"There Is No Place Like Home" And You Know It!

The South is one of the most richly favored sections of the country. Both climate and soil are conducive to abundant yields. It is not only rich in agriculture and stock raising but everything save the tropical fruits can be grown here to profit. The people are thrifty and know how to make money.

This section is dotted with splendid communities, prosperous towns and cities. Prosperity is a "camper" in Dixie, not merely a transient guest.

While no section of the great commonwealth has advanced more rapidly than the South since the Civil War, which left destruction in its wake, yet the growth could have been more marked if every dollar made by its people had been kept in the banks, invested in lands and other wealth-producing concerns. Much of the wealth has been so safe-guarded, yet thousands of dollars have been diverted from the legitimate channels of trade and found lodgment in the coffers of the big Eastern and Northern establishments. This money could have been spent at home as economically, if not more so, and purchased merchandise carried by the merchants of your town.

That old song, "There Is No Place Like Home," will live in the hearts of the people as long as time lasts, for it touches a responsive chord in every soul. No matter how humble, we all love home. Then, it behooves all to do everything possible to make his home county and his home town the best place on the map in which to live. By trading at home you can be a real constructive force in the growth of your town. You can keep your cash within close touch, and sooner or later it will come your way again. But send it several hundred miles away to some foreign concern, and it is gone forever. It is camping in some other man's town to enrich his home town.

No one for a moment would urge that people trade at home if it was not to their interest. Your merchants carry good, standard reasonable merchandise and take a year's trading and you will actually make money by sticking to the home merchant. Of course, at times these foreign concerns may offer what they term "bargains" but your home merchant will do the same.

No matter what you want you can get it here, at a fair margin of profit. You can see what you are buying and get it when you want it. You do not have to order and then wait until the season is gone to get it.

Here's a safe tip—the year round—Trade at Home.

The man who will be the next Senator from this district. His ability is undoubted. His election will give the people of this district a representative who will stand in line with the big men of the country and who is well able to take care of the interests of his constituents.

STRANGE MAN TRIES TO ENTER KING RESIDENCE.

Mrs. S. E. King and family were awakened Friday, August 13, by the attempt of a strange man to enter their house through the kitchen window. Her son, Clifford, saw the man and fired a shot at him. The shell struck in the gun and he went into the house to remove it, and in the meantime the man cleared out.

COVINGTON-HAMMOND ROAD.

(Continued from page 1) what actually did happen. In 1914 a Tangipahoa delegation obtained assurances from our police jury and road commission that St. Tammany would connect with a road they proposed to build. State Highway Engineer Atkinson agreed to aid in this through highway. St. Tammany voted money to build this and the Madisonville road, and part of the money was used on the latter road. The remainder of the money was refunded in the last bond issued which proposed in part to carry out the unfinished part of the other bond issue which it supplanted, that is, to build the Covington-Hammond road to the parish line. When Mr. Buie succeeded Mr. Atkinson he agreed to aid in the construction of this road, as promised Tangipahoa and St. Tammany, and is now advertising same as part of a federal aid project.

The people in the section through which this road would pass have been promised this road three times, they have voted three times for it. They pay ample tax to entitle them to it. If this road is not built, a big section of the parish which paid taxes will be without a passable road into the county seat except by a long, round-about way, and there will be 17 miles on the Tchefuncta without a bridge.

FROM PALM TO PINE.

The Duluth (Minn.) Sunday News issue of August 8 says: "With the marking of the road between Lower and Ely this week the last link of the Mississippi Valley Highway, which extends as far South as New Orleans, has been completed. The Mississippi Valley Highway is officially recognized by the American Automobile Association, the National Highway Association and the Associated Highways of America, and is the only highway that has the official permission to use the name of the Mississippi Valley Association. The name and the markings of the route are registered in the state highway departments of every state traversed, including Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Mississippi and Louisiana. No highway in the United States offers greater potential value to the country."

This is the highway that some people would be willing to cut out in order to build some other road in the parish, thereby losing not only federal aid but the service of one of the greatest highways in the country.

State Representative W. H. Nalty, of Hammond, was here Tuesday and attended the meeting at the courthouse. He stated that if the Hammond connection was not built St. Tammany would lose the road altogether. We certainly can not afford to do this.

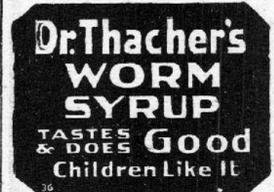

VALUE OF DRAINAGE.

