BARLOW—LEWIS.
St. Peter's Church, Tuesday morning, November 23, 1920, was the scene of a very pretty and impressive wedding, when at 7 o'clock, at nuptial mass, the marriage of Mr. Edmond Barlow and Miss Francis E. Lewis, took place, the ceremony having been performed by Rev. Father John Burger.

The church was prettily decorated with white flowers, and to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March the bride entered the church with her mother, Mrs. E. H. Lewis, and was joined at the foot of the altar by the groom, who awaited her coming with Mr. Paul Laborde, Jr., who acted as best man, the other male attendant being the brother of the groom, Mr. Albert Barlow. The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Paul Laborde, Jr., who acted as matron of honor.

Following the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the bride's mother's home, where they were served a wedding breakfast.

Mrs. Barlow was becomingly gowned in a traveling suit of dark blue tulle, with velvet hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Barlow have left for Plaquemine, Magnolia and Fernwood, Miss., for a short honeymoon, and on their return will make their home with the bride's parents' Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lewis.

JERKING HARMFUL TO AUTO

Misfiring Reduces Power of Engine to Such an Extent That Car Must Naturally Run With Most Uncomfortable Motion.

During the last few weeks the writer has received a great number of inquiries in which owners complain that the car bucks or jerks at low speeds. This condition is not only uncomfortable for the passengers but it is detrimental to the car, says a writer in Chicago Tribune. The ordinary garage mechanic—I mean the "gyp" sort—usually cannot make a proper diagnosis, and he cures the trouble only after he has taken the car half apart. If your car bucks, and you cannot determine the cause after reading this article, have a competent service man drive the car.

A car in perfect mechanical condition throughout will throttle down to five or four or even three miles an hour and pull evenly, but let there be misfiring and immediately the whole car starts to jerk. The misfiring so reduces the power of the engine and produces such lapses in the power impulses that the car must naturally run with a jerky motion. This applies to all cars, whether new or old. Whenever the engine cannot develop enough power to pull its load it falters just as a horse will tighten and then permit slack in the traces. You would do the same thing if you were dragging a heavy load. A carbonized engine cannot develop full power with a given throttle setting. Poor ignition, poor carburetion, improper valve timing, or any abnormal engine condition is likely to reduce the power and make the engine falter. It might even stall.

Common Cause of Trouble.
But apart from the engine there are other causes of this common trouble. The commonest is due to too much play between the driving pinion and the large bevel gear or ring gear in the axle. It may, however, be due to excessive play anywhere in the driving system from the clutch to the rear wheels.

When the engine is under load and pulling, all the parts that move are tight. This includes engine parts—clutch, transmission, axle. They tighten like the traces tighten when a horse starts to pull and continues to pull. So long as this pulling continues there will be no noise, because the parts are tight against each other. If they were not they could not pull. In a car that bucks due to excessive play in the driving system the same effect practically may be had by slowing down and suddenly accelerating. This may be done by closing the throttle suddenly at 20 miles an hour and then suddenly opening it again. At low speeds, however, it does not require a great amount of extra play to cause a knock and the objectionable bucking. A clutch that has a worn plate and weak springs will slap against the flywheel and give the bucking effect. A worn clutch shaft or worn clutch bearing would cause it.

Shaft Must Not Move.
In the transmission the main shaft must not move back and forth, for if it does it will cause a knock, though it may not cause bucking, due to the fact that the movement is not transmitted to the other parts. Universal joints with worn sliding members or worn bushings on the spiders will cause bucking. If the sliding shaft is not worn play elsewhere in the joint may be taken up and not noticed except as an occasional knock.

In the case of wire wheels it often happens that the wheel driving members become worn, giving the same effect as though there were play in the differential. If a wire wheel is not tight in place it will slip sideways and this knocking often is mistaken for a bucking rear end.
