TWO GOOD COMPOSITIONS BY MADISONVILLE PUPILS.

Following are two compositions written by pupils in the Madisonville Junior High School:

IT PAYS TO HOUSECLEAN.

On the evening of March 3, 1921, we had a very exciting time of housecleaning in our schoolroom.

As we were preparing the soil in our window box for spring planting we came upon a nest full of mice. They were surely unwelcome guests. Of course we girls and our teacher were frightened awfully. I ran into the cloak room and when I looked around one of the guests had come to keep me company. I excused myself immediately. One of my friends had to jump over one. Our teacher, Miss Hutchinson, was frightened out of her wits, as there were eight guests in all.

We had one boy in our room. Of course he acted as executor. He picked them up by the tails and knocked them in the head.

So this little incident proves that it pays to houseclean. The rats took our room for a tenement house, I guess.

CRIMINAL WAVE AT ZENITH.

Special to The Farmer:
Six children, mother and father found murdered by axmen!

Six innocent children, mother and father were found dead today on the highway leading from their home, with bruises and cuts in their heads.

Robbery Purpose.
The house, which was in disorder, showed that robbery was the intent but family was aroused and ended in the loss of eight lives.

Posse Formed.
Immediately the question, "Who was the guilty person" arose. Eleven suspicious showing guilt in their eyes. A posse of the loyal citizens of Madisonville formed to seek revenge.

Mystery Cleared.
Womanhood of America Fallen!

Nine women and one man found to be the guilty parties. The following are found to be the murderers: Leah Pollicar, Helen Davenport, Pearl Chatellier, Alice Goodbee, Marion Rotolo, Virginia Blanchard, Hazel Hutchinson and Ralph Chatellier. Corrine Koopp, Adele Taylor and Sallie Gollehon.

Speedy Trial; Mob Feared.
Ralph, who killed the most, was sentenced to be hanged. Other helpers sentenced for ninety-nine years.

Win of Family Found.
Later the will of Mr. and Mrs. Mamma and Papa Rat with their six little mice was found which contained valuable phrases leaving to the eleven murderers, the seventh grade students, their beautiful home of bits of paper, provided they plant seeds instead of being so negligent.
