FARMERS' DEPARTMENT Edited By G. C. Lewis

INTEREST IN PIG CLUB WORK.
The past week has been a busy one for the boys who are interested in raising good hogs. Three boys came forward and took advantage of the liberal offer made by me in the columns of this paper some few weeks ago. Nelson Sharp, of Bush, got two pigs, big, fine, fat ones with a genuine pedigree behind them. I have already inoculated them in order that they may not die from the dreaded disease known as cholera. Silas and Jennings Klayne also got a fine pig each, and these pigs will be treated so that the boys will have a safer spirit in which to work and grow up these pigs later.

These pigs are full blood and subject to registry. The boys have one year to pay for their pigs and they only pay a low rate of interest on the money. If there are any other boys whom I have not seen and talked this plan over with please write me and learn details and get in a club where money can be made and pleasure had where otherwise the time would be spent in fishing and hunting.

FARM GIRLS CAN EARN MORE MONEY.
For the last few years most country girls who wanted to earn some money for themselves have either tried to get a position in some factory, office, store or tried teaching some little country school. There are better ways and a surer way of earning more money at home on the farm and at the same time have the pleasure of being at home with the home folks and neighboring friends. With the price of chickens and eggs at this time good money can be made in raising poultry as a side line. Broilers and fryers bring good money all the time, while eggs sell for thirty cents and upwards all fall and winter months. The girls need not wait for some one to take the lead, but all they need do is to set a few hens to start with and do the best to save enough money to buy an incubator the following fall and go into the business on a more extensive scale where good money can be made. I will be only too glad to be of any service I can to any one who wants to go into the poultry business. Write for bulletins on chickens and incubators.

Farm girls can also earn big money in the canning business and the work is not so hard either. Girls can set out tomatoes, plant okra or bean or anything else just as good as boys. They can gather the vegetable and prepare them and can them better than the boys and I know a merchant will buy from the girl quicker than from the boy and pay perhaps a better price for the goods.

Miss Lorena Kahl canned over 1500 cans of fruits and vegetables last season and what they did not find at home they had no trouble in finding a market at good prices.

Not less than ten thousand cans of tomatoes are used in St. Tammany

THE TURNING PLOW IN THE CORN FIELD.
I am sorry to say that on most of my trips last week I saw where the turning plow and half shovel had been used too much in the so-called cultivation of corn and other crops. I do not see where any man who believes in making most of his time and labor can continue to use the plow in cultivating his crops. Some fields I noticed were already subjected to the effects of loss of moisture when conditions should have been good. The plow had been used too near the corn and all the roots had been cut for 3 inches deep and turned over to the sun to bake and dry out. The plow is a very good way to gather corn before it is ripe but it is a poor way to make money growing corn. All records where any money has been made growing corn the cultivator has been used. If the land has been plowed as it should be before planting all is needed after the crop comes up is a Planet, Jr., to start the crop off and then follow up by the "Gee Whizz" in after cultivations. Several furrows can be saved in a season and more corn made per acre at the same time. These implements do not cost much and once you use them no more plow will be used in the corn field.

FIGHTING THE BOLL WEEVIL IN THE COTTON FIELD.
More cotton has been planted this season in St. Tammany than any year since I have been in this section. It is very important that the proper methods in cultivation are used to make any money at all in growing this crop even at 13 cents per pound. The cultivator should be run down the rows every ten days in order to keep the dust mulch. The larvae or young weevil in the fallen square cannot live long when covered up in the hot soil or dust. The square or form will heat and decompose before the weevil will have time to grow into maturity. It will be good to attach an old sack or cloth soaked with coal oil and black oil and salt, to the end of the stalks and let this sack touch the stalks to knock off all hanging forms and at the same time leave an odor that the mother weevil does not like on the cotton stalk. This will be of much service and at the same time does not cost much. Not much trouble to use it either. The yield can be increased as much as one hundred pounds per acre by having this preparation fastened to the single tree every time the cultivator is run down the row.

THE OUTLOOK FOR FALL PLANTED IRISH POTATOES.
Never before have we had conditions so favorable for growing Irish potatoes with good profit as we will have this fall. The dry weather of last season ruined the crop all over the South, some places not making as much as the seed planted. This placed a shortage in the supply the past winter and accounts for the high price of seed this spring. Due to the high price of seed and not being able to get the right mixture of commercial fertilizers a very small acreage was planted this spring. Two short crops in succession will put the prices higher in winter than ever before. The farmer who can arrange to grow a hundred bushels this fall can depend on more than one hundred dollars for them. The time to start this crop is NOW. Plow the land and sow in peas to be turned under the last week in July. About the 20th of July the seed potatoes should be spread out in a cool dry place and covered with straw about four inches deep and moistened to sprout, then the first week in August the crop should be planted. Discard all seed pieces which show no sign of sprouting, and by so doing no trouble will be had in getting a stand. Potatoes keep better in winter than in summer, and always bring a better price. They can be sold locally for the cash without the expense of shipping and taking chances with commission men in distant markets. The farmer who plants an acre in potatoes this fall and produces a crop will not regret it.
