

A Word To The Wise

Do not be so negligent as to leave money around the house where it may be burnt, lost or stolen, but put it in the bank where it is available any time.

A prudent man takes pride in his bank account. Money deposited in this bank is covered by insurance, while money in your house is not. A checking account is the most convenient method of handling your funds. No expense.

We furnish pass book, check book and all necessary stationery FREE.

CONEY—COLLINS.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Collins, at Onville, was the scene Wednesday afternoon, July 28th, 1920, of one of the prettiest weddings when their eldest daughter, Ruth Elizabeth, was united in matrimony to Mr. Walton Brumfield Coney, Rev. A. F. Vaughan, of the Methodist church, officiating.

The wedding was to have taken place on the beautiful lawn adjoining their home, but on account of the inclement weather took place in the sitting room, which was beautifully decorated with ferns and a profusion of crepe myrtle.

The bride, a petite brunette, was never lovelier in her bridal robes of embroidered crepe de chine and veil of illusion and wreath of orange blossoms. To the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March the bridesmaids, Miss Lois Coney, wearing a gown of Nile green organdy, and Miss Maud Collins, cousin of the bride, wearing a gown of canary colored organdy, entered the room, then followed the maid-of-honor, Miss Era Coney, wearing a gown of pink organdy, all wearing picture hats and carrying bouquets of pink and white crepe myrtle. The bride's flowers were a shower bouquet of Climatis, butterfly lilies and ferns.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. H. B. Collins, and was joined by the groom with his best man, Mr. H. B. Collins, Jr.

Before the wedding "Until" was beautifully rendered by Miss Lois Coney, the same strains being softly played by Mrs. Vaughan during the ceremony.

The ceremony was followed by an informal reception after which the bride couple left for a short honeymoon. On their return to Onville they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Collins for a short time.

They received numerous and costly presents, attesting the popularity of both parties. Quite a number of relatives and friends motored out to attend the ceremony.

JUDGE CARTER ANNOUNCES FOR RE-ELECTION.

To the Democratic Voters of the Twenty-Sixth Judicial District of Louisiana.
Four years ago the people of this

Judicial District honored me by selecting me as their District Judge. The time is now at hand for me to give an account of my stewardship and to respectfully ask, if I have been found worthy, that I be entrusted for a second term with the administration of the judicial affairs of this district.

The duties of a District Judge are of a most exacting nature. In the country parishes it is required that the District Judge preside both in civil and criminal proceedings. It has been my rule in civil cases to take them under advisement, to carefully consider and weight the testimony, and to examine the law applicable thereto before rendering a decision. In criminal matters I have attempted to be fair and impartial, and protect the best interest of the State as well as those of the accused.

But in all cases, at all times, I have attempted to be courteous to the jurors, the witnesses, the litigants and the lawyers, and allowed both the litigators and their attorneys every latitude, allowed under the law.

In deciding a case, a judge cannot please both sides; he can only decide as he believes to be right, after a fair and impartial consideration of the case. THIS I HAVE DONE. NO MAN CAN DO MORE. I have no doubt made mistakes, but they have been honest mistakes, and I am proud to say an examination of the records of the Appellate Courts of this state will show that a large majority of my decisions have been affirmed.

During my term as District Judge I have never missed a regular term of court, and I have, when requested, held special terms to avoid delays and facilitate the administration of justice.

Experience is a great teacher, and I feel that my service as a judge for the past four years, and the experience gained thereby, has greatly increased my efficiency, and should I again be entrusted with the office of Judge of this District, I will be better qualified in every way to better serve the people of my district.

My official duties are such that it may not be possible for me to see each voter personally, unless I neglect the duties of my office, which I will not do, and I therefore, take this means of soliciting the vote and the influence of each of my constituents in the support of my candidacy for re-election.

Faithfully yours,
PRENTISS B. CARTER.
