That's a peculiar question for us to ask, but we mean it.

There are people in this parish who have been suffering for life-time from their feet simply because they did not know what to do for them. We have arranged for a FREE demonstration with the Scholl Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of foot specialties and orthopedic appliances, at our store on Saturday, May 20,

when we will give demonstrations and instructions for the use of Dr. Scholl's Foot-eazer, Toe Flex, Tri-springs Arch, Heel Cushion, Bunion Reducer and Foot Powder.

We invite everybody to be here on the above date. You don't have to buy, but you will learn something about foot comfort that will make you feel grateful to us for having given you the opportunity of finding how to relieve that terrible ache and pain you have been undergoing all these years, when by just a little investigation it all could have been eliminated.

RELIGIOUS CONCEPTION.

The usual tranquility of St. Scholastica's was pleasantly interrupted by the joyful bells of the sacred nuptials of Misses Eloise and Ethel Blanchard, daughters of Mr. T. P. Blanchard, of Covington. Attired in filmy bridal robes, the fair young ladies entered the chapel attended by four little maids of honor, Mother Prioreess, the Sub-Prioreess and the Novice-Mistress.
The beautiful chapel was tastefully decorated with white lillies, ferns and electric lights. The investiture of the holy habit took place immediately before the High Mass. The short, though impressive ceremony was typical of the brevity of temporal pleasures, for within a brief half hour the bridal robes were discarded for the sombre, black garb of the Benedictine Order, and the orange blossoms and tulle veil for the plain white veil and coiffure of the novice.

Right Rev. Abbot Paul, O. S. B., of St. Joseph's Abbey, officiated at all the ceremonies, assisted by Rev. John Burger, O. S. B., and Rev. Bernard Keating, O. S. B., of St. Paul's College. Very Rev. Thos. J. Welton, C. M., of New Orleans, celebrated the Mass and delivered a very instructive and impressive sermon. Solemn benediction of the Blessed Sacrament concluded the ceremonies of the day.

After the choir elegantly rendered the beautiful hymn "Vocation" the happy young novices, who will henceforth be known to the world as Sister Mary Scholastica and Sister Mary Mechilde, received the good wishes and congratulations of their relatives and numerous friends.
