Mr. C. S. Frederick Tenders Farewell Banquet To Covington Baseball Team

A farewell supper was tendered last Tuesday evening by Mr. C. S. Frederick, at Hebert's Restaurant, to the Covington Grocery & Grain Baseball Club and a few invited guests.

Mr. Frederick is private secretary to Congressman Lewis L. Morgan, and while spending his vacation in Covington with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Frederick, became a member of the Covington Grocery & Grain Baseball Club, and proved to be their star player. Mr. Frederick played seven games of ball with this team, and holds the record of playing sixteen errorless games, which

RALLY TO THE ST. TAMMANY PARISH FAIR.

Covington, La., Sept. 29, 1915. To the Good People of St. Tammany Parish:

Rally to the success of the St. Tammany Parish Fair! Yes, please put it all in capital letters, big red ones, and serve, with animated discussion, for breakfast, dinner and supper.

The success of our previous fairs has been the success of a sentiment, and a labor of love. This year's fair is a financial undertaking and must prove a financial success to gain the confidence of our people, to firmly establish it upon a business basis, and to put it where it can be an encouragement to our people in every way that a parish fair was meant to be.

It has been made very plain many times before that these fairs belong to the parish and not to Covington alone, but this fact has now been made plainer, because people from all over the parish have taken stock in the Fair Association, have helped to buy our own ground and to put up our own buildings.

The Board of Directors of the Association is comprised of representatives from every ward of the parish, and they are there to take care of the interest of their wards; therefore, if these interests are neglected it is the fault of the representative only. So, good people, get behind your man!

The Women's Progressive Union has pledged itself again to the support of the Fair, and will, as ever, lead every effort to the work.

This band of women wants every man, woman and child in the parish to feel that they are trying to help them, and to do all that they can for the good and for the development of the parish and its resources.

The restaurant at the fair ground will be in charge of the Union, and lunch at 25 cents, dinner for 50 cents, and good things a la carte will be provided for all who wish to spend the day in the grounds. Sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and candy will be generously supplied.

The ladies will soon make a house call to the fair ground, and to the restaurant, but they wish everyone to feel at liberty to give, enough and to go on only the things they may find it most convenient to give.

All stockholders and merchants will not be solicited, but should the feel disposed to give, their donation will be gratefully received by a member of the committee. This committee is composed of Mesdames J. C. Baras, Preston Burns, Quit Man Kohake, E. G. Davis, Harry Mackie, H. T. G. Weaver, E. D. Terrebonne and H. J. Thompson, of Abita Springs, and Mrs. Wm. Bodender, chairman consulting committee, Mrs. J. B. Wortham and Mrs. E. R. Moses.

Cordially yours, MRS. WM. BODENDER.

DON'T DRENCH HORSES.

Use Farris Colic Remedy. Simply drop it on the horse's tongue with the medicine dropper that is furnished with every 50 cent bottle. Cures fifty-nine times out of sixty and the women can give it when you are away. Money back if it fails. For sale by A. C. McCormack, adv.

On Saturday last Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Gautreaux entertained at a birthday party, in honor of their little son, Henry. A column appointed to be read at the weekly councils of the sect. ".....The Pharisees sit in Moses' seat: All therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do."—Matt. xxiii, 2-3.

THE PHARISEE'S WEEKLY DISCOURSE. WHY IS A BACKWOODS?

In the days of Daniel Boone, the pioneers who penetrated the Kentucky forests, and first planted the farms and cities of the commonwealth, had their vision fixed on altitudes which kept their souls firm, their hands steady and their purposes clean and just. They may have possibly been ignorant of schools, letters, and the progress of contemporaneous thought, but they were braving dangers and obstacles in the interest of some great victory for civilization. No matter what petty motives inspired by greed and selfishness a man may have under such circumstances, so long as he is great enough, and true enough, to have his faith rested with an ultimate vision, he will succeed in doing justice and promoting peace among his fellows, such as we idealists and hope for universally within the common family of civilization.

