Daniel Boyd Killed at Poitevent Mill.

Daniel Boyd, aged 30 years, a native and former resident of Napoleon, Miss., was caught in a belt at the Poitevent & Favre mill, at Lewisburg, yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock and horribly mangled. His skull was fractured and considerably battered by being whirled around the shaft. Mr. Boyd was the son-in-law of Police Juror Jos. Smith, having married his daughter on April 26, of this year.

Boyd was repairing a belt over a pulley and in some way was caught by another belt that was in motion.

Parish Fair Cleared Over $1000.00.

The statement to Manager FitzSimons of the Parish Fair Association shows that the fair netted $1061.52. This is a wonderful showing and places it on a paying basis.

There will be more stock sold and further improvements will be made. The stock should sell pretty well, aside from the encouragement that should be given the venture from a progressive standpoint.

Checks for the payment of prizes will now be issued.

Condensed statement, showing result of the Seventh Annual St. Tammany Parish Fair:

Receipts 2630.47

Disbursements 1568.95

Net profit, after deducting all expenses 1061.52

FIGURES WHICH SHOULD INTEREST EVERY CITIZEN OF ST. TAMMANY PARISH.

The United States Mortgage and Trust Co., one of the large Trust Companies of New York City, compiles annual statistics concerning the resources of the Trust Companies of America. In their report for the year ending June 30, 1916, they give the total resources of all Trust Companies of the State of Louisiana as $2,154,000, an increase of $5,310,000, or nine per cent during the past year. During the same time, the resources of the Covington Bank & Trust Company, which we know as "St. Tammany's Big Bank," increased $174,000, or thirty per cent. This is a much larger increase than the average of the Louisiana Trust Companies, of which every citizen of the Parish should be proud.

By P. M. Halley.

With ideal weather conditions and before a large and enthusiastic crowd of spectators St. Paul's College again showed their superiority by defeating the visitors from Mississippi by a tremendously high score. The world's record of 45 points made by one man in a single game was lowered by Cassius Richard, who scored 60 points. This was a distinctly outstanding feature of the game, made by 8 touchdowns and 12 kicked goals out of a possible 17. While the record made by Richard will not be allowed to stand as a world's record because of being made in a minor college game, nevertheless it will stand a long time before it is beaten or even duplicated. It is a well known fact that each and every team throughout the country has its hero or popular idol on the gridiron, and to Cassius Richard rightfully belongs this title. Another striking feature during the game was the 60-yard run by Y. Fields, who in catching the ball from a punt and not hesitating or faltering withstood all opposition until he was safe behind the goal for a touchdown, this making his second for the day.

Leandry and Frugo did their goodly share toward the high score by each scoring three touchdowns, and B. Richard scored one to his credit. The team as a whole outplayed their opponents and showed themselves to be in fine fettle.

Owing to the late arrival of the visitors the game was not called until 3:30 and darkness had set in before the game was over, much to the disappointment of the crowd.

The score was 114 to 0. Although the visitors were outclassed, special mention of Brook, Patterson and R. Lewman (playing for Aycock) and Causy is deserved. Coach C. M. Adams was greatly disappointed over the showing made by his boys.

This was the sixth game of the season for St. Paul's College. The first resulted in a tie with the Baton Rouge High. In the other five games the opposing teams did not even score. The result is that St. Paul's College claims the championship and the Boys' High (New Orleans) also claims it. A trophy has been issued by St. Paul's to the Boys' High, but they refuse to play. Could they settle the supremacy it would be a decided drawing card. But until then, the question is: Which of the two teams is the champion?

TWO CARS CRASH BUT NO ONE HURT.

Beaucoudray and one by Mrs. Louis Theriot, collided at Theard Avenue and Gibson street, Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Beaucoudray was alone in her car and the Theriot car contained Mr. and Mrs. Theriot and their 11-year old girl. The cars were going slow and were only slightly damaged. No one was hurt except the little girl, who received a slight cut in the lip from broken glass from the wind shield. There was also a car damaged out a way on Columbia street. It was left on the road with a bent axle. It is not known who it belonged to.

KING'S DAUGHTERS PROVIDE FOR DINNERS FOR NEEDY

High School Pupils Contribute Overflowing Hamper to the Cause.

DAY ALSO CELEBRATED BY EXERCISES

School Furnishes Interesting Program and Debate by Literary Society.

A very worthy custom of the King's Daughters has been the provision made for the enjoyment of Thanksgiving by those whose means will not allow the expenditure necessary for a Thanksgiving dinner. Every year it has been the custom to make up Thanksgiving baskets and to distribute them among the deserving needy, and it has always been a task that has brought much pleasure in the giving and much happiness into a number of homes. This year the undertaking has developed into larger proportions than ever before, and the contributions of the school children have swelled the contents and number of packages into proportions that made a very liberal distribution possible.

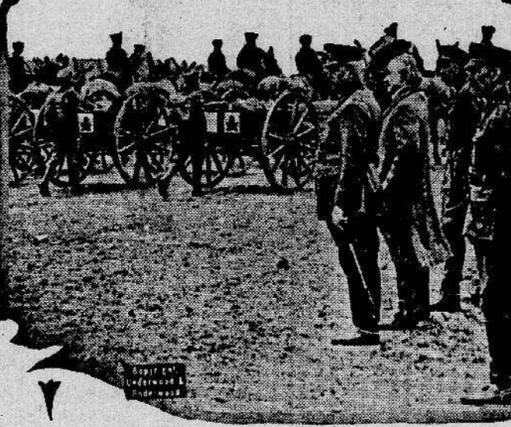

The giving of these packages was made a part of the program of the Thanksgiving exercises of the Covington High School, Wednesday, November 23, the auditorium of the school was crowded to overflowing by pupils and parents and friends. The Freshman-Sophomore Literary Society carried out a program suggestive of the season, and each grade put on a number that was very much enjoyed.

