CHILDREN HAVE A PIANO RECITAL

Last Tuesday afternoon a piano recital was given by the little pupils of Miss Irene E. Smith's music class at the home of Mrs. Gustav Hansen, Waimea. Quite a long program was rendered containing duets, piano solos and part-songs; closing with the National Anthem, sung by the children and accompanied, in duet form, by Harwood Danford and Miss Smith, the audience joining heartily in the chorus.

Refreshments followed. The little performers were the Misses Dorothy and Olga Hansen, Miss Alexandra Knudsen, Miss Alvs Danford and Master Harwood Danford.

Among those present were: Mrs. T. Brandt, Mrs. W. Danford, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Knudsen, Mrs. Schultze, Mrs. Whittington, Miss Johnson, Mrs. Hansen, Miss Whittington, Mrs. Kruse, Mrs. Brandt (of Kekaha), Mrs. Alex. Lindsay and Rev. Mr. Milliken.

Kinau A Day Ahead

Inter-Island Steamship Company has sent out the following advices of immediate interest:

Please notify all Kauai people that next week our steamer "Kinau" will return to Honolulu one day ahead of regular schedule time, leaving Kauai on Friday, July 2nd, arriving at Honolulu Saturday morning.

We will arrange for our steamer "Likelike" to leave Nawiliwili Saturday afternoon, July 3rd, with mail and passengers.

Mrs. Dr. A. H. Waterhouse and children returned in the Kinau Wednesday morning to Koloa from a very pleasant visit to California.

GERMAN SUGAR IS CUT 20 PER CENT

F. O. Licht's report as of May 14 on conditions in Germany is as follows:

The past week brought a few good showers; on Friday in the south and east and yesterday and today in the south, west and north-west, the latter being quite local in character. Except for these showers the weather was generally dry and sunny with cold nights and field work suffered no marked delay. Beet seeding is practically finished and the first hoeing has commenced in some quarters. In spite of the cold nights the seed has sprouted satisfactorily and the early sowings are coming up well and marking the rows in many sections.

A rapid growth is however hindered for the present by the cool nights but on the whole progress is sufficient, and the former backwardness is not increasing. The wind and sun have dried the uplands excessively in some parts of central, north and east Germany, and penetrating, drenching rains are greatly desired. These have fallen in the northwest during the past few days, and it is hoped will spread to central and east German sections. An average decrease of 20 per cent in the size of the beet sowings is still expected.

Passengers In And Out

The following arrived at Lihue Friday morning from Honolulu:

A. Robinson, Mrs. A. Robinson, Miss E. Robinson, Chas. Gay, Mrs. James L. Friel and 3 children, Miss M. Wilcox, Warren Gregory, Donald Gregory, Dr. F. L. Putman, C. H. Dye, Mr. Cropp, F. C. Howes, T. Kumatsu.

Chas. Gay, of Lanai, came up on the W. G. Hall Friday morning to visit relations at Makaweli.

The Ideal Vacation.

What is your ideal vacation?

A little group of friends were discussing the vacation question the other evening. "If I could have just the vacation I would like," said the Housekeeper, "I would stay right here in my comfortable home; but I would do nothing whatever in the way of housework. I would lie in bed just as long as I wanted to in the morning. I would have my breakfast brought to me in bed if I felt like it. I would not know what was going to be served for meal, but I would just walk into the dining room and sit down to the table as if I were a guest. I would never give thought to sweeping or dusting or window-washing. If I could have a vacation like that, I think I would have the time of my life. I would like to have all the comforts of my home about me, but for a while not have to give a single thought to the running of it."

This started the little group to discussing the ideal vacation. "My ideal vacation," said the Business Woman, "would be to get on a boat and sail and sail and sail. I wouldn't care where I was going, just so I could keep on slipping over the water in the noiseless, steady way a boat does. I would want a stateroom to myself, so that when I wished to be alone, I could. And I would want my meals in my room or in the dining saloon as I preferred. Fortunately, I do not get seasick, and to me to rest and enjoy myself on a comfortable boat where I could lie in a steamer chair and watch people, or talk to them, or join in their amusements if I wished, or go off into my stateroom and be perfectly quiet when I wanted solitude, would be an ideal way to rest and enjoy myself. For my ideal vacation, I would take a dozen boat trips all in one."

"My ideal vacation," said the Outdoors Girl, "would be to get a little tent-house out in the desert, or a cabin in the mountain, and live there all by myself for a while."

"Oh, but you would be lonesome," chorused the crowd. "No I wouldn't. And I would love that absolute quiet. A tent-house in the desert where one would be practically living outdoors in that wonderful desert air and sunshine, with the opportunity to watch the wonderful desert coloring, and to study the interesting desert vegetation, would be a unique experience. Desert life is different from any other kind of life, the colors are magically beautiful and the flowers and plants are out-of-the-ordinary. You would seem to be living in a new world. But I would enjoy just as much a cabin in the mountains with a big, roaring fire at night, and the curtains all pulled down, and a cheery light and some books, and not a sound but the wind in the trees outside and maybe a mountain brook, and in the morning the sound of birds to wake one. I think that would be ideal."

"Wouldn't it be delightful if we could all have our ideal vacation? Perhaps we might have it, if we would make a little effort to bring it about. In some cases it might be only the effort of frankly stating what we would like. I have an idea if this housekeeper's family knew what she wanted in the way of a vacation, they would gladly plan to give it to her. But she is so tender hearted she does not want any of them to think that she gets tired of doing for them. And so for a vacation the family usually go to some seashore place and take a cottage and she goes on housekeeping. The change of location is sufficient change for the rest of the family; but they seem to overlook the fact that this brings little change for the housekeeper. Housekeeping is the same, whether in a seashore cottage or at home. Indeed it may mean more vexatious work in a rented house where conveniences are not such as the housekeeper has in her own home. But without doubt, did the family know what her ideal vacation if they would give it to her.

As for others of us who have special longings, couldn't we, with a little planning and determined effort, achieve these vacations? And if it would really mean a lot to us to realize our ideal in this matter, why not make the effort?

At any rate, let's ponder a bit this matter of our ideal vacation and see if it is not possible to make it an actuality this summer.
