The steamer Sierra Nevada, Francis Connor, Commander, which sailed for Victoria and San Francisco, carried away one hundred and twenty passengers, and $211,200 shipped as follows: Wells, Fargo & Co., $180,000; Ladd & Tilton, $22,500; A. Rosenfield & Co., $5,200; Cohn, Lyon & Co., $3,500. Total—$211,200.

The Governor has approved the Special Contract Act passed by the Legislature, and it is now a law going into effect immediately.

Hon. Ben F. Hayden, Judge N. H. Cranor, John Burnett, Esq., Judge A. E. Wait and S. F. Chadwick, are addressing the Democracy at various points through the State. The meetings are well attended and very enthusiastic.

The work on the wagon road from Rogue River valley to the John Day mine, is nearly completed over the summit of the mountain. Henry Klippel and Jas. Pool had taken a load of supplies to the hands from Jacksonville.

The fruit crop in Rogue River valley has partly failed this year, but what there is of a superior quality.

Persons recently from Cañon City say large emigrant trains are continually coming in by that route, heading to the Dalles. One train of ninety-six wagons is reported.

The County Assessor of Linn county reports that there are 31,780 sheep in that county.

Rev. R. Wylie was installed pastor of the new Presbyterian Church in Corvallis on Saturday last. Rev. R. Robe preached the sermon, and Rev. E. K. Geary delivered the charge.

Gold has been discovered in Portland near College Hill, in the sinking of a deep well hole.

Mrs. Julia Dean Hayne is playing at the Dalles.

A five-stamp quartz mill is en route for the Santiam mines. It is intended for the "Gold Mountain Milling Co.," composed of a union of several mining companies. The mill will be operating by the first of November. A wagon road is being constructed from Quartzville to Pleasant Valley, a distance of forty miles, making a continued drive from Salem forty miles further.

John Van Buren.

A telegraph dispatch to the St. Joseph Herald says:

John Van Buren, the late eminent Republican leader in New York City, has come out for McClellan in a very vigorous letter. The following is its concluding paragraph. He says there are two men who obviously never will receive the sanction of the American people: they are Abraham Lincoln and Jeff Davis. The former has declared abolition of slavery an indispensable preliminary to propositions for peace. The latter avows that the Confederate States accept no alternative but independence or annihilation. With the former we have to deal with at the election. The latter must be left to the fortunes of war or the fate that the rebel States have in store for him. But unless we are prepared for a desolating war, and the slaughter, debt, taxation, and suspension of constitutional liberty attending it, Abraham Lincoln must be made to retire on the 21st of March next, and a President must be chosen in his stead who will consent to peace on the basis of the Union and the Constitution. Such a man is Gen. McClellan and I cannot allow myself to doubt that the people of the United States will call him to the discharge of this as well as all other grave duties that belong to the Chief Magistrate.

THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE.—The New York News says: The relative strength of the several States in the electoral college has been considerably changed since the last Presidential election by the decennial reapportionment. Maine had eight votes in 1860 and in 1864 will have but 7. Massachusetts also loses one falling from 13 to 12 votes; New York drops from 35 to 33; Pennsylvania loses one, Ohio loses two, and Kentucky loses one. Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas, Tennessee and Virginia will not be heard of in the electoral college. The vote of California will be increased from 4 to 5 votes; Iowa, which had 4 votes in 1860, will now have 8; Wisconsin will have 8 votes instead of 5; Michigan increases 1 vote, and Kansas, with 3 votes will be added to the college. The total number of votes to which these States are entitled is 226. A majority of this electoral college is necessary to an election, and that majority is 114 votes.

SALES OF MINING STOCK.—We clip from the S. F. Argus the following report of sales, Oct. 3d:

Morning Sales—Gould & Curry 1 foot at $1340. Potosi, 1 at $790. Ophir, 6 at $350, 1 at $365, 4 at $350. Moscow, 30 at 40, 10 at 45—s. 15. Blue Ledge, 20 at 2. Lady Bryson, 10 at $74. Imperial, 25 at 145. Pride of the West, 20 at 54. Legal Tenders, $15,000 at 53—s. 10.

GEO. H. PENDLETON, the Democratic candidate for Vice President, says the N. Y. Tribune, "is a gentleman of decided ability, liberal acquirements, and unstained private reputation. But he is anti-war Copperhead of the intensest shade." Another paper states that Mr. Pendleton married a daughter of the author of the "Star Spangled Banner,"—the late Francis S. Key, of Baltimore.

