HEALTH—WEALTH.

(By Dr. W. L. Stevenson)

Stealing Vitality.

Without warning you are aroused from refreshing sleep, and in the distance there is the dying echo of an unearthly screech. Nearer now is the grind of steel upon steel, the escape of steam under pressure. You are within the noise zone of man's most wondrous creation. Wonderful is the locomotive, yet more wonderful is the human mind that created it.

The vigor of this mind, and of the body that it impels, rises and falls in daily tidal waves. It is low at 9 (night and afternoon) and climbs to its peak at 10. This explains why deaths are frequent after midnight, why the first and last sleep is most refreshing, why people fight against early rising, why progressive towns abate unnecessary night noises, and why other kinds allow soulless railroads and corporations to steal the vitality of its citizens. If your town does not protect, ask the council why.

Fighting Mosquitoes.
No one has the right to endanger his neighbor by breeding mosquitoes. Our local board of health is considering a novel way to abate a nuisance perpetuated through ignorance and indifference. The plan is to give owners of breeding places the option to fill or drain them, or to have them oiled at their expense at regular intervals under the auspices of the board.

It is thought that after paying a few tolls the wisdom of permanently abating the nuisance will be apparent to the callous offenders.

Hygienic-Economy Mosquito Bars.
Bars of the bobbinet kind have doubled in price; to make three out of two is an economy. To do this, the bar must be of the cone type. To make, cut off one-third of the top of an unmade bar (they are usually 9 feet high) and reserve this strip for the second bar. Form a three-foot ring by twisting the ends of one or two strands of telephone wire, and cover it with a hood of cotton cloth. Sew a small ring to the upper center. Sew the short ends of the bobbinet together, and pleat and sew the top to the ring. Hang it by the ring from a hook attached to a small rope working through a pulley screwed into the ceiling.

A self-locking pulley is recommended. The ring does not interfere with laundering. First cost economy is not the prime advantage. The bar is quickly detached from the hook, and may be hidden under the bedding when not in use, assuring a dust-free bar that requires less washing, and, consequently gives longer life. If mosquitoes gain an entrance, drop the top and raise one side, and the mosquitoes are gone. The hygienic-economy features should cause this bar to find favor in every well regulated home.

"The Old Stand-by" where Service is no dream; The equal chance, first come first served. Where excellence lies not in color of cream But reputation earned and well deserved.

Where sanitary care extends beyond The dish or glass before you and in view, And all the things of which you may be fond Have the same care before they're brought to you.

That's Schonberg's plan to serve you right. That's why the crowds crush every night.
