MORE EVIDENCE OF VALUE OF ST. TAMMANY FARM LANDS

Wisconsin Farmer Shows Accomplishment of Drainage

GRANGES HERE BEAT CALIFORNIA

Not a County in California So Well Situated as to Climate and Water

By A. E. Briggs

To be leary about taking hold of new things is wise up to a certain point. But if we make a practice of turning down or refusing to find out about things that are new to us, we would never learn anything, which is an exceedingly stupid habit. Mr. F. P. Worthington, of Mandeville, is a very young old man. He is past three score and ten, but he is as eager as a school boy to pick up a bit of new knowledge. Anyone who has watched the improvements during the past year on the old Orfila place in the middle of the postoffice block must have become aware that the man who lives there has some "get-up" about him. And if he will take the initiative and get past the modest reserve which makes the owner shy toward strangers he will discover a very interesting person. His experience is worth while to St. Tammany farmers, for he has had a lifetime in the farming business in Wisconsin. Wisconsin is famous for her dairy development, which is far the best in the United States. Later we may contribute somewhat of Mr. Worthington's knowledge on this subject, but first it will be more interesting to our readers to learn the results of Mr. Worthington's clearing and the draining of his farm.

The farm is located on the outskirts of a small town, Oceanowoc, not far from Milwaukee. Mr. Worthington inherited it from his father, but as it came to him it was not much of an inheritance, for it laid low and wet. Forty years ago he dynamited the stumps and then undrained it with tiles. It was that forward-looking spirit which has kept Mr. Worthington young. But it produced profits of another kind also. That farm not only thereafter produced a good living for the family—but more important—it paid for high school and college education for a half dozen children. It seems to me that was a worth while achievement.

How was it done, and what did it cost? There were oak stumps as large as four feet in diameter. It took ten pounds of dynamite to do the job. It then cost thirty-five cents a pound. It is interesting to contrast that cost with the much less expense for what can now be done by a St. Tammany farmer, who can at the present time pay for a piece of a more powerful and effective explosive, at seven cents a pound. The St. Tammany Farmer in a recent issue has given full information about piece acid.

The dynamiting not only blew out the stumps, but there were other benefits. It killed all sprouts, and corn grew biggest and best on the dynamited spots. That Mr. Friedlander I learn that he has observed a similar benefit to fruit trees for which holes were dynamited. There is only one caution to be taken, and that is not to dynamite clay soils when they are wet, as it pushes the clay and water then to the surface.

There were twenty acres to be drained, but the drainage of this tract also benefited adjoining lands which lay higher. He employed a drainage engineer for a fee of $20 to survey and plan the system. 7000 feet of tile were laid. The mains were 6 and 8 inches in diameter and the laterals 3, 4 and 6 inches. The entire cost of tiles and ditching amounted to $120. He thinks that now with increased prices of labor and materials it would cost about $300 or $400 to complete that job of drainage. The drainage is much more expensive than drainage by open ditches, but then it is far more effective and valuable.

Two points especially are to be noted. First, the drainage was scientifically planned and laid out by an expert drainage engineer. Second, the entire cost of the drainage was only $5 an acre.

How much was that drainage worth? Mr. Worthington says it doubled the crop. That is, for the same labor and expense put forth, he got twice the yield, and that, of course, meant more than twice the profit. It would often mean the difference between a profit or a loss and a big profit on the cost of labor and seed.

The crops raised were corn and potatoes. Mr. Worthington took great care to select his seed corn out of his own field and the fields of his adjoining neighbors. The butt and the end of the ear were shelled so that only the best kernels of uniform size were planted.

Preparation of the ground and cultivation were given equally close attention. Before planting the field was plowed, disked, harrowed with tooth harrow, pulverized with plank pulverizer and rolled to make a compact seed bed. Then he waited until the ground was warm and tried to plant just before a rain, when the land was dusty and not wet. After the corn was up it was dragged with the harrow both ways, and the corn was then cultivated every week, and he took care to kill every weed.

