A DELIGHTFUL LUNCHEON.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the week was the luncheon given Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Domestic Science Department of the Covington High School by the Ninth Grade class under the supervision of their efficient teacher, Miss Ruth Burns, to the mothers and friends of members of the class.

The luncheon table was lovely in its color scheme of white and yellow, the school colors. The center piece was of white narcissus and yellow jonquils in the midst of which stood a kerpie smiling, and like a ray of sunshine in its dress of yellow. The place cards were of yellow with a dainty maid in white and bore the motto, "The mission of the Ideal Woman is to make the whole world more Home-like."

The same color scheme was carried out throughout the daintily served menu, especially so in the Waldorf salad with its dressing of mayonnaise and in the delicious lemon pie.

The purchasing, preparing, cooking and serving of the food, as well as the perfect setting of the table, was done entirely by the students of the class under the supervision of Miss Burns.

There were thirteen charming maidens in the class and they looked very attractive in their white caps and aprons. All those present were delighted with the delicious luncheon and showered much praise upon the class and their teacher.

"You may live without poetry, music and art;

You may live without conscience and live without heart;

You may live without friends, you may live without books;

But the civilized man cannot live without cooks."

MRS. EMILY FUXA.

God called to her last reward Wednesday forenoon, February 2d, 1921, Mrs. Emily Fuxa, a native of France and a resident of Covington for the past thirty years. Mrs. Fuxa lived to the ripe old age of 88 years, was without relatives in this country, her many friends who have been her constant attendants during her illness being around her bedside when she died.

The funeral took place Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, from her home on Jackson street and from St. Peter's Catholic Church, interment being in the Covington Cemetery.

MADISONVILLE MOVIES FROM REAL LIFE.

(By Prof. Roland Morgan) Safe signs of spring when you see Old Lufe digging bait and Black Bass Whit otting his reel.

If, as I have heard, the world is a stage and we are all actors, why so many clowns?

Man has three changes in life—first, he is young and foolish; second, he is married and tormented; third, he is dead and forgotten.

Madisonville doubtless has lost the highway but it seems northern tourists delight in driving through the balmy pines from Hammond and Ponchatoula, and taking boat at Madisonville, the "Little Los Angeles of Louisiana," for New Orleans. Chauffeurs, get wise.

On my way to Covington last week I saw a razor-back hawg rubbin'!

Prohibition has put me out of a job. I was a boozologist, but now that's blowed up, and I got too much sense to be a politician or a peddler, aint got enough sense to be a bull-puncher, too light for heavy work, too heavy for light work, and would not take in sewing for Helen Blazes, so what have you got to offer me? Sympathy instead of soup does a starving man as much good as an ice house in New Orleans does a hen-pecked heathen in h—

Reaching the age of 95 years is like coming to Covington from New Orleans on the N. O. G. N.—if you live long enough you will get there.

O, yes, Wildwood, the bee you heard last week may be a flatterer with his humming, but you will find he is some sincere when he starts his stinging, bloweme.

There is some stuff being sold in bottles that looks like Jacob's candies could be labeled "made last night."

Alas! Wildwood, thou hast written Wisdom and Truth. The path of the bright lights shatter home, love and ideals of youth. Heed not the 'bright lights' call, they beckon to lead astray; friends that are false, promises broken and moral decay.