(Continued from page 1) ception drainage improvement in this locality has been uniformly successful and fully served its purpose. Yours very truly, C. A. COURTNEY, Vice-President.

Abita Springs, Aug. 5, 1920. Auditor St. Tammany Farmer:

In reading the proceedings of our Police Jury of July 13, I see that we are going to have this parish divided and organized into different drainage districts. This is a good move and should be endorsed and supported by everybody.

I read the full ordinance and was pleased how our new police jury has taken hold of that project. But when I read the last few lines which are attached to this ordinance it gave me a shock. It reads: "Provided that if the Poitevent & Favre Lumber Co. own any property in any of the drainage districts as above defined and established and shall protest against the establishment of any of said drainage district or districts in which any of said property is located, at the next regular session of the police jury, that the police jury will immediately rescind its action in toto as to such drainage district or districts against which said protest is lodged by the Poitevent & Favre Lumber Co." and every police juror present voted for such an outrageous and servile attachment to this important ordinance. I want to ask the people of this parish why elect and maintain a police jury? Why pay mileage to ten men and pay for space in the official journal to publish the ordinance out of the public treasury? It is much cheaper and easier for the people to go and ask the Poitevent & Favre Lumber Co. what they want and then go and do it. If the Poitevent & Favre Lumber Co. can undo in toto what our police jury and their lawyers and advisers took weeks to do, just by protesting, ask again, what for a police jury I say let us undo such a police jury in toto if they only carry out the wishes and commandments of a private corporation. Suppose somebody has some land and would like to have it drained so he could make use of it for agriculture purposes? In steps Poitevent & Favre Lumber Co. and says no, we object, and immediately the police jury will rescind its action in toto as to such drainage districts. Great, isn't it? According to this fine arrangement (thanks to the representatives of the people) we have to wait until the Poitevent & Favre Lumber Co. puts its O. K. to our drainage districts and as they have land all over the parish they can postpone the drainage of this parish as long as they please and the people have to submit to the dictation of that corporation—the public be damned.

If conditions were just as Mr. Merk understands them his criticism would be justified, but the fact is, the matter was hastily sprung on the board and objection was made by a representative of the Poitevent & Favre Co. at the meeting. In order to give all parties time to be heard it was agreed between Mr. Arnett and Poitevent & Favre Co. representative that the ordinance would be rescinded if objected to after consideration. Mr. Arnett pays all cost of publishing the ordinance and rot the parish. The ordinance can not be re-enacted any time the people wish, if due public notice is given, but there has been so much opposition that Mr. Arnett does not believe that drainage can be established until the people are educated as to its value and need, and this education will be undertaken. The police jury is blameless in the matter. The ordinance will be passed whenever the people announce that they are ready for it.—D. H. Mason, Editor.

We Have a Special Ingersoll for Each One of These Folks

DID YOU ever "get fitted" to a watch? We mean, did you ever figure out exactly your watch needs and then see if you were properly equipped?

There are a dozen or more different Ingersolls—varying in price, varying in purpose—small watches, jeweled watches, radium dial watches for night use, and so on. For instance, if you have an expensive watch, you probably would choose a Radiolite for $3.50. If you haven't a good serviceable watch, you'd be likely to buy a 7-jewel Reliance.

The point is that we'd like to "talk Ingersoll" with you—show you the line and the 100% money's worth prices and then "fit you" to an Ingersoll.

Good display in the window if you're too busy to come in.

FORESTRY INCREASES THE FARM INCOME BY

1. Making waste lands yield a profit by growing timber on poor soils, steep slopes, rocky lands, wet lands, unused corners, gullied and eroded lands.
 2. Furnishing paying employment foremen and teams during the winter.
 3. Utilizing timber better on the farm and avoiding waste by cutting long stumps and small tops, using substitute woods in construction, treating non-lasting woods.
 4. Increasing crop yields by planting forest tree wind breaks.
 5. Growing more and better timber on the farm through protecting the woods from fire and overgrazing; selecting and cutting the mature, defective, over-crowded and inferior kinds of trees, and leaving the straight and thrifty and better kinds; planting to fill up openings in woodlands.
 6. Marketing the higher grade wood products direct to consumer at fair prices in the form of saw logs, poles, piling, cooperage, bolts, handling bolts, posts, pulp wood, fire wood, spoke blocks, tannan wood and bark.