PARISH BOOSTER MEETING FOR ORGANIZING FARMERS

Covington, Slidell and Mandeville Citizens Meet at Mandeville

FARMING IS NEED OF PARISH

Permanent Parish Organization Urged to Develop Cut-over Lands

(By A. E. Briggs)

Pursuant to notice a meeting of landowners, stockmen, timbermen, merchants and others interested in the development of St. Tammany parish was held at the Town Hall in Mandeville, December 1, at 10 a. m. The object of the meeting as stated by the chairman, Mr. Henry Kellor, of Slidell, was to set on foot a movement for a permanent parish organization to consider and devise means for the development of the waste cut-over lands in the parish and assistance to farmers in improving lands and marketing their products. Mr. Felix Bachemin, Farm Agent of the N. O. C. N. Ry. called attention to the fact that the farmers here in the past have depended on the timber industry for their living income, but that now conditions have changed. The timber is nearly gone and a very long period must be passed before financial returns can be obtained from reforestation; so that now it is necessary to make the farms more productive and self-supporting. He stated that the three railway systems entering this parish stand ready to assist in every way possible in advice to growers and aid in marketing their crops. He put special stress on the fact that our lands are ideally adapted to trucking and some general farm crops. A representative of the Southern Railway presented some remarks and advised that the Southern Railway had just made a reduction of 10 per cent on freight rates for farm products shipped by the railroad.

Mr. Eugene Neuhanser, of Slidell, said: "We merchants have awoke to the fact that farming is a necessity for this parish. We have to get prosperous farms and farmers or our businesses have to move out of the parish. We are near a city destined to be the greatest in the United States, but agriculture in this section has scarcely been touched, although this Penchartrain district has farming possibilities which should place it among the best and finest in this state. He put emphasis upon the need for drainage.

Mr. C. A. Everitt, banker of Slidell, told of the organization of the Farm Products Corporation there. Said he had purchased a building and converted it into a sweet potato storage house with a capacity of 12 to 15 thousand bushels. So far they had purchased only three thousand bushels and had those near through the drying process. They proposed to handle other trucking crops also.

Mr. H. B. Prudon, of Covington, was introduced as an experienced farmer. He urged the need of organization in behalf of the farmers, which would give them proper information concerning what to plant, how to plant, when to plant, and where to market. Mr. Bachemin replied that the government and state agricultural officials are being paid with taxpayers money to furnish this information, and whenever the people of the parish will get together and call for expert service it is available to them without cost.

Mr. Simmons, a merchant of Slidell, told of his experiences in the Mississippi trucking district. He illustrated by several instances how much more profitable is truck growing than the raising of staple crops. "We must go after the Police Jurors," he said, "and get a real farm agent and demonstrator, as that is the first step in the development of our farm resources."

Mr. Sonderegger, State Supervisor of Forestry, then addressed the meeting and stated that at the present time a greater revenue is derived from the lumber industry than from farming in this state, that this state is superior to others in the rapid growth of timber, that our laws favor (Continued on page 3)

LEGION BASKETBALL GAME.

The Robert H. Burns Post No. 16 of the American Legion formally opened the 1921-22 basketball season on Sunday, December 4th, by defeating the fast Alpha team from New Orleans, by a score of 18 to 11. The game was very fast and full of thrills and was a success financially, notwithstanding the biting cold weather that was in evidence. The game was a thriller throughout being featured by the all-round playing of the Legion team.

LEGION MEN ADDRESS ST. PAUL STUDENTS.

Through the initiative of the faculty, the St. Paul's boys were delightfully entertained last Thursday night. The program put up for the occasion was patriotic all the way through.

Mr. Edgar Douligny, veteran of the Great War, gave an altogether interesting and impressive lecture on the horrible scourge. The slides he used had been made with pictures taken by himself at the front. Mr. Douligny, as everybody knows, remained on the battlefield from the earliest part of August, 1914, up to the signing of the armistice. Speaking as he did, as an eye witness he could not fail to keep the youthful audience under a constant spell of utmost attention.

COURT OF APPEAL.

Court of Appeal was in session here this week, Judge Stephen D. Ellis, Judge Julian Mouton and Judge Paul Lesha being present. There were ten cases from Washington and twelve from St. Tammany parish to be heard.

