A SANDWICH THROUGH A BABY ATHLETIC AT EIGHT AND A HALF MONTHS.

What Physical Culture Has Done for the Child of Prof. Stagg of Chicago University.

Alonso A. Stagg, Jr., son of Professor A. A. Stagg, director of athletics at the University of Chicago, says a Chicago correspondent of the New York Sun, is a miniature Sandow. He is a baby eight and a half months old, and has had a course of physical training since he was four weeks old. From that time the baby has been able to stand erect, balancing himself on his father's hand held at arm's length. He swings from a trapeze bar by his hands like an athlete. He can lie flat on his back and put his big toe in his mouth. He can lie flat on his back and rise to a sitting posture himself by his feet or elbows. This is done entirely by using the abdominal muscles, and is beyond the power of nine men out of ten. The Stagg baby is probably the strongest child of his age in the world.

A. A. Stagg, Jr., is the only child of his parents, and he started in life with physical equipment a little below rather than above the ordinary.
"At four weeks old," says Professor Stagg, "the baby weighed just what he did when he was born. He hadn't grown a bit. He had had a spell of illness, and at the time we had a much idea that he would live through it. Well, when I saw the fight the little fellow was having, it occurred to me that perhaps I could help him. That is the way his athletic training began."

Today Alonso Jr. weighs twenty-one pounds, and at twelve months he will probably tip the scales at twenty-four pounds. Twenty-two pounds is the weight of the average baby at a year old.

To hear of this baby's thletic prowess is to imagine a pugnacious, oversized child, or at least a boy something out of the ordinary at first sight. Stepping into the nursery Professor Stagg came back with a small bundle of humanity hugged up in his arms. The baby was laughing and kicking and wore a white dress and pink wool socks.
"There now," said Professor Stagg, "tossing the little fellow down unceremoniously on a leather couch.
Instantly Alonso Jr. righted himself and looked around. His eyes are big and peculiarly bright; his head long from front to back. But the most striking thing about the little fellow is his alertness. His whole body is alert, and he holds himself with an air of confidence and self-reliance. He is not afraid of anything. Strange sights and sounds interest him. He appears to be a unit instead of a duality. For example a paper weight is shoved off the table with a bang. Instantly, with three times the mental or physical ability of a fencer, the child responds. He starts, he peers around curiously, he leans at the very moment the sound is made. Seizing a small stick his father held it up on a level with the baby's eyes. Alonso Jr. enjoys nothing so much as going through his gymnastic feats. He grasped the bar and held it in the grip of his chubby hands as much as to say, "All right, ready!" His father raised the rod and swung it back and forth vigorously.
The baby drew up his feet a little, threw his head back and hung on without without difficulty. Then the father picked the baby up and stood him on his hand, holding him out at arm's length. Professor Stagg tossed the boy up and down lightly, raising him nearly to the ceiling. Alonso Jr. balanced himself easily, standing erect on his sturdy, straight legs and laughing as if he enjoyed it thoroughly.

"Since he was four months old," said Professor Stagg, "he has gone through this performance six days in the week.
He accomplished it successfully at the first trial, except that I held my hand close to me and watched carefully to save him from a fall."
"Was that the first exercise you gave the youngster?" asked the visitor.
"It was massage, properly speaking," answered Professor Stagg. "You see that, as a matter of fact, the ordinary baby gets very little exercise. He is handled with care, fed and put to sleep.
I determined to give every muscle a little exercise daily (for as I said, the baby was not growing at all. I commenced by rubbing him all over. I kneaded his body, worked his arms and legs and accustomed him to a few knocks. See there now," and the professor gave the young athlete a succession of righthand punches in the abdomen, the baby standing erect on the couch and laughing as if he derived a great deal of fun from the punishment. "I first noticed an improvement in the muscles of the neck. In a very short time he could hold his head erect. One day, when he was between four and five months old I put him down on the floor, wondering if he would try to walk of his own accord. He struck out at once bravely, lifting his feet at each step as far as possible from the floor.
It looked quite comical. He worked his legs up and down precisely as I had been accustomed to exercising them for him."

Alonso Jr. is a first rate pedestrian now at eight and a half months, but is not allowed to walk oftener than twice a week.
A very noticeable result of Baby Stagg's physical training is his finely developed sense of touch and sight. He does not reach for things in the aimless and futile way of ordinary babyhood.
He knows just which way to strike for a marble or a card held in front of him, and makes no attempt to get it when it is out of reach.

SALVATION ARMY.
Officers and Members Doing Relief and Sanitary Work.

The Salvation Army is doing its part in the general work of relief and sanitation. Captain Lottie Mathis, whose services were accepted by the Board of Health last week, was assigned to duty at the Drill shed detention camp on Sunday. She, with Miss Bushfield of the Peniel Mission are the only white women among the hundreds of Asiatics at this camp.

Major Wood and Captain Bessie Mills, in addition to their regular Salvation Army duties are acting as sub-inspectors for the Citizens' Sanitary Committee. Five Salvation Army men are members of the National Guard and have been on duty since the guard was called out.

unteers for South Africa.

KOBE, January 11.—The Japanese papers report that the Natal authorities propose to extend the manufacture of arms and ammunition. The factory at Kure is the only place in Japan where the manufacture of heavy arms is carried on. It having been decided to augment the manufacture of quick-firing guns of 15 c.m. and larger calibres, the number of factory hands, which is at present 3900, is shortly to be increased by some 4400 with a corresponding increase of engineers and experts. The staff of the Kure arsenal, which consists of 4500, is also to be increased to 7500.

SHANGHAI, January 6.—It is stated in the Odessa Press that 10,000 troops will shortly leave there in order to reinforce the Russian garrison in the Far East. The first detachment was to sail on December 2. The dispatch of convoys by the Volunteer Fleet will be abolished from January 1.

YOKOHAMA, January 13.—A fire broke out at midnight of the 24th ult. on Kodushime, a small island off Izu province, destroying 250 houses. The place is a small fishing village containing but 210 houses, originally. Great distress prevails there.

On the night of the 1st inst. forty-five houses were destroyed by fire at Shinjuku, a suburb of Tokyo. No loss of life is reported, the only casualty happening to a fireman, who was slightly injured.

At daylight on the morning of the 4th inst. a destructive fire broke out in the town of Kakegawa, Totomi, destroying one hundred and sixty-nine houses, including the Police Station, Hospital and many other large buildings. The Post Office and Courthouse were saved.

HONGKONG, January 11.—A Telegraph representative made enquiries this morning concerning the offer recently made by the Hongkong Volunteers to provide 50 men fully equipped for active service. He was informed that the men were still eager and willing to go to South Africa, but that at the present time it was impossible to obtain guns and ammunition, all the available stores in England being utilized by the Regulars.
