JAMES—WALLACE.

The marriage of Mr. Philip T. James and Miss Myrtle Wallace was quietly solemnized Sunday afternoon, August 1, 1920, at 2 o'clock, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. W. T. Wallace, at their home in Folsom, in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

The bride, wearing a chic suit of tan cloth, with hat to match and carrying a shower bouquet of roses, entered the parlor with her father where she met the groom with his best man, his brother, Mr. J. James. The bride was attended by Miss Ray Streek, of Hammond. The couple stood under an arch of flowers and ferns, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Booth.

The marriage was followed by an informal reception, after which Mr. and Mrs. James left for Mississippi where they will spend some time. On their return they will make their home at Red Bluff where Mr. James is employed.

Mrs. Julius H. Heintz and children are spending some time in Jackson, Miss., with relatives.

A LETTER FROM MR. GLISSON.

would add to the development and prosperity of our parish.

The advocates claim that it will enhance the value of our land from $50 to $5000 per acre. Truly this is a scheme of utopian conception. Practical to be sure but what a tremendous cost, a cost that will fall heavily upon the shoulders of those who toil. There is much to do besides drainage to prepare our lands for cultivation. Such as pulling the stumps, clearing and fencing. If an acreage tax were placed on these lands this tax would run several years before the land could be made ready and begin to yield a return. What would the owner do while he was waiting for this return? I understand that under the law as much as $3.00 per acre may be imposed on land in a drainage district to pay first cost and maintenance. Now suppose a farmer in one of these districts has a home of say 200 acres, he is now cultivating about 40 acres and making a fairly good living, but not any too much. The drainage tax imposed upon him is fixed at $3.00 per acre per year, he will have to pay $600 per year to the drainage fund and still not be able to put any more of his land to use. If he did he would have to go to the extra expense of clearing and taking the stumps out of this land. Unless he could put this land to immediate use the drainage charges would be confiscatory. The bond holder or highest bidder would step in and take his home. Suppose another man in one of these districts owns 40 acres. It is practically all high land and nearly all in cultivation, he personally does not need drainage, but he is in the drainage district, and he will have to pay $3.00 per acre or $120 per year for the privilege of being there.

It is a stupendous, far-reaching undertaking which will take not only the poor man's home, but will bankrupt financial institutions. Who will help us carry these burdens? Will the men who have launched it, unloaded and collected their profit? Will the men who are holding the interest bearing bonds help us carry it? No, he will want his pound of flesh.

Far be it from me to stand in the way, or attempt to retard any meritorious proposition that has for its object the improvement of conditions in our parish, but I am unwilling to give my consent to a scheme of financing that will foist an indiscriminate acreage tax on the people that in many cases will amount to confiscation.

Being a poor man myself I speak for those who are already burdened with a load as heavy as they can bear, and whose little homes may be consumed in this vortex of high financing. It will be well for every man downer to look into this project carefully before approving a proposition so far reaching in its effect, be it ever so plausible and attractive.
J. E. GLISSON.