PARISH MEDICAL SOCIETY WILL ASSOCIATE 3 PARISHES

Councillor Williams Here To Push Organization Meeting To Be Held

ST. TAMMANY, WASH., AND TANGIPAHOA

Election of Officers Followed by Dinner Spread At Gabe's Tavern

The regular meeting of the St. Tammany Parish Medical Society was held at the Southern Hotel Thursday evening, December 8th. The principal discussion of the meeting was malaria, as affecting St. Tammany parish. The opinion of physicians and the general remarks established conclusively that St. Tammany has little to fear from this malady, and the following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, numerous reports have been circulated by physicians and laymen of adjoining parishes that malarial fevers are prevalent in endemic form, in St. Tammany parish, and

Whereas, such conditions do not exist, as proven by a sanitary survey, conducted by members of this society, and

Whereas, vicious or erroneous charges of this character, born of prejudice, detract from St. Tammany parish as a health center.

Be it resolved, That the St. Tammany Parish Medical Society, in regular session assembled, whose members practice in every locality of said parish, denies the existence of malarial fevers within its borders, except those coming from other sections already intimated.

Be it further resolved, That this denial be given free publicity by insertion in the New Orleans and local press.

The forming of a Tri-Parish Medical Society was discussed and met warm approval, and it was decided to invite Washington and Tangipahoa parishes to join in its formation under the auspices of Dr. J. Lester Williams, who warmly advocated the measure. Dr. Williams is counselor for the Sixth District. The organization meeting will take place in Covington on January 12th.

The following officers were elected for 1922: President, Dr. A. G. Maylie; vice president, Dr. J. K. Griffith; secretary-treasurer, Dr. J. F. Bouquol; delegate to State Medical Society, Dr. R. B. Payne, of Mandeville; alternate, Dr. H. D. Bulloch.

This is the third term with which Dr. Maylie has been honored as president.

After the meeting the members and a few invited guests adjourned to Gabe's Tavern, where a delightful evening was spent over a dinner that was tempting in the extreme and well served.

Dr. Maylie presided at the dinner and Dr. Durel acted as toastmaster, performing the duties of this office with many happy remarks and a humor that was appreciated by all.

Every member was adorned with a white or red carnella, which were favors of the evening. Speech followed speech until the morning hours began to come in giving warning that the would be "a day after the day before" to mark this very enjoyable evening if there was not an adjournment.

An incident of the evening was the very high tribute paid to Dr. Durel by Dr. J. Geo. Dempsey, of Baton Rouge. He said that Dr. Durel stood out prominently as an exponent of the modern idea for treatment of consumption, in his preventive methods and classification especially, long before these measures were comprehended and appreciated by the profession.

The guests of honor were Dr. Lester, of Baton Rouge, state councillor for the sixth district; Dr. Homer Dupuy, of New Orleans, formerly president of the State Medical Society, and a man of very high standing in his profession; Dr. J. Geo. Dempsey, state registrar of vital statistics. The local guests were Lewis L. Morgan, Mayor Robt. W. Hadson, C. E. Schomburg, Oliver J. Hebert and H. H. Mason.

The members present were: Drs. A. G. Maylie, J. Durel, J. F. Bouquol, H. D. Bulloch, N. M. Hebert, R. B. Warren, H. E. Gautreaux, of Covington; R. B. Payne and W. E. Vanzandt, of Mandeville; Dr. Davidson, of Bogalusa; Drs. A. R. Singleton, J. K. Griffith, J. F. Folk, of Slidell, and Dr. C. F. Farmer, of LaCombe.

Dr. Griffith announced the very peculiar circumstance that every physician in St. Tammany parish was on that evening in Covington, excepting Dr. Pennington, of Madisonville, and Dr. Jones of Folsom, who was in New Orleans. However, no emergency cases were reported.

There never has been a meeting of the society in which there was such a unanimous expression of loyal sentiment and appreciation of the benefits of co-operation.

The following was the menu: Crisp Celery Tomatoes Mayonnaise Oyster Pattl Pompano on Toast Creamed Potatoes Turkey Oyster Dressing Boiled Rice a la Ragu Ice Cream Cake Cafe Noir Cigars

Another very pretty cardell is coming to this office from Slidell that of Mr. J. J. Dubuisson, staple and fancy grocer. It is neat in design and very pleasing to the eye.
