Hanalei Items

Last week Mr. and Mrs. fleox made a pleasant visit to Hanalei.

Mr. Quinn and Major Wooten of the U. S. Survey were at Hanalei this week to see about the harbor.

Mrs. Ridel and Miss Ridel have returned home. Mrs. Ridel from her visit with Mrs. White at Kilauea, and Miss Ridel from her trip to Honolulu.

The Hanalei valley road is in an unusually bad condition. There are deep holes here and there in the road which continue to get deeper and deeper as the rains and the travel continue; and if something is not done pretty soon people are liable to get out of sight, never more to be seen. If more sand had been put on the road before the bad weather began this deplorable condition would have been prevented. The only respectable stretch of the road is that which was sanded heavily before the rains set in.

Last Sunday while Mr. Menefoglio and Mr. Giacomette were out boar hunting Mr. Giacomette met with a painful accident. They had already caught one very large pig and had begun the chase after another, a smaller one, which ran into a ravine. Mr. Giacomette started down after the pig to catch it, but in holding to a shrub, which gave way, he fell six or seven feet on to a rock and hurt his back. Mr. Menefoglio went down after him, helped him up, and took him to the carriage, and then went and caught the pig.

While Mr. Giacomette was quite badly hurt, yet the injury was not so serious but that he was able to take the Noeau for Honolulu the following Friday, and a steamer from Honolulu for his home in Oloa, Hawaii, where he will resume his work as chemist. He had been spending his vacation with his old time friends, Mr. and Mrs. Menefoglio.

The W. G. Hall, arrived Friday morning, bringing foreign mail and passengers.

Leslie Wishard, son of Supervisor H. D. Wishard is home from Punahou for his vacation.
