

KENNEDY TELLS ABOUT I. I. S. N. CO.

James A. Kennedy, president of the I. I. S. N. Co., was before the Public Utilities Commission a few days ago to tell of the business and affairs of his shipping corporation. He gave an interesting outline of the difficulties experienced by the company in the past several years, and an insight into its plans at present for the future.

It was not until annexation, said Mr. Kennedy, that the two steamship lines then in operation among the islands became subject to governmental requirements. This brought about better accommodations and better equipment, including the employment of more capable men, and in 1899 the companies found it necessary to raise their freight rates in order to make expenses and at the same time gain a profit. Mr. Kennedy said that, prior to annexation, 10 per cent of the freight carried by the Inter-Island steamers was sugar for at this time the bulk of the cane product was carried from the other islands to Honolulu and then transhipped to the mainland. At the time of the amalgamation of the Wedder Steamship Company and the Inter-Island, all freight rates were reduced. Mr. Kennedy said, and then stated that, within his time, there has been no raise in freight rates. A material reduction in overhead expenses, due to the amalgamation, made this reduction possible, he said.

In speaking of the shipping of freight and the present rates thereon, Mr. Kennedy said that the company always has experienced considerable trouble in getting shippers to pack their merchandise economically, stating that space is the capital of the company, but the shippers do not seem to realize this.

Except for certain preference cabins on certain steamers, Mr. Kennedy said that the first class fair schedule of the company has remained unchanged since the passing of the monarchy. Better accommodations which were required by law, he said, caused the "deck" fares to be increased 50 cents following annexation, he said. Asked regarding labor costs, Mr. Kennedy stated that in 1913 the company paid more than $746,500 as ship's wages, an average of $62,000 a month.

Eleele News Notes

Miss de Lackner, nurse at Eleele Hospital, returned by the last boat from Honolulu after spending a very pleasant vacation.

Rain Helped Much

It is now stated that the rains of this winter will materially affect the sugar yield of the year on Kauai to the good. Yields, it is claimed, will exceed official estimates hitherto announced as high as fifteen per cent., which will make a very large increase in the total production of all estates.

Captain A. Soule, of the Hilonian, which was at Port Allen last week, was a sailing master out of Honolulu for many years, and left the sea to open what was known as The Kash clothing store, in Honolulu now the Clarion. He returned to his former occupation a short time ago.

They Still Deny

NEW YORK—That prices have not been fixed and methods of distributing products of the American Sugar Refining Company have not been dictated by any one, to his knowledge, since he became president last July, Charles D. Allen testified Monday in the government's dissolution suit against the company under the Sherman antitrust laws. If dictation existed, he said, it was without his knowledge or the authority of the board of directors. Mr. Allen was the first witness called by the defense upon the resumption of hearings in this city.

Ford In Manila

Clippings from Manila newspapers received on Kauai in the past few days tell of almost sensational progress being made by Alexander Hume Ford in organizing his Hands Around the Pacific movement in the land of the Tagalog. All nationalities out there appear to be taking to the movement like a duck to water; and the newspapers predict good results from it.

It has been announced definitely that the big Japanese steamship company, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, will establish a steamship line to run via Honolulu, and through the Panama canal to New York.

Hilonian Takes Sugar

The steamer Hilonian, arrived at Port Allen last Wednesday morning, bringing 450 tons of Coast and New York freight for merchants in that neighborhood. She sailed again at noon Thursday for Kaanapali, taking 1046 tons of sugar and 106 empty gasoline drums.

Hyades Coming

The freighter Hyades will be due to arrive at Port Allen next Monday from Seattle, via Honolulu. She will take sugar for the refinery in California.