After a while the fight ceased. Men relaxed, forgot their earlier hardships, and fell to scheming. Then grew up the Backwoods. Instead of following up the great period of physical conquest of Indian forest, river and plain (and we are leaving Kentucky now, and tracing the march of humanity up to our own doors a hundred years back), with the conquest of those great reaches of the human intellect, matters of education fell flat. The fault that most of the members of the generation that went through the civil war period could neither read nor write was not due more to the effects of war, than to the fact that our grandfathers as a rule grew so busy for a while stealing lands, faking Indians, selling negroes, sinking into low politics and petty graft, that the cultivation of the minds of the youth of the state grew to have been left as a last consideration.

We have heard it said frequently in the light of modern reflection that the Civil War was a "rich man's war and a poor man's fight." It was decidedly more than that. It was an ignorant man's fight! The reason why there could not be another civil war between the states is that our younger generation, thanks to education, would be too intelligent for such a thing! Take the records of the Louisiana legislature fifty, sixty, seventy years ago, and you will look in vain for any suggestions of bonded indebtedness to build schools and make other public improvements. If perchance such a provision could be found, you will unhappily find few, if any, of the country parishes at that time availing themselves of the advantages it carried.

Down in Madisonville, of this parish, an election is to be held next Tuesday for the purpose of voting a tax to aid and improve the public schools of that ward. Practically all of the other wards of St. Tammany have voted these special taxes, and re-voted them to build up a modern chain of schools in the parish. The pro rata falling on the average ratepayer from this proposed tax is so small as to be almost inconsequential, and yet its passage will be another step for the new order that it seems folly indeed that we should have been so long without. We have heard of no material opposition to the passage of this tax. We wouldn't look for anything quite so stupid and narrow. But we do know that the public schools of that vicinity will not be able to open until November on account of the lack of funds, which means the children of the section are getting scarcely six months schooling out of twelve. Such a condition of affairs, is in our opinion a sin against the Holy Ghost. We don't know exactly what that means, but we believe some church teaches that it is the oppression of helpless women and youth, for one thing.

PUBLIC OFFICERS—THE POLICE JURY.

Police Jury is Louisiana for Board of County Supervisors in more up-to-date parts of the world. They are a sort of parish legislature, endowed without about the same functions and privileges as the larger state body, that is to collect taxes and find a way to spend them. In fact this is a duty devolved upon them. No police jury has ever been known to have shirked this solemn obligation. In addition, the police jury builds the public roads, as is said to maintain them; hire the court-house janitor. I don't know about firing him. I think the janitor, like most public servants these days, must be first impeached. The police jury also meets once a month and draws its mileage therefor. St. Tammany is operated by a ten cylinder police jury with the old-fashioned crank starter and steering gear. St. Tammany parish, as many inhabitants as a Bob Ewing mass meeting in the rear of the New Orleans tenth ward, but we are still looking for the fellow that spent the day in Del Corral's, and walked around for an hour suggesting a commission form of government for the parish. May be Herman Schultz remembers him.

A DISCOVERY.

For a long time we were among that class of men who sit in dudgeon often trying to estimate where go all the pins that are manufactured. We think we have solved the problem. Myrtina attended a bargain sale of shirts for us. We were three quarters of an hour hunting down the pins concealed in the different compartments before one of these blessed garments would open up wide enough for a man to crawl through. At the end of the first heat, we counted eight pins on the dresser; ten on the parlor mantel; five in the bath and three on the rear porch. If there are 42 million men in this country, and each man buys one shirt per year, we have accounted for one billion, ninety-two million pins, according to Francis Xavier, our bright and youngest.

ESSAY ON FOOTBALL.

Brutal? Well no..... unless Youth be brutal. From birth, the rule of the male is first-ruler. When the fight-grip on the cudgel ceases, and the round warm plumpness of the male-paw shrinks into sallow parchment, only fit for pens, or fawning strokes of blessings weak. The world has tired of something. The world loves The bruises Youth intrudes upon, the heart, Waiting like women wait for gruffs to come, it hides the kick dealt rudely at its shins— The world grins through the pain, the tears and scars That youth uncouth as wind or fire inflicts.

A German youth encounters a Russian.— Both meet as the cavemen met, the stronger Wielding his bayonet, gouges the cheek Of his opponent, tearing his jawbone, And ripping his eyeballs. Asunder he drops. Now he who fell should not be unhappy If the loss of his cheek, eye and jawbone Came from this match of his strength in combat, And not from the hideous sharpnel-burst Planned by a shrivelled chemist at eighty. Brutal.....? But is not Love Brutal Play ball!