The debate: "Resolved, that the turkey and not the pumpkin pie is the Thanksgiving dish," was ably argued by Cathrine Morrison and Stanley Bierhorst in the affirmative, and Annie Riggs and Frank Artus in the negative. The decision was given to the affirmative.

After the program Prof. Park, in a few well chosen words, called the attention of the audience to the stage, where the large hamper and boxes, filled to overflowing with groceries, fruit and clothing, had been placed by the different grades to be distributed among our needy and sick friends in Covington and surroundings.

Mr. E. J. Domergue, of the Covington Grocery & Grain Company, with his usual liberality donated a barrel of apples to the good cause. It was turned over to the King's Daughters, and Mrs. H. T. G. Weaver leader, with a committee of ladies, received it and proceeded at once to distribute. Seventeen large boxes, several baskets and large bags of fruit were sent out.

CAUSES OF AND PREVENTION OF CHARBON IN CATTLE

By G. C. Lewis.

Since we have had an outbreak of charbon this fall and some 60 or 65 head of cattle died, I think it wise to have published in The Farmer, at this time, a few pointers on the disease.

People are interested more now than they will be next spring because we have just had some experience.

The following short treatise on charbon was prepared by Dr. Flower, Executive Officer of State Live Stock Board. The main points in fighting and preventing the disease are clearly brought out. The three different types of charbon are clearly explained and all should study this part of it in order to better be able to detect the disease upon its appearance in the herd. Many people think charbon is quickly stamped out, but as this treatise says, the germ will live for years when once the soil becomes infected and next summer is the time when the stock will die if not properly vaccinated with fresh vaccine. I know of several places where animals have been dragged away and the germs scattered along where the charbon cases had passed. I also know of one case where the animal was not burned in time and the buzzards had plenty of time to scatter the disease germ over the third ward, and I think this has been pretty well done. It is for that reason that I write these few lines. I do not want to see several hundred dollars worth of stock die next summer before we get the vaccine and get around with the vaccinating. In March or April, while there is plenty of time and vaccine can be had is the time to get busy. The vaccine has plenty time to take them before hot weather sets in, and when the disease breaks out in July you have well played the game of "Safety First." Read Dr. Flower's words on the disease:

Charbon. Anthrax is primarily a disease of domestic animals, occurring as an epidemic in cattle, sheep, horses and mules, and for this reason is one of the most important of diseases.

At 3:30 Wednesday, November 23, the program below was creditably executed by the members of the Junior Dramatic Club, in the spacious hall of the Academy. One of the chief objects of the evening being the entertainment of the members of the Senior Club.

The stage was tastefully arranged with appropriate decorations for the occasion.

At the conclusion of the program the Juniors crowned the event by graciously serving their guests with delicious fruit, nuts, cake and candy.

The "delightful evening came to a close after a series of games and other amusements were heartily indulged in.

FOSSIL DEPOSITS BROUGHT UP FROM THE OIL WELL

Bedded In 200 Feet of Solid Rock 2900 Feet Beneath Surface of the Earth.

BURIAL GROUNDS OF MONSTERS OF THE SEA

Deposit Supposed to Be the Bones of Some Antediluvian of the Deep.

The steel bit of the well driver has gone deeper into the bowels of St. Tammany parish than ever before, under the direction of the Meridian Oil and Gas Company, and the locality of Sulphur Springs will prove interesting to the geologist, if he has a talk with the secretary of the company, Mr. W. H. Martin, who is in charge of the anticipated oil field of that section. For several months the driller has been grinding into solid rock, commencing at a depth of about 2700 feet. The rock has been so hard and tough that each inch of progress was measured by hours of labor, and the wearing out of drills became quite an item of expense in putting down the well.

More lasting penetrating drills were finally secured, and several feet can now be drilled in hours that took days before.

The well is now 2900 feet deep, and probably two hundred feet of rock has been drilled through. Then came the gumbo and more rock, and in this latter rock has been found fossils, surmised to be the bones of some ancient creatures of the sea. Evidently this great strata of rock is the tombstone of some monster of the deep, in a grave yard that was once the bottom of the sea, that thousands and thousands of years ago plowed the waters that then covered this section of the State. The ingenuity of man has finally brought portions of these fossils to the air and light in Covington, to be handled and looked and wondered at. But it is not bones of dead monsters that the Meridian company is after. It is oil; and every day seems to bring fresh indications that it is some where beneath this great rock, if we may judge by the expressions of oil men, some of them direct from the oil fields of Beaumont. The drilling of this Sulphur Spring well is being watched very closely by oil people in other sections. If the strike should come, Covington would be transformed to almost as great an extent as this former bottom of the sea has been changed.

DEATH OF HENRY STEIN.

The body of Mr. Henry Stein, Sr., was brought to Covington, Wednesday, from New Orleans, and taken to the residence of Sheriff T. E. Brewster, where the wake was held in the evening.

Mr. Stein went to the Presbyterian Hospital, in New Orleans, on the 20th instant, where he had an operation performed. His extreme age made the operation a dangerous one, and he never recovered from the effects. He died at the hospital at 9:40 a. m., November 28, 1916. He was 75 years of age.

The funeral took place from the Brewster residence at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and at the grave in Madisonville. Rev. F. C. Talmage of the Presbyterian Church officiated. Mr. Stein was the father of Mrs. T. E. Brewster. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Henry Stein, and his sister, Widow Conrad Myer, and by four daughters: Mrs. T. E. Brewster, Mrs. Thos. Hebert, of Covington, Mrs. Robt. H.
