

ARTISTIC.

Few people realize how much of the artistic instinct enters into the creation of a thoroughly stylish though "somewhat different" tailor made suit. A style may be of the latest and yet not precisely like every other one in town. It is the ability to make out "somewhat different" that has earned us our reputation as Leading Tailors.

Our Suit Clubs at $1 per week are very popular.

WE BELIEVE

that purchases of groceries are made to fill certain needs, and that quality must actually have the largest share of attention. Price is and should be made subordinate until one's judgment approves the quality. The quality once fixed, then buy as low as it can be bought. This is our theory in buying. We have carefully graded the price on our entire stock, but not a single article is of poor quality. Each steamer from the Coast brings us new fresh goods.

If your Purse Leaked

You'd stop that leak instantly. How about your house? Is there any leakage there? A house is really a purse with lots of money in it. This wet weather is hard on your roof, and unless properly looked after every cent's worth will leak out. Better see me now.

Crazy Competition

is the ruin of all business enterprise. People cut prices to get trade because they can't get it any other way. A good mechanic can command and get a fair price for honest work. My standard of work and prices are the same as they have been for the five years I have been in business here.

I don't claim to know it all and don't want it all, but just take this opportunity to let the public know that the old stand is still open at 231 King street, opposite the Arlington Hotel.

Hawaiian Electric Company.

The cleanest, brightest safest and really in the long run, the cheapest and best light for use in the family residence, is the incandescent electric light. Safe; nothing could be safer. A few days ago a prominent gentleman of Honolulu came rushing down to the office of the Electric Company and said: "Give me figures for wiring my house, and I want it done at once; no more lamps for me. Last night a lamp tipped over and it came so near setting fire to the house and burning my children and I take no more risks." This is the sentiment of quite a number in the past few weeks, who have ordered their houses fitted with the perfect light. Just think it over and make up your mind that you want the best and safest light; send for the Hawaiian Electric Company and tell them what you want.

PAUL LAWRENCE DUNBAR

NEGRO POET GETS A POSITION IN WASHINGTON.

Works in the Congressional Library—Sketch of His Career—He is Lionized in England.

Paul Lawrence Dunbar, the young colored poet, who was made something of a literary lion in England, says an exchange, is at the Congressional Library, where he was recently appointed to a position by Librarian John Russell Young. He is an attendant in the reading room.

Dunbar possesses the typical African features, but has a pleasant face and a forehead infinitely better developed than the majority of his race. He is dark in color. He is modest and speaks with no suspicion of elation. He speaks remarkably well. His age is twenty-five years, though he looks older.

"I went to London simply to read, more than anything else," he said in a recent interview, "but while I was over there I published my 'Lyrics of Lowly Life,' which had been hitherto published here, and the foreign edition is much better than the American one."

"I lectured several times in London before a number of representative audiences, and was much gratified in the manner in which my efforts were received. I was entertained by one club, and felt rather proud of the fact as the one who was given a reception previous to my appearing there was Explorer Nansen. I did not attempt to write anything much as I was exceedingly busy all the time. I was under the patronage of Col. Hay, and my greatest friend while I was over there was I. Zangwill, who is well known as a literateur in America. I lectured at Paderewski hall in London, among others, I found that there was no distinction made in England because I was a negro. I was treated exceptionally well by the correspondents of American journals over in that country."

Dunbar stated that literary work was not nearly so well paid for in England as in the United States. A guinea for a contribution is deemed ample pay, he said, and he cited the case of a rising young writer, who wrote two pages for a periodical, and received in return, after waiting a year or more for the contribution to be published, a half guinea.

The representative singer of his race in America is a native of Dayton, O., where he was educated in the public schools. His parents were slaves, being owned at one time by the celebrated Venable family of Kentucky. The father managed to escape to Canada, and returned to Ohio when freed by the war.

Dunbar first published a poem in one of the Dayton papers, when he was 12 years of age. This attracted some attention, and he continued to write ever since. He is probably best known by his dialect verse, although he is probably prouder of his prose stories, and takes the greatest interest in them.

Two of the poet's latest contributions were published in the Century and the Bookman. His home at the Library will enable him to do a large amount of literary work, he hopes.

A LITTLE CAKE TALK.

Cake is cake; yes, sir; just as water is water. Some is good; some very good; some past description—bad. Some cakes you buy are made in an indifferent manner, of poor material and flavored with what? You can taste the Asiatic maker and his cigar or cigarette at the first bite. Why not buy a good article from a clean, well conducted shop, where tobacco is never used and where cleanliness is practiced to an extent almost unknown in the average bakery. We will make you a layer cake from 50 cents up, tastefully ornamented, and guaranteed good to eat. Our ginger snaps and ginger bread are selling like hot cakes. Have you tried them yet? Yours,
