VALUED GIFTS TO THE HIGH SCHOOL

A fully equipped Victrola with a fine collection of records, ordered especially for use in schools, has been presented to the High School by Mr. and Mrs. William Hyde Rice.

The records include a number of marches for drilling and marching, and accompaniments for singing the patriotic songs of the nation.

The gift is one that will be very useful to the school and meets a real need. This is but one of the many ways in which the donors have shown their interest in the school and have helped in making its work successful.

Five new pictures, purchased from the Lihue School Christmas fund, were received last week. On Monday morning, Miss McIntyre gave a very interesting talk to the students about the pictures and artists who painted them. Miss McIntyre spoke of each artist, telling the more interesting facts of his life and the quality of his work. She then pointed out the artistic value of each picture and explained the subject treated. The pictures were: Aurora, The Angels, The Bridge of Sighs, Poems From Homer, and The End of the Trail.

LADIES WILL NOW HAVE TOURNAMENT

The termination of the Wall & Dougherty cup tournament does not mean that the game is to be allowed to lag, at least not yet awhile.

Entries in two tournaments are now open to the lady players of the island, one of which is to be a ladies' doubles and one a ladies' singles. The prize for the former event will consist of a pair of tennis rackets and for the latter of a silver cup, both of which are presented by Mrs. Hans Isenberg.

There are many lady players on the island and a large entry list may be expected. Three teams in doubles and a possible seven entries, for singles, have so far been heard of in Lihue, it being yet too early for reports from other parts of the island.

The Lihue Tennis Club will handle arrangements until a permanent tournament committee has been organized.

A bunch of travelling salesmen arrived by the Kinau, among them being: D. B. Maconachie, A. B. Lambert, W. T. Frost, P. A. Gorman and J. A. R. Vieira, the latter of the Vieira Jewelry Co.

Dentist Also Needed

Says the Kohala Midget:

It has been, and is still is the custom, that a doctor shall visit every school at least once every school term to vaccinate the school children; but the time has come when a dentist ought to be paid to visit every school once every term, and inspect the children's teeth, as a good number of absences are caused by the children having bad teeth.

I am sure that some of the dentists are willing to give a half of a day each month, or term, gratis, to inspect and report to their parents the condition of the school children's teeth, with such recommendations or comments as may be necessary, so that the parents may know then what to do.

Will not our next Legislature see that something is done in this respect, and a law passed providing a dentist, or dentists, to undertake the work and be paid the same as the doctors who do the vaccinating? Who will "start the ball rolling?"

The Next War.

There never will be another great war say some. The loss from the present conflict both in lives and property has been too appalling for such forces ever to be permitted to be turned loose again upon the world. But while such forces can be turned loose at the word of one man or a group of men, there is no surety that the catastrophe may not happen again, not only once but many times.

To prevent this the best minds abroad—those that are left—and our best thinkers at home are saying that we need another war and that we need to start it right now.

But it will not be a war such as this has been, but a moral and mental war, a war to prevent war. And it should be waged against those responsible for the present conflict, the enemies within the borders of each country who sacrifice their fellow countrymen for greed or ambition.

Discussing this next war, the war that should be commenced at once, a noted French writer says:

"Who has brought these plagues upon them" (the nations at war) "brought them to the desperate alternative of overwhelming their adversary or dying? None other than their governments, on whom, in my opinion, the guilt rests: the three rapacious eagles, the three empires, the torturous policy of the house of Austria, the ravenous greed of Russia, the brutality of Prussia. The worst enemy of each nation is not without, but within its frontiers, and none has the courage to fight against it."

No one indeed at the outbreak of the present conflict had the courage. Here and there a solitary individual lifted his voice and tried to rally his countrymen to the true colors. But he was cried down or not listened to. In the tumult and confusion and clash of arms, his protest was unheeded. Every one must rush to fight the enemy from without. This was patriotism. To point to an enemy within was cowardice or treachery.

This new war will be a stiffer fight than the conflict that has been raging for more than a year. It will require more persistence, more patience, more fortitude, more brains. Firing off guns, rushing at each other with bayonets, is easy compared with battling with prejudice, ignorance, self-interest. It will take years to wage this fight. The campaign will need to ramify in many directions. It means starting the children with right views and watching eternally that they are not switched off by the enemy. It means rousing those people to an active interest in governmental affairs who now give little thought to them or take little part in them. It means enduring taunts and jibes and ridicule and misrepresentation. It means being called a traitor to the very land one would most truly serve. It is much easier to go out and battle with bayonets and guns than it is to make this sort of fight.

But looking back to what has been and looking forward to what can be—to the steady growth of prosperity and happiness when war shall be no more, isn't it a cause worth enlisting in? And isn't the need imperative to begin right now?

We can perhaps do little for the countries abroad. They will have to right themselves and it will be a slow and feeble progress, so terrible has been the devastation. But we can enlist in this warfare against war so that our own country can never be drawn into such idiocy, such wanton waste, the advocacy of might instead of right, of rifles instead of reason. And in doing this, we will indirectly help our less fortunate brothers and sisters abroad. For, seeing the peace and prosperity here, the happy homes, the whirring factory wheels, the fields of grain, the orchards of fruit, their eyes will turn longingly to the picture and their hearts hunger for the principles of government that make such condition possible. If we fight the good fight for peace and stand as a big and successful nation that maintains peace, not by reason of standing armies and big navies, but because we believe that a nation as well as an individual should settle disputes by law and not by the fist, that what is right should be done and not what may be achieved by the power of might, we will help indirectly toward the furtherance of peace abroad.
