site, Metairie Ridge, has been approved by the department.

"This range will be the best in the State," said Major Toombs Wednesday afternoon. "It is two blocks wide, two and three-quarter miles deep, and extends back to the lake. There are 1200 yards of high land, which is more than ample for our purposes, and back of this there is an impenetrable swamp. The Washington Artillery will practice there with its three-inch guns. The Metairie range will be perfectly equipped for the practice of the competing teams of the state, and later the Southern States Association will be invited to come here for matches.

"We had experienced a great deal of trouble in securing a good range, because of the high velocity of the rifles used; but now we have one that will suit our purposes in every way, once we get it in proper shape. We expect to have it in full operation by fall. There will be installed an underground telephone system, a club house, and all other up-to-date appliances for a modern range. "We will expend fully $30,000 on the Metairie range. Site at Amite City. "There has been leased also a site at Amite City, for Company 1, First Infantry. The plans for this range are prepared and the specifications are ready to be advertised in order to secure the work to prepare it for use. This site also has been approved by the War Department. "Arrangements practically have been settled for the leasing of a rifle range at Bogalusa for Company G, First Infantry. The plans will go forward shortly.

Shreveport and Lake Charles already have fine ranges and it is the purpose of the Louisiana National Guard to give each company in Louisiana a range like those being given Bogalusa and Amite City, and like those of Shreveport and Lake Charles. At the Shreveport encampment Monday there was organized a new target association, known as the Louisiana State Rifle and Revolver Association. Annual Competition. The annual competition will be held this year at Lake Charles, September 20 to 26, inclusive. The teams will be composed of six men as well as staff officers for each organization in the state. From the results of these matches the best shots will be chosen by Major Toombs, to compose the membership of a rifle team which will represent Louisiana in the national matches that are to be held this year at Jacksonville, Fla. The rifle team will mobilize in New Orleans, September 30, and will arrive at Jacksonville, October 1. It will participate in the meets of the Florida State Rifle Association, October 2 and 5, the Southern Rifle Association October 6 and 7, which was organized by Major Toombs in Louisiana in 1909, the National Rifle Association of America, October 8 to 14, a quasi-military organization and the father organization of rifle shooting, and the government's national matches, October 15 and 22. At this meet there will be awarded a prize for each team, besides those awarded the successful individuals.

Major Toombs, recently appointed secretary of the National Rifle Association of America, announces that he will be pleased to have affected the organization of as many civilian rifle clubs as possible in this city, and also in those towns in the state where rifle ranges will be placed. Admission with the National Rifle Association of America, however, will be necessary before such teams can compete in the final rifle match. The National Rifle Team's equipment will be the fifteen star-gauged United States service rifle, which was specially issued by the War Department for its national meet. "We will be glad to have as many civilians as possible go with the team September 30," stated Major Toombs "and to this end we will endeavor to secure same rates that the railroads give the men on the train. We will spend three weeks in Florida, from October 1 to 22.

TAINTED POLITICS

By Peter Radford. This country is suffering more from tainted politics than from any other malady at the present time. There is scarcely a campaign speech made, a platform demand written or a measure enacted into law that does not carry the taint of personal gain of some politician or political faction thereof. There is more "blue sky" in campaign promises of many politicians running for office than was ever contained in the prospectuses of the boldest promoters of chimerical business schemes. There are more secret combinations formed by politicians in the name of "My Country" than were ever formed under any and all other aliases. There are more political rebates hidden in the phrase "Be it enacted" than were ever concealed under any and all other disguises. The inordinate thirst for political power and unrestrained passion for mastery has caused more distress in this nation than the greed for gold, and it ought to be regulated by law. No business combination ever pursued their competitors as relentlessly or visited more heartless cruelty upon their customers than a political party that seeks to make junk of an industry, or cripple a business for party success through tariff measures, political supervision and oftentimes destructive legislation. Many political platforms are as alluring to the voter as the story of the rainbow with its pot of gold and their consumption about as far-fetched. Self-gain is the first law in politics. There are many men in office today who, if they could not shake plums off the tree of American liberty or cut a melon taken from Uncle Sam's commissary, would have less desire to serve the public. The country is surfeiting with patriots, who will bare their breast to bullets in defense of their country, but there are few men in public life who will bare their breast to voters or run the gauntlet of party disfavor in defense of agriculture or industry. No representative of the people, who will permit personal prejudice to debar justice, party success to disfranchise reason or the honor of a political campaign to influence judgment can render capable service. The preservation of our property depends upon wisdom, courage and honesty in government, and the American voter should seek those attributes as implicitly as the Wise Men followed the Star of Bethlehem and they will often be found to rest over the stable; the plow or the staff of the Shepherd. The surest cure for tainted politics and machine rule is fresh air and sunshine and those important elements are most abundant upon the farm, and when farmers, bankers and merchants are elected to membership in legislative bodies, much of the trouble in government will disappear.

FRANK LYNCHED BY PARTIES UNKNOWN, IS JURY'S VERDICT.

There was just one tense moment during the coroner's inquest here today into the lynching of Leo M. Frank. The jury rendered a verdict of death at the hands of "parties unknown," but it seemed at one time that there might be a disclosure which would materially have altered this finding. The trail of the lynching party was nearly reached when J. A. Benson, a Marietta merchant, testified that he drove by the oak thicket while the cars of the "Vigilance Committee" was parked outside, and presumably while the hanging was under way. Mr. Benson went so far as to say that he saw one or two of the men in the party step out of the cars in which they had ridden, dust covered from the prison farm at Mill-edgeville. The witness frankly stated that he had a pretty strong "suspicion" of what was taking place, for he had read in the morning paper of Frank's abduction from Milledgeville, and had been told by "Bill" Frey, further up the road, that several automobiles had just "whizzed by" and "it looked like something was doing in the way of Frank."

Saw at Least One. As Benson unfolded his story the members of the jury and the several spectators, most of the mahogany-veined or overhauled, bent forward to hear his every word. There was no sound in the big Superior Court room save the voice of Acting Solicitor John T. Dorsey framing the inter-rogations, and that of Benson in reply. Benson spoke earnestly and emphatically above a whisper. "There had been a pause of several seconds in the examination, when Mr. Dorsey turned to the witness and very slowly asked: "You say you saw at least one of the men step from one of the automobiles that had turned off the road at the Frey gin?" Benson moved a little nervously in his chair. "Yes sir," he replied. The acting prosecutor paused, and then shot out: "Who was he?" "I do not know."

Recognized Nobody. There was audible relaxation in all parts of the court room. "You did not recognize anybody?" "Nobody." Mr. Benson explained that he did not tarry in the vicinity of the thickets, but "drove right by at a good rate of speed."

There were other witnesses examined, and city and county officials were called to the stand to tell of their efforts to learn the identity of the lynching party. But when the testimony was all in there was absolutely nothing to guide the jury, to any other verdict than the one which was reached in less than three minutes of deliberation. The next step in the Frank inquiry is expected to be taken when the grand jury meets at Marietta Sept. 1. Judge Patterson, 111 Blue Ridge circuit, will deliver a special charge and Solicitor General Herbert Clay will take charge of the investigation.