STAMPING.—Col. N. E. Whitesides in a speech in S. F. recently said:

He expected soon to hear that the bridegroom would be compelled to wear a stamp on his breast, before he could lead his bride to the altar, and that the first-born would also have to wear a stamp.

One of our exchanges says: We lately met a grammarian, who has just made a tour of the mines, cogitating

What the Rebels Think of It.

Washington, September 15. The Richmond Enquirer of the 12th inst., has a long editorial on the Chicago Convention. After a dissection of the platform, and Lincoln's and McClellan's conduct of the war, it then says thus:

Whether we look at the nomination in the light of peace or war, we prefer Lincoln to McClellan. We can make better terms of peace with an anti-slavery fanatic, than an earnest Unionist. We can gain more military success in a war conducted on any plan than one by a real soldier like McClellan.

The article goes on to say that confiscation and emancipation united the South, and that they were terrible ordeals, they insured their ultimate triumph. If reconstruction, says the Enquirer, were possible, it would be more probable under Gen. McClellan and Democracy than under Lincoln and Republicanism.

AN HONEST DEACON.—Deacon N— was an honest old codger, a kind neighbor, and a good Christian, believing in the Presbyterian creed to the fullest extent; but lackaday! the Deacon would occasionally get exceedingly mellow, and almost every Sunday at dinner he would indulge in his cider brandy to such an extent that it was with difficulty that he reached his pew in the broad aisle, near the pulpit, and the minister and village squire. One Sunday morning the parson told his flock that he would preach a sermon touching many glaring sins so conspicuous among them, and he hoped they would listen attentively and not flinch if he happened to be too severe.

The afternoon came, and the house was full—everybody turned out to see their neighbors "dressed down" by the minister, who, after opening his sermon, commenced upon the transgressors with a loud voice, with the question—

"Where is the drunkard?" A solemn pause succeeded the inquiry, when up rose Deacon N., his face red from the frequent draughts from his favorite drink and by steadying himself as well as he could by the pew rail, looked up and replied in a trembling and piping voice—

"Here I am!" Of course a consternation in the congregation was the result of the honest deacon's response; however, the parson went on with his remarks, as he had written them, commenting severely upon the drunkard, and closed by warning him to forsake at once such evil habits if he would hope for salvation and flee from the wrath to come.

"And now," asked the preacher, in his loudest tones, "where is the hypocrite?" A pause, but no one responded. Eyes were turned upon this man and that man, but the glances seemed to be directed to the squire's pew, and, indeed, the parson seemed to squint hard in that direction. The deacon saw where the shaft was aimed, and rising once more, leaned over his pew to the squire, whom he tapped on the shoulder and thus addressed him:

"Come, squire, why don't you get up? I did when he called on me."

A B'HoV.—A scrub-headed boy having been brought up before the court as a witness the following colloquy ensued:

"Where do you live?" said the Judge. "Live with my mother." "Where does your mother live?" "She lives with father." "Where does he live?" "He lives with the old folks." "Where do they live?" said the Judge, getting very red as a snicker goes around the room.

"They live't home." "Where in thunder is their home?" roars the Judge. "That's where I'm from," says the boy, sticking his tongue in one corner of his cheek, and slowly closing one eye on the Judge.

"Here, Mr. Constable," says the court, "take the witness out and tell him to travel; he evidently does not know the nature of an oath."

"You'd think different," says the boy, going towards the door, "if I was to give you a cussin'!"

THE LAST MAN.—Fighting to the "last man" is what a lady, in one of the newspapers, boldly objects to. She remarks, and in that sensible manner which is peculiar to the sex when it is a little excited: "What would be the country to me or any other woman if the last man were gone? What would it be if only the last man remained? Good gracious! what a pulling of caps and disarranging of ringlets there would be on his behalf! The troubles so comically portrayed by Hood, in his poem of 'The Last Man,' when the last man 'nimblely whipped his tackle out' and suspended to the gallow's tree his companion, leaving himself sole monarch of all he surveyed, were as nothing besides those the last man would have to endure if all the woman were still here, and individually, as well as en masse, insisted on masculine sympathy and consolation. But courage, mesamis! There is no danger of the last man being wanted as long as the last woman remains to plead for his exemption."

—[N. Y. Sunday Times.] WANTED A FURLOUGH.—A few months ago a high private of extraordinary dimensions lumbered into the presence of Gen. Thomas and asked for a furlough, adding, "General, I wish to go home and see my wife." "How long is it since you have seen your wife?" "Why!" he answered, "I haven't seen my wife for over three months." "Three months!" remarked Gen. Thomas—"three months—why I haven't seen my wife in three years."
